HUGE BUSINESS AID BILLS NEAR FINAL PASSAGE

Reconstruction and Land Banks Measures Are Being Rushed.

EXPECTED TO REACH HOOVER DURING WEEK

Conferences on Differences Begin Today; Relief to Start by Sunday.

(Associated Press.)

Congress will get the first two and most important pieces of the emergency economic relief measures to President Hoover this week.

Millions for the Nation's financial institutions and agriculture will be pouring out of the Treasury before next Sunday for assistance which Democrats and Republicans on Capitol Hill have joined in enacting to speed better times.

Conferences will be begun today to adjust differences between the Senate and House on the bills authorizing the $2,000,000,000 reconstruction finance corporation and recapitalization of the Federal Land Banks.

President Hoover is ready to put each into immediate operation. He is seriously considering Eugene Myer, governor of the Federal Reserve Board and veteran relief administrator, to direct the gigantic reconstruction corporation. Bernard M. Baruch, of New York, is regarded as a certain Democratic member of the corporation and possible chairman.

Congress to Continue Efforts.

The economic-minded Congress, which has kept steadily to the task so far of seeking to improve the national business and agricultural situation, will go right ahead on the emergency legislative program, but some difficulty confronts other proposals advanced by Mr. Hoover.

Hearings will be resumed in both the Senate and House this week on the measures to establish a home loan banking system and to create a Government corporation for the relief of closed bank depositors. A lot of discussion is ahead on each.

Meanwhile, the House will have opportunity to test out its promised economy plans on the first of the regular appropriation bills. The measure supplying funds for next year's operation of the Agriculture Department is about ready to be reported from committee.

Senate Facing Relief Row.

A real relief row is impending on the LaFollette-Costigan measure in the Senate to appropriate $375,000,000 for direct unemployment aid—a step firmly opposed by the President. This measure in all probability will reach the Senate floor in the next six days.

The vital tax increase legislation will not get to the House until February 1, and plenty of dispute is ahead on this controversial legislation.

All in all, Congress is going to keep right on the stupendous economic avenue. There will be interludes of political fireworks from time to time, but the more serious job of relieving unemployment and getting money into the pocketbooks of the people will have right of way.

The House judiciary committee will conclude, within a day or two, the hearings on charges by Representative Patman (Democrat), Texas, for impeachment of Secretary Mellon.

The House agriculture committee will start hearings on legislation to curb short selling operations on the Stock and Grain Exchanges.

Fatal Crash Cuts Radio Power Line

Station WJSV Silent After Auto Hits Pole, Killing One Occupant.

A man was fatally injured and three others hurt when their car crashed into a telephone pole on the Richmond highway at Ingleside, 4 miles south of Alexandria, last night, cutting off the power supply of Radio Station WJSV, forcing that station off the air for the remainder of the night.

Howard Catum, colored, driver of the car, was pronounced dead at Fort Humphreys Hospital, where he was taken. Champion Coleman, colored, 32, of 322 Twenty-second street northwest, was seriously injured. Robert Dodson and Mooney Burns, who with Catum are said to reside in Arlington County, were slightly injured.

The accident was said to have happened when Catum lost control of the car which swerved and crashed into the pole. The pole supported also power lines to the broadcast station at Mount Vernon Hills, which was sending forth a program by remote control.

The station went dead at 9:26. It was expected by officials of WJSV that the lines would be repaired in time for today's broadcasting.

15th Century Mexican Tomb Gives Up Riches

Government Archaeologist Asserts Finds Near Oaxaca Most Important Ever Made in North America; Morrow Aided Hunt.

Mexico City, Jan. 17 (A.P.).—A Mixtecan tomb, just uncovered near the city of Oaxaca, was revealed today to be a veritable storehouse of historical and material treasures from the fifteenth century of Mexican civilization.

Alfonso Caso, chief of the government's archaeological mission, reported the sepulchre represents the richest and most important discovery ever made in North America, and rivals—historically and intrinsically—the tomb of King Tut-Ankh-Amen in Egypt. The excavations produced more valuable relics, he said, than similar work in the Mayan ruins in Yucatan.

The tomb, which is at Monte Alban, contained among other things the bodies of ten Mixtecan warriors covered with mementoes of gold, jade, pearl, amethyst and alabaster, some of which were finely carved and of great beauty.

The chiefs apparently were killed in battle, he said, and were buried with all their wealth in great secrecy during a bloody conflict with the Zapotecan people, who eventually wrested their land from them.

Three Zapotecan vases were found broken at the entrance to the mausoleum, but all the other finds were intact in spite of the great damage caused by earthquakes in Oaxaca for centuries.

Among the valuables uncovered were several crowns of pure gold, beautifully wrought relics of gold, pearls as large as pigeon eggs, jade necklaces, rings of gold and precious stones, vases of gold, rock crystal, onyx and alabaster—engraved with hieroglyphics, and a golden mask described as the most unusual and valuable thing of its kind ever found.

The finds have been transferred to the vaults of the Bank of Mexico in Oaxaca City, and Raygadas Vertiz, director of Mexican archeology, has gone to the scene with a crew of ex-

JOHN W. LANGLEY DIES IN KENTUCKY

Former Congress Member Went to Atlanta on Dry Law Charge.

Pikeville, Ky., Jan. 17 (A.P.).—John W. Langley, whose span of 69 years took him from a mountain cabin in the hills of Kentucky to Congress and then into a Federal penitentiary, is dead.

The "great friend of the mountains" died at his home here today after an illness of three days. Pneumonia was the cause.

Langley, who boasted he "never missed an opportunity to defend our beloved mountains," was elected representative from the Tenth Kentucky District ten times, once while his appeal on a conviction of conspiracy to violate the national prohibition laws was pending. When he finally stepped out of public life he was succeeded by his wife, Mrs. Katherine Langley.

He was convicted in 1925 of conspiracy to draw and illegally sell 1,400 cases of bonded liquor from the Belle of Anderson distillery at Lawrenceburg, Ky. His appeal failed and he entered the Atlanta Penitentiary on January 19, 1926. He served 11 months, being released on parole December 18. A few days later he was granted full pardon and his citizenship was restored by President Coolidge.

Langley always claimed he was "framed" in the liquor conspiracy case. "Stabbed in the back," he termed it, "by men I've helped along in life." He said the evidence in his

Army Planes Drop Rations to Indians

Take 10,800 Pounds to Snowbound Navajos in Arizona.

Winslow, Ariz., Jan. 17 (A.P.).—Six Army bombing airplanes from March Field, Calif., took the air today in a mission of mercy to snowbound and suffering Navajo Indians of this district.

By noon 10,800 pounds of rations had been dropped at widely separated points and the work continued.

The hungry and shivering red men rushed eagerly to each spot the instant the bundles of provisions struck the snow-covered earth. The parcels were torn open with ravenous haste and their contents distributed among the tribesmen. Officials said that delivery of additional supplies will be slower henceforth as the more remote settlements are visited.

U. S. CITIZEN, GANDHI FRIEND, LOSES POST

Quits College Office in India Under Pressure; Is Asked to Leave Country.

Lucknow, India, Jan. 17 (A.P.).—G. B. Halstead, American missionary, resigned his post of social director at the Lucknow Christian College today under pressure from the government because of his sympathy for Mahatma Gandhi's struggle for Indian independence.

Mr. Halstead's political views and activities were held to be obnoxious to the government, which suggested it would be better if he left India.

Accordingly the missionary said he would leave soon, with his wife and child, for the United States.

As soon as his resignation became known, students at the college declared a "hartel," or period of mourning, and refused to attend the college.

Karachi, India, Jan. 17 (A.P.).—A "Buy Indian League" has been organized in Karachi to encourage swadeshi (home manufactures).

Nearly 100 prominent Hindu, Moslem and Parsee merchants, bankers, doctors, and insurance agents attended a meeting of the league today.

Its president, Lala Kaswantrai, said the league was in no way political, but merely was an attempt to promote the same object as the governments of "all self-governing countries" were trying to achieve.

If, however, the Indian government took exception to the league's activities, he said, the members would have to be prepared to face the consequences.

The British government's repressive campaign in India now is directed partly toward putting down a boycott of foreign goods.

American Girl Becomes Gandhi Cause Convert

London, Jan. 17 (U.P.).—Nila Cram Cook, described as "a beautiful American girl," has become a devoted disciple of the Mahatma Gandhi, Indian Nationalist and religious leader, the Daily Express correspondent at Bombay reported tonight.

Mrs. Cook, who is separated from her husband, a Greek aristocrat, is living at Kashmir, the dispatch said. She had intended to take an oath of chastity and to meet Gandhi at Benares, but the arrest of the mahatma prevented this. However, she said she planned to be baptised in the River Ganges and proclaim her adherence to the Hindu faith.

Essay Contest Is Indorsed By Leader in Girls' Work

Mrs. Amos A. Fries Praises Helpful Influence to Her Children Who Are Learning of Washington's Life Through Work in Competition.

"As the mother of children I most heartily indorse The Post Washington Essay Contest," declared Mrs. Amos A. Fries, wife of Maj. Gen. Fries, U. S. A., retired, last night, "and my young people are planning to enter the contest. Our home has become the center of interesting conversation about George Washington, his life, his time and his place in history since the contest began and I feel that other Washington mothers are sharing the delightful experience with me."

Mrs. Fries, who is prominent in patriotic endeavors, particularly the American Legion Auxiliary and the D. A. R., is a writer of ability and versed in historical matters. She praised the general scheme of the contest.

"The Post contest is eminently fair because it permits children of various age groups to contest with their equals, as it were. I am sure that the Girl Scouts of the District, in which I have an abiding interest, having served on the District council for some years, will enter the contest. The mere writing of the essay is in itself valuable training, but back of that should stand the hours of serious research into the story of Washington. I urge upon the young people entering the contest that they give adequate preparation to their essays. This is the bicentennial year of Washington and one of the greatest honors, I feel, that could come to my children would be to win a Post Washington Essay prize.

"The Post's generosity in distributing $1,000 among the prize winners is greatly to be commended," concluded Mrs. Fries. "Boys and girls are seldom permitted to participate in contests offering such substantial rewards, and, judging from what I

ANTISALOONIST SPEAKERS FLAY CAUSE OF WETS

HIGH TRIBUTE PAID TO BISHOP CANNON

League Adopts Resolution Terming Churchman as "Great Champion."

If "the United States Government goes into the liquor business, Uncle Sam will necessarily become the bartender for 120,000,000 people," declared Senator Arthur Robinson (Republican), of Indiana, yesterday speaking before the biennial convention of the Antisaloon League.

"You would have to put the flag over every grog shop in the land and that would desecrate it. Prohibition was written into the Constitution after 133 years of liquor, there to remain for all time to come," Senator Robinson went on.

"If a State goes into the business and controls it, each and every bartender becomes a public official, and wouldn't that become a pretty mess? Any central selling place would be a saloon, regardless of what it was called, and if the eighteenth amendment is repealed, it will be the return of the saloon," Senator Robinson said.

Bishop Cannon Praised.

Representative C. E. Moore (Republican), Ohio, joined Senator Robinson in opposing State control, modification or repeal.

The league adopted a formal resolution describing Bishop James Cannon, jr., as "a great champion of freedom of conscience and intellect, a protector of the independence of the franchise."

The tribute to Bishop Cannon, written by O. S. Poland, of Boston, said only the resolution of the Southern Methodist clergyman and his sacrifice "stands between thousands of independent voters and social ostracism, financial ruin, serious physical harm."

Later Poland explained that this portion of the resolution referred to Bishop Cannon's refusal to permit names of many associated with him in the campaign against Smith to become known and said further, "He is not trying to protect himself by refusing information. He is protecting many who worked with or for him."

Attacks Referendum.

Antiprohibition proposals before the House judiciary committee "would eventually cause the saloon to return," Representative Moore said.

"You know there is no such a thing as a referendum," he went on. "It is unfair to try to make a people think there can be a referendum. There is no way for candidates to go to a convention and voice the opinion of the people."

"Conditions are growing steadily better. People who talk about re-

Sensible Spending Now Called Thrift

Hoover Points to Value of Wise Expenditures for Future Needs.

New York, Jan. 17 (A.P.).—Advocating a policy of sensible spending as well as saving, the national thrift committee launched "National Thrift Week" today. The following letter was received from President Hoover by J. Robert Stout, of the committee:

"My dear Mr. Stout:

"Thrift is not hoarding. It is the wise provision against future needs.

"Provision against future needs involves savings and wise spending for insurance, home ownership and many other constructive, sensible and discriminating actions. Thrift week, appropriately beginning on Benjamin Franklin's Birthday, January 17, can contribute to the realization of these concepts. I trust that it may help to realize these timely and necessary objectives.

"Yours faithfully,

"HERBERT HOOVER."

Father Cox Boom For '32 Launched

Pittsburgh, Jan. 17 (A.P.).—An effort to rally the Nation's unemployed back of a presidential boom for the Rev. James R. Cox, was launched by friends of the Pittsburgh clergyman tonight.

The executive committee, which aided the fiery pastor of Old St. Patrick's Catholic Church in mapping his jobless "march" on Washington, will meet within the next few days, after communicating with leaders in the various States.

Father Cox said "There is no law in the Catholic Church which prohibits a priest from running for public office and I shall accept the nomination of the Jobless party if the honor is offered me."

Bishop Huch C. Boyle declined to comment.

BAKER PLEDGES FOR WHITE AND HALTS DISCORD

Ohio Democrats to Back Governor at Chicago, Clevelander Says.

PARTY DIFFERENCES SAID TO BE SETTLED

Delegation Will Be "Free From Control," However, Leader Asserts.

Cleveland, Ohio, Jan. 17 (A.P.).—Party harmony in Ohio Democratic ranks, threatened by a fight to pledge Ohio's convention delegates to Newton D. Baker, has been bulwarked by Baker himself, it became known here today.

Baker, who has repeatedly and publicly said he will not seek the presidential nomination, today issued a statement announcing that "all differences of opinion have been reconciled," and that Ohio's delegates will go pledged to Gov. George White, but "free from any sort of control."

"In the interest of party harmony," Baker's statement said, "I have had conferences with Mr. Brunner, chairman of the State committee, the Hon. Martin L. Davey and others, and am happy to say that all differences of opinion have been reconciled.

Pledged to White.

"It is now agreed on all hands that the delegation to the Democratic national convention from Ohio shall be selected without a view to personal preferences and shall be pledged to Gov. White as its first choice.

"It is further understood that the delegation will be free from any sort of control."

A rift in party harmony in the State was forseen by observers in the growing difference of opinion between members of the State executive committee and the faction represented by former Representative Davey.

Center of Storm.

Mr. Davey initiated the "Draft Baker" movement in Ohio and has threatened to put up a slate of Baker delegates in every Ohio district where it appeared White delegates would not have preference for Baker.

Baker became the unwilling center of a factional storm which threatened a definite split in the party's State organization. Faced by the alternative of reversing his position and becoming a candidate and thus embarrassing White, or mending the rift, Baker brought both factions together in a harmony move.

His present pronouncement, the first definite word from him on party affairs in the current campaign, does not jeopardize his position of not seeking the Democratic nomination.

Minnesotan Urges Smith As Nominee After Visit

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 17 (A.P.).—James R. Bennett jr., of St. Cloud, for half a century active in Democratic politics in Minnesota, returned today from the East and announced he would start a campaign to obtain a Minnesota delegation, instructed for Alfred E. Smith, of New York, for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Bennett said he had conferred in New York and Washington with Smith and Gov. F. D. Roosevelt forces and Democratic congressional members. Bennett said he would start a Smith-for-President movement as part of a plan started at a meeting in Philadelphia last week.

District Salesman Held Following Auto Death

Philadelphia, Jan. 17 (A.P.).—Harry Harrington, a Washington salesman, was placed in jail charged with manslaughter tonight following an automobile accident. Harrington hired an automobile from Frank Crummitt, of 1700 Jackson street northeast, Washington, to drive to Philadelphia. On his way back, police say, he struck and killed William Woodson, 13, colored, seriously injured another boy and failed to stop.

Saerch was first started for Crummitt, and Washington police were asked to assist, but the car was located here and Harrington arrested.

Byrd Bares Plans For Polar Voyage

Says He Expects to Have Subbase in Interoir of Continent.

New York, Jan. 17 (A.P.).—Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd hopes to establish a subbase in the interior of the Antarctic continent on his forthcoming expedition.

Disclosure of his plans, the first occasion on which he has mentioned them publicly, was made casually last night at the twenty-eighth annual dinner of the Explorers Club here.

"We have 35 tons of equipment at the Boston Navy Yard," the admiral said. "A friend has promised to furnish the ship." He did not, however, say when he would start.

The chief objectives of the expedition, he explained, are to determine whether there is a channel between the Ross Sea, on the shores of which "Little America" was established, and the Wedell Sea.

Murray Removes All But Self as Nominee

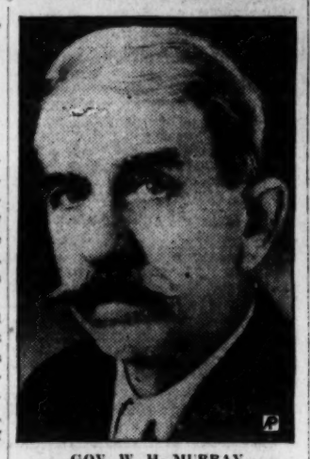
By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

Gov. William H. Murray, of Oklahoma, who so delights in the sobriquet of "Alfalfa Bill" that he explained the origin of it yesterday for a talking-picture concern, is like the mother in the war-time song, who exclaimed that everybody was out of step but her own son Jim.

In the opinion of those who talked to the Oklahoma sage yesterday, that is pretty much the way he feels about the men who are now marching toward the Democratic nomination for President—Murray himself, of course, being in the position of Jim.

A gaunt figure, with bushy eyebrows and unruly iron gray hair, Alfalfa Bill sat in an overstuffed chair in the George Washington Inn and passed judgment on the Democrats who are being mentioned for the Presidency.

He was asked about Gov. Franklin



GOV. W. H. MURRAY.

D. Roosevelt, of New York, the outstanding candidate.

"He doesn't measure up to the standard," said Murray.

He was asked about Owen D. Young.

CAPITAL TAXI WAR TO FINISH LOOMING

Black and White and Yellow Drop Rates to 20 Cents; Plan New Fleet.

A taxicab war to a finish loomed last night with the announcement by William J. Brown, president of the Black & White and the Yellow Taxicab Co., that his company had dropped its rate to 20 cents and was planning to replace the present fleet of cabs with new ones that would meet any reduction of price made by other companies.

Mr. Brown denied the prevailing report that the Parmalee Co. of Chicago had acquired his concern. He said the Black & White and Yellow will be under the same management with the introduction of the new rates, and that the organization of the company would remain the same.

A survey of the leading taxicab companies was made last night by The Post to determine what action they would take in the matter of a price war and statements made by the presidents of these concerns maintained that outside interests were involved in the transaction.

These officials insisted an all-day conference between E. H. Miller, president of the Parmalee Transportation Co., and Mr. Brown had been held last Thursday, a report The Post has as yet been unable to verify. The presence of Mr. Miller, they said, would indicate that negotiations were being made for the Chicago concern to operate their cabs in Washington.

The purpose of bringing new cabs into the city, it was said, is to flood

2 U. S. Officials Struck By French Hit-Run Car

Neuilly-Sur-Seine, France, Jan. 17 (A. P.).—Earle Chandler Taylor, assistant Trade Commissioner for the United States, and George Berkalew, a member of the American Embassy staff were struck by a hit-and-run driver in the Village of Villedieu last night and are in the American Hospital in serious condition.

Taylor, of Pennsylvania, has an injured head and Berkalew, of New York, has injuries in the pelvic region. A French woman, who was with them, injured her right leg and a Frenchman suffered a fractured skull.

Reds Urge Banishment Of Trotzky Be Extended

Berlin, Jan. 17 (A.P.).—A Telegraphen Union News Agency dispatch from Kovno, Lithuania, reported today that the Politbureau of the Communist party at Moscow had decided to demand a two-year extension of Leon Trotzky's banishment from Soviet Russia.

Trotzky, exiled Russian leader, formerly closely identified with Nikolai Lenin in the Bolshevik revolution and the establishment of Soviet government, has been living in Turkey.

PAY-CUT FOES FACE HOUSE TEST TODAY

Proponents of Slash to Get First Chance to Force Issue With "Rider."

Federal workers fighting Government salary reductions will face their second test of strength on the pay-cut issue in the House today, when Representative Joseph W. Byrns (Democrat), Tennessee, reports out of committee his agriculture appropriation bill.

House pay reductionists, thwarted temporarily when the committee on expenditures in executive departments tabled salary decrease bills, will have their first opportunity to force the issue on the floor of the House by proposing a pay-cut "rider."

The agriculture appropriations bill itself contains no salary reduction proposals, but every appropriation bill from that measure on will be subject to amendments that might end in a roll call on the pay-cut question.

Representatives, privately opposed to altering present salary standards, have said they would have to vote for the cut in event of a roll call. Their own salaries are involved in every reduction proposal, they point out, and their constituents might question their personal motives in the matter.

But House leaders, including Chairman Byrns, of the appropriations committe, are opposed to the move, and three of the four authors of House pay-cut bills have indicated they will not take the amendment method. Federal workers have been busy contacting representatives, and contend a safe majority are pledged to support them.

First showdown on the issue came two weeks ago when the pay-cut bills were tabled, and today's test will not

Threatened Wage Cuts Are Delayed

Chicago, Jan. 17 (U.P.).—Representatives of railroad labor and capital worked throughout Sunday on a proposal for a 10 per cent wage cut for 1,900,000 employes in exchange for stabilized work.

Announcement that pending outcome of the present wage conference, the roads will not enforce their recent 15 per cent reduction notice, due to take effect January 21, was one cheering development of the day.

The veterans of transportation, nine railroad presidents and 21 railway union heads empowered with settling perhaps the most momentous question in the country's traffic history, seemed unusually cheerful upon strolling from their meeting place in the ornate red lacquer room of the Palmer House.

Public, in 30,175 Cars, Tries Out New Memorial Bridge

Not an accident nor an arrest marred the first public inspection yesterday of the $21,000,000 Arlington Memorial Bridge and the Mount Vernon Memorial Highway, over which 30,175 automobiles traveled.

The highway and bridge were opened from 8 o'clock yesterday morning until 5 o'clock last night. Until the remaining construction work is finished, the bridge will be open to the public only on Saturday afternoons and Sunday.

Capt. Ray C. Montgomery, head of the United States Park Police, had eight policemen patroling the stretch of road. The traffic count was made at the center of the span and included cars traveling in both directions. The peak of the load was carried between 4 and 5 o'clock, when 3,165 automobiles moved south, and about 2,000 passed in a northerly direction over the bridge.

Capt. Montgomery said the new "clover leaf" turn at the highway bridge "worked well." "The manners of the motorists," he said, "showed how well they will react to the high speed highways. The usual bad habit of center road driving was noticeable.

The speed limit on the highway is 45 miles an hour. At present, Capt. Montgomery said, the District law of 22 miles an hour, will prevail on the bridge and on the road on Columbia Island; but it is expected that Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d will speed this limit to 30 miles an hour.

EUROPE'S PLANS SECRET AS DEBT MEETING NEARS

BRITISH ARE HOPEFUL FOR MOVE'S SUCCESS

But French Anticipate That America Will Decline to Give More Time.

London, Jan. 17 (A.P.).—Europe today entered the last week before the world reparations parley tentatively set for January 25, at Lausanne, in an atmosphere of mingled hope and fear.

Great Britain looked forward to the event with optimism. France saw nothing on the horizon but pessimism. Neither sentiment had any foundation in official statements, for both governments were preparing for the conference under a cloud of secrecy.

The British optimism was primarily a product of the political writers, in responsible newspapers, who drew from the evidence of the past week the conclusion that one vitally important point has been gained—that Great Britain, France, Italy and Germany will go to the conference with a united front.

Extension Plea Expected.

This viewpoint found its chief expression in an article by the diplomatic correspondent of the influential newspaper Observer. All four nations have agreed, he wrote, that the sequence of events at Lausanne will be as follows:

1. The conference will last a few days only.

2. The eleven countries represented will submit to Washington a proposal that the Hoover moratorium on reparations and war debts should be extended from July 1 to the end of 1932.

3. The parley will resume before the end of the year and will then seek a parmanent settlement of the whole problem.

The Observer's opinion was echoed in other responsible circles, which places emphasis on a belief that the British government now has decided a further moratorium lasting more than a few months ultimately would do more harm than good.

In contrast with the attitude prevailing in this country, such Paris newspapers as Le Temps, which is credited with being close to the French foreign office, and the Nationalist Journal Des Debats, looked at the situation as a whole and found the prospects gloomy.

Both papers took the view that whatever happens at Lausanne the key to the whole problem lies in the hands of the United States, but there is not the slightest reason to suppose that the American Government will plunge into the reparations tangle and straighten it out.

Attitude Not Hopeful.

It is the opinion of the British government, Le Temps said, that the United States ultimately will agree to cancellation of intergovernmental war obligations. "There is nothing in the present state in America," the paper continued, "which allows the belief that the Washington Government will envisage such a solution."

The publications, therefore, looked toward Lausanne with no exaggerated hopes, although neither suggests postponement of the conference.

A leading political writer expressed the view in Le Journal that if European powers asked the United States for even a six-month extension of the existing moratorium they might court a "humiliating refusal." He emphasized the straits in which France would be placed if Germany refused to pay and urged that the matter be examined from the point of view of German guarantees.

Duce to Attend Session If MacDonald Is There

London, Monday, Jan. 18 (U.P.).—The Daily Herald said today that Premier Benito Mussolini, of Italy, had decided to attend the Lausanne reparations conference, provided Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald, of Britain, attends.

Bulgaria to Ask Return Of Compulsory Military

Sofia, Bulgaria, Jan. 17 (A.P.).—In order to cut down the military budget, Bulgaria will ask permission at the coming disarmament conference to resume the old system of compulsory military service, Premier Muchanoff announced today.

TOKYO ACCEPTS JOSEPH C. GREW FOR U. S. ENVOY

Ambassador to Turkey Is Selected to Succeed Forbes Shortly.

HOOVER NOT DECIDED YET ON LONDON POST

Also Narrowing List of Men for Supreme Court and Other Positions.

Tokyo (Monday), Jan. 18 (U.P.).—Joseph Grew, present United States Ambassador to Turkey, will be approved by the Japanese government as Ambassador to Tokyo, succeeding W. Cameron Forbes, it was learned officially today.

Ambassador Forbes submitted Mr. Grew's name to Premier Inukai, and the government, as a matter of routine, asked the Japanese Embassy in Turkey for a report on Mr. Grew, which is expected shortly. Emperor Hirohito will then approve Mr. Grew.

It is understood that Ambassador Forbes, who has been anxious to relinquish his post for some time, wishes to return to the United States as soon as possible, but will await Mr. Grew's arrival if Secretary of State Stimson so desires.

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover has determined upon Joseph C. Grew, Ambassador to Turkey, as successor to Ambassador W. Cameron Forbes in Tokyo and is now narrowing the lists from which he will choose appointees for other important posts.

Mr. Forbes, who has expressed a willingness to be relieved, is expected by the administration to remain at his post for several weeks yet and officials are anxious because of the Manchurian difficulties that he stay as long as is convenient. However, when he leaves, Mr. Grew, a career man in the diplomatic service, is slated to take up the duties.

Jefferson Caffery, Minister to Colombia, who has established a wide reputation as an able diplomat, is being mentioned in connection with the Angora post. For another vacancy that will be created in the spring with the resignation of Charles G. Dawes, as Ambassador to Great Britain, former Senator Lawrence C. Phipps, of Denver, has been praised highly to the President.

Seeking Holmes' Successor.

Mr. Hoover is carding a list of 20 names with the greatest care for a man to occupy the Supreme Court seat left vacant by Oliver Wendell Holmes. It was said authoritatively yesterday the number had been whittled, but not yet sufficiently to develop into any one name.

Although it is stated definitely among Mr. Hoover's friends that the Supreme Court appointment has not yet narrowed sufficiently to place it in any one geographical section, heavy consideration is still being given the names of Westerners.

Orie L. Phillips, of Albuquerque, N. Mex., now on the Federal circuit bench; William P. James, of Los Angeles, Federal district judge, and Archibald K. Gardner, of Huron, S. Dak., Federal circuit judge, have been mentioned with increasing prominence of late.

Age Question Considered.

Chief Justice Arthur P. Rugg, of the Massachusetts Supreme Court, who has sat upon the bench for 26 years, has been strongly urged both by those in and out of his home State. He is nearing 70, however. The question of age also has figured in consideration of Senator Walsh, of Montana.

From the South come the names of Walter P. Stacy, of Raleigh, chief justice of the North Carolina Supreme Court, and D. Lawrence Groner, of Norfolk, Va., associate justice of the District of Columbia Court of Appeals.

While President Hoover has been steadily reducing the number of those being considered for the ambassadorial and Supreme Court posts, he has been following an opposite process in the case of the directorate of the proposed $2,000,000,000 reconstruction corporation.

In one authoritative quarter it was explained that not until the bill is laid before him, probably next week, will he know the exact specifications for the directorate. Thus, it was said, he is gathering available names in order to make a quick selection when the qualifications are agreed upon.

Meyer May Be Chairman.

Eugene Meyer, governor of the Federal Reserve Board, is regarded as a likely leader for the corporation. He has the benefit not only of experience with the former War Finance Corporation, but also a detailed knowledge of present conditions. He called upon the President three separate times yesterday, alone. Bernard M. Baruch, of New York, is generally accepted as a Democratic member, and possibly chairman, should the post not go to Meyer.

Of the Senate and House bills awaiting a conciliation of differences, the administration favors the former to the extent that it calls for a farm loan commissioner rather than the Secretary of Agriculture as one of the directors. The President feels the commissioner would have more time to give to this work.

Among those under serious consideration for the other directors are Angus McLean, former Governor of North Carolina; Edward Hurley, of Illinois, and Henry Robinson, of California.

Bursting Water Mains Flood Philadelphia Area

Philadelphia, Jan. 17 (A.P.).—A few hours after Broad street was reopened to traffic today, following a break in a high-presure water main a week ago, the main broke again in five places, repeating the damage of the preceding one.

The Broad Street Subway was crippled, the freshly paved street torn up and buildings in the vicinity were without telephone or electric service, their cellars flooded, their boilers submerged and their foundations possibly weakened.

Hawaii's Delegate in House Placed in Difficult Position

Victor S. K. Houston, Advocate of Self-Rule for Islands, Torn Between Loyalty to Home and to Navy, His Heritage.

(Associated Press.)

In his veins flows some of the native blood of Hawaii. Yet the Navy has been his heritage, his whole former career.

Holding steadfastly to his long-time contention that Hawaii is ripe for statehood, Delegate Houston has stood with Gov. Judd and the civil authorities of the island, in conflict with Navy officers.

Yet Houston's father was a rear admiral, and Houston himself served in the Navy through two wars—and the long peace—lull between them.

Surprised at Criticism.

On Hawaii's right to home rule, Delegate Houston took his stand—and was surprised, he said, and hurt, when that position brought him letters upbraiding him for countenancing the events which led up to the Fortescue-Massie case.

"I have never tried to excuse the happenings in Hawaii—I am not excusing them now," Houston said. "The entire affair has been so disagreeable to me, I don't care to even talk of it further."

Houston was born in San Francisco, son of the late Rear Admiral Edwin Samuel Houston, United States Navy, and of Caroline Poor Kahikliola Brickwood, part Hawaiian, and member of one of Honolulu's oldest and proudest families.

Part of Study Here.

In the wandering way of Navy children, Houston went to school in Dresden, Saxony, Lausanne, Switzerland, and Washington, and then to the Annapolis Naval Academy, finishing with the class of 1897.

He served on the old U. S. S. Iowa throughout the Spanish-American War, the ship commanded by William T. Sampson, who was sent to investigate the destruction of the Maine in Havana Harbor.

Houston rose in rank, served in China and through the World War, finally retiring in 1926 as a commander.

As Hawaii's delegate in the House, he has no vote, but can introduce bills, and debate them on the floor. He also has a nonvoting, but vocal place on several committees which deal with Hawaiian affairs.

WOMEN PACIFISTS WILL MEET TODAY

Three hundred delegates from eleven national women's organizations had arrived in Washington last night for the seventh conference of the National Committee on the Cause and Cure of War, which opens this afternoon at the Hotel Washington under the chairmanship of Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt. Registration of the additional delegates arriving this morning will swell the total number to more than 600, it is reported.

"World Paradoxes," with special emphasis on the economic and political phases of disarmament problems, will be the conference subject. Today's sessions will be concerned with peace machinery progress in 1931 and the world's present economic dilemma.

At this afternoon's sessions James G. McDonald, of the Foreign Policy Association, will review 1931 peace developments, and representatives of each of the eleven participating organizations will tell what the organizations have done to attain the professed aims of the cause and cure of war committee. Herbert Feis, economic adviser to the State Department, and Paul Kellogg, editor of The Survey, will speak tonight on "Want in the Midst of Plenty."

A special feature tonight will be a "Pageant of Petitions" when 97 young women will present a scene likely to occur at the Geneva disarmament conference, at the time disarmament petitions are presented from 47 nations. The cause and cure of war delegation, charged with the responsibility of taking the American-signed petitions to Geneva, will be present tonight. They include Mrs. Ben Hooper, Oshkosh, Wis., chairman; Mrs. Frank Day Tuttle, Mrs. Nathaniel Bilder, New York City; Mrs. L. H. Fradkin, Montclair, N. J.

Two of the conference's important committees, resolutions and nominations, were announced last night by Mrs. Catt. Mrs. Henry Grattan Doyle is chairman of resolutions. Dr. Izora Scott, of this city, is also on the committee.

Mrs. William L. Darby, local general chairman, has assembled a corps of 120 women, to assist in perfecting detailed arrangements for the four-day conference.

The eleven organizations in the conference are: American Association of University Women, Council of Women for Home Missions, Federation of Woman's Board of Foreign Missions of North America, General Federation of Women's Clubs, National Board of Y. W. C. A., National Council of Jewish Women, National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, National League of Women Voters, National Woman's Christian Temperance Union, National Women's Conference of American Ethical Union, National Women's Trade Union League.

CAPITAL TAXI WAR TO FINISH LOOMING

the streets with hacking cars and make necessary the return of the old meter rates and gain control of the local cab companies. Officials of rival companies stated that they would combat the prices offered by any other companies.

A statement from one of these officials was to the effect that any new company introduced to institute a renewal of the price war would have as its purpose the return to the old rate and control of the taxi cab business, and that he would not lower the price of operation of his company's cabs, but would start a publicity campaign to expose the aims of the intruding firms.

He cited strike difficulties in Chicago and the strikes that have resulted in the cab wars in Philadelphia.

A general attitude of watchful waiting prevails among the cab officials, and they are ready to block any moves in the price war that may result in Mr. Brown's announcement.

Enforcement of the order requiring cabs to operate on the meter system, beginning January 10, seeking in substance to prevent price wars, has been delayed due to legal developments and the action of Justice Adkins, of the District Supreme Court, in remanding the meter case to the Public Utilities Commission.

Traffic Director William A. Vandenduzer, when asked last night what action he would take if new cabs were brought into the city, said he had no control over the number of these vehicles on the street, and that if the Public Utilities Commission approved them he would issue tags.

STADIUM IS SOUGHT AT ROOSEVELT HIGH

Citizens' Associations' Body Declares for Immediate Construction.

Immediate construction of an adequate stadium and recreation field for the new Roosevelt High School, now being erected at Thirteenth and Upshur streets northwest, was urged Saturday night by the Federation of Citizens' Associations at a meeting held in the boardroom of the District Building.

Harry Stull, chairman of the education committee, told the federation that 22 civic organizations throughout the city have unanimously indorsed the project. The new school, he said, was originally planned to include a recreation field, but the appropriation placed in the estimate of the Board of Education was eliminated by the District Commissioners.

"Adequate playgrounds are considered a part of the necessary equipment of every modern public school," Mr. Stull declared, "and the heavy enrollment of the new school in itself warrants creation of a stadium providing opportunity for supervised outdoor recreations."

Mrs. Giles S. Rafter, former president of the District of Columbia Parent-Teacher Association, pointed out that each of the other four public high schools in the city is equipped with adequate athletic fields, and that students attending the new school are entitled to the same privileges.

WET CAUSE IS DENOUNCED AT ANTISALOON SESSION

erendum and pernicious modification aren't going to win out in 1932," said Joy Elmer Morgan, editor of the Journal of the National Education Association.

Former Representative William D. Upshaw, of Georgia, said that anti-prohibition House members were "trampling the Constitution beneath their feet in an effort to bring back John Barleycorn. Any man who has the smell of liquor on his breath should not be elected to office."

Resolution on Prelate.

The Cannon resolution in full said: "The Antisaloon League of American records its debt and notes the debt of the whole American people to Bishop James Cannon jr. His has been a life of self-sacrifice and denial—singly devoted to the advancement of the cause of prohibition.

"The friends of prohibition will never be able to repay him for what prohibition has cost him in money, or in health, or in assaults on the spirit.

"More than all this—perhaps more important than all this—is the fact that Bishop Cannon stands today, and ought to go down in history, as a great champion of freedom of conscience and intellect—a protector of the independence of the franchise. Only his resolution and sacrifice stands between thousands of independent voters and social ostracism, financial ruin, serious physicial harm.

"As a sacrificing worker in the cause of prohibition—as a champion to your own hurt of the civic rights of free men—Bishop Cannon, we salute you."

Bishop Cannon is to address the convention today on "Church and Government."

To Report on Policy.

The league will make public a full declaration of policy, including its attitude toward prohibition legislation now pending in Congress, tomorrow night at the final meeting.

Support for all dry candidates and no retreat from the policy of prohibition enforcement, opposition to legalization of beer, proposals to give States control of liquor and to a referendum, have already been advocated at the meetings by league officials.

A bill is to be introduced today by Senator Copeland (Democrat), of New York, to permit more liberal prescription of liquor by physicians.

Requested by Physicians.

The senator, himself a physician of international repute, said that the bill was prepared at the request of the American Medical Association and would allow patients to obtain liquor in quantities deemed necessary by the physician, who would not be required to record the diseases involved. Senator Copeland said that existing restrictions "have long offended the professional instincts of the great mass of the medical profession." He added that the Wickersham Commission had recommended "these grounds for complaint be removed."

The Woman's National Committee for Education Against Alcohol issued a formal statement in which it said, "You can't get prohibition out of politics."

The organization recommended "maintenance and enforcement, not repeal (alias revision, alias referendum, alias reaubmission) as the only final way to get the liquor question out of politics."

"Where is the guarantee that no State will decide for the saloon?" the committee's report went on. "It will mean the old conditions back."

Urges Good Example.

George Y. Hammond, of Topeka, superintendent of the Kansas Antisaloon League, told the league convention yesterday, "maybe we'd have less trouble with the young people if they were set a better example by the old ones. The seeds of lawlessness will never produce anything but trouble. We will reap just what we sow," Hammond said.

"Liquor planted into the country, by whoever planted or whether legal or illegal, will produce the only thing it has ever produced, the only thing it is capable of producing, broken homes, ruined lives, heartache, misery and suffering," he concluded.

Delcevare King, of Quincy, Mass., presided over the meeting. Special music was rendered by the American University Male Quartet and Miss Helen Hunt, violinist. A drama in one act by George Y. Hammond, "The Harvest," was presented. The convention is being held at the Mayflower.

Akron Is Moored To Patoka's Mast

Feat Marks First Time That New Airship "Parks" at Naval Vessel.

Norfolk, Va., Jan. 17 (U.P.).—The U. S. S. Akron, successfully moored to the Naval tanker Patoka at sunrise here today.

The Akron's first attempt to "park" at the Patoka's mooring mast failed, but she came back again and on the second attempt hooked her giant nose onto the mast. Contact was made at 7:20 a. m. The dirigible remained moored for 45 minutes and then started toward Lakehurst.

The experiment today was the first time the Akron had moored to a naval vessel. The Patoka was partly loaded with oil to prevent possible capsizing when the huge dirigible was moored to her. No damage to either craft was reported.

Germany Held Backing Bruening on Debt Stand

Berlin, Jan. 17 (A.P.).—Rudolph Breitscheid, a Social Democratic leader, believes that if Chancellor Bruening tells the coming reparations conference Germany is unable to pay now or ever he will have the whole Fatherland behind him.

So he told an audience last night in advocating an extension of the Hoover moratorium. He advised Germany, France and Great Britain to present a united front to demonstrate to America what he called the impossibility of continuing the present system of political debts.

LEGISLATORS TO ACT TODAY IN HONOLULU

Expected to Pass Measure Placing Police System Under Commission.

Honolulu, Jan. 17 (A.P.).—Hopeful of providing Hawaii with new regulations designed to purge its law enforcement machinery of political influences blamed for the recent wave of high crime here, the territorial Legislature meets tomorrow in special session.

Action which will be satisfactory to Congress has been asked to prevent the state and status of the territorial government from being changed. Fear has been expressed in some quarters that if conditions reported by the Navy Department, although disputed here by officials, were to continue the governor would be supplanted by a naval head, as in the case of Samoa.

The first action of the Legislature is expected to be passage of a measure placing the police department under a commission to be named by the governor. The commission would appoint a chief of police who would be responsible only to the commission.

Other Branch of Machinery.

It is not yet fully decided what will be done with the other branch of the law enforcement machinery, that of the city and county attorney's office. This possibly will be made a part of the office of the attorney general, who is named by the President.

Both the offices of Sheriff Patrick Gleason, present head of the police force, and that of City Attorney James F. Gilliland, have been under fire because of alleged political control.

Gilliland said today Judge A. G. M. Robertson had definitely refused to become a special prosecutor in the retrial case of four men charged with assaulting Mrs. Thomas G. Massie, wife of a naval lieutenant. Robertson also refused to act in the case against Lieut. Massie, Mrs. Granville Fortescue, mother of Mrs. Massie, and two enlisted men, growing out of the slaying of Joseph Kahahawai, one of those charged with the attack.

Would Expect Conviction.

Gilliland said the community has so far been unable to induce any strong member of the bar association to accept the responsibility of prosecuting the cases. He said Washington would expect a conviction of the four youths at the retrial. The original trial jury failed to agree.

Gilliland said he had nearly completed investigation of the Kahahawai case and would be ready to present it to the grand jury at its regular meeting Thursday or possibly sooner.

Telephone reports from Pearl Harbor, where Mrs. Fortescue, Lieut Massie and the enlisted men, E. J Lord and A. O. Jones, are held, said Mrs. Fortescue was recovering from the nervousness that followed her arrest January 8, when officers said she was found driving the automobile containing Kahahawai's body. Also in the machine were Massie and Lord.

Grade Watchman Killed At Crossing He Guarded

Chicago, Jan. 17 (A.P.).—For 20 years William Forbes, 74, had been night watchman at a railroad crossing in Chicago Heights, lowering gates to safeguard motorists from speeding trains and then raising them again.

Forbes took pride in his work. He never was late at the job. He always lowered the gates in plenty of time to safeguard automobiles, and scores of motorists who drove often over the crossing came to know him as a friend.

He was relieved from duty at 4 a. m. today, got into his automobile and started for home. As he crossed the tracks which he had guarded for a score of years, a passenger train struck his car.

The automobile was demolished and Forbes was killed.

FATAL BORDER RAID BRINGS RIVER GUARD

New Attack Is Feared After Mexican Is Killed by American Patrol.

McAllen, Tex., Jan. 17 (A.P.).—A score of border patrolmen and civil authorities patroled the Rio Grande near here seeking a band of Mexicans who crossed the border and routed American officers after a sharp gun fight in which one Mexican was slain and two others wounded.

Toribio Gonzales, 25, an alien, was shot to death last night and his two companions in a rowboat were wounded by a hail of rifle fire from the guns of five patrol inspectors. The officers had been informed that horse thieves planned to cross at Devil's Pass for a raid on the American side.

Shortly after dusk a small boat was seen to put out for the American shore by the inspectors, John Peavey, W. B. Harris, Lee Terrell and Jim and Jack Cottingham, brothers, who were hiding in sage brush on a bluff overlooking the river.

The officers called to the three Mexicans to halt and reported to have been fired upon. The patrolmen opened fire, and their shots tore holes in the bottom of the boat, causing it to sink. One of the Mexicans fell into the river and crawled to the shore where he hid in some brush. The other two swam to the edge of the river and disappeared.

A large band of heavily armed Mexicans on horseback then gathered on the opposite side of the international boundary line and prepared to cross the river, the patrolmen said. Two of the officers were dispatched to Mission, Tex., for reinforcements. The other three officers were left to guard the pass.

A hastily assembled posse of civil and Federal officers rushed back to the river, but were met some distance from El Paso el Diablo by the three guardsmen, who said they had been forced to retreat when the horsemen came across the river.

Only twelve Americans were in the posse at that time, and the border patrolmen asked for help from neighboring towns. Before dawn a band of approximately twenty Federal and county officers were gathered and went to the pass.

A heavy guard was placed along the border, officers fearing the band might attempt to recross the river tonight and avenge the death of Gonzales, who was buried on the bluff.

Officers said they believed the Mexicans were led by a notorius border bandit whose followers crossed the international boundary line last Tuesday and terrorized the little town of Tobasco, 20 miles west of here. Several head of live stock were stolen by the raiders at that time.

Colored Masonic Shrine Proposed

Masters and Matrons Association Debates Plans for Project.

Plans for the development of the Masonic Temple of the Acacia Grand Lodge of colored Masons, at Tenth and U streets northwest, into a national shrine for Masons of the Prince Hall affiliation, were discussed yesterday at a mass meeting held under auspices of the Masters and Matrons Association. The interest and benefit of such a plan to foreign jurisdictions was discussed by Willard W. Allen, of Baltimore, grand master of the Maryland jurisdiction.

The procedure of conversion of the temple into such a shrine was outlined by George M. Ambler, deputy grand master. A report favoring this action was presented from a committee which met last Tuesday at the residence of Frank D. McKinney, grand master, and was adopted. Alice E. Johnson, president of the association, presided.

The committee of the local jurisdiction fostering the movement consisted of Jefferson S. Coage, W. H. C. Brown, G. M. Ambler, Ernest Dickerson, Charles D. Freeman, B. F. Arrington, J. T. Beason, Cicero A. Lee and W. H. Jackson. Conferees from Maryland included Bishop Monroe Davis, Willis L. Fitzgerald, W. W. Allen, Ernest Lyon and Joseph P. Evans. This committee will meet with Isaac M. Carper and other past grand officers of the West Virginia jurisdiction next week.

Damaged Cotton Sets Truck Afire

Smoldering Staple Was Being Taken From U. S. Farming Bureau.

Cotton which was burned in a fire at the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, Linworth place and C street southwest, yesterday set fire to a truck which was carting away the debris.

The truck, operated by Charles Robinson, 28 years old, of Jessups, Md., had just been loaded with the burned cotton when it caught afire. Slight damage was done to the truck.

The fire burned for eleven hours on Saturday, and the smoke caused fifteen firemen who were fighting the blaze to become violently ill. All required medical attention.

MERCHANT'S SLAYER IS BELIEVED KNOWN

Winchester, Va., Police Hold They Have Traced Shot That Killed Keller.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

Winchester, Va., Jan. 17.—While local authorities were attempting to uncover a definite motive for the murder of William F. Keller, 65-year-old hardware merchant, early this morning in his own home, police of fully 24 eastern States were on the lookout for a young man about 25 years old, who is suspected of having fired the shot which mortally wounded the merchant prominent in social circles and a member of the Chamber of Commerce here.

Police here believe they know the murderer, but decline to reveal his identity.

Keller was rushed to the Winchester Memorial Hospital in a private automobile but he died on the way before he could receive medical attention, without regaining consciousness.

Murderer's Escape Witnessed

Edward Bowen, who lives two doors from Keller's house, told police that he saw a man run from the merchant's porch immediately after the shot was fired. Bowen said he was attracted by the sound of the shot, and looking out of his window, saw the man jump a fence and run into his own back yard.

"I dashed into another room and grabbed a rifle and a handful of shells, and ran out on the porch overlooking my yard, loading as I ran, but when I finally got my gun ready to fire the man had disappeared," Bowen related to police.

Capt. Richard Brown, of the Winchester Fire Department, who was just returning from a brush fire on the other side of town, told Chief of Police C. W. Hollis, that he saw Keller enter his house about 12:15, and that he thought he saw a man following Keller up the street. Capt. Brown said he paid no attention to the matter and entered the firehouse, which is within sight of the Keller home. He had not been inside the firehouse five minutes, when he heard a shot. Capt. Brown told Chief Hollis.

Blank Cartridges Fail.

"I dashed out of the building and up the street by Keller's house and saw his door half open and the lights on," Capt. Brown said.

"I glanced in and saw Keller huddled on the floor, with his nephew, Joseph Jones, 19, standing near, a smoking revolver in his hand. Jones, upon seeing me, told me to run across the street and get Dr. George G. Snarr. Later I found out that the young nephew had attempted to scare the murderer with a pistol loaded with blank cartridges."

Dr. Snarr, upon seeing the condition of the unconscious man, bundled him into his car and rushed him to the hospital.

Young Jones, who lives in the Keller home, told police that he was upstairs when his uncle came in. One of his aunts, Miss Minnie Keller, was also up at the time, and heard a knock on the door just after her brother closed it. Miss Keller ran to the head of the stairs and told her brother not to open the door until he found out who was there. Keller failed to heed her plea and opened the door.

Both Miss Keller and Joseph said they heard a scuffle and then a shot.

Young Jones said he grabbed a blank cartridge pistol and ran down the stairs, firing as fast as he could. He reached his uncle just in time to hear his last words, "Send for a doctor, quick." Then Capt. Brown came in, Jones said.

Chief Hollis arrived on the scene a few minutes later, with half a dozen policemen. They combed the vicinity for several hours, but could find no trace of the murderer.

An unfired cartridge and a shell were found on the floor in the hall. Both came from the same gun, Chief Hollis said, after he had inspected them.

The unfired cartridge is the only definite clue to the identity of the murderer.

Today Chief Hollis traced the cartridge to an old .25-caliber Spanish automatic, which had a defect in the firing pin, formerly belonging to the proprietor of a restaurant.

Robbery Motive Seen.

It was learned that the restauranter had sold the gun to one of his cooks, who in turn sold it to the man police are seeking.

The alleged murderer, Chief Hollis said, has been seen off and on in Winchester for the past two years, usually hanging around the poolrooms. Capt. Hollis said that one of his men had reported seeing the man early Saturday evening.

Chief Hollis is working on the theory that the man was after Keller's lunch box which he always carries home from work after he closes his hardware store.

"The murderer must have been under the impression that Keller carried money in the box," Chief Hollis said.

First Murder in 50 Years.

Chief Hollis, who has been a member of the Winchester police force for 35 years, sorrowfully revealed the fact that a record unblemished by any crime of this sort for the last 50 years, was now stained. "I am doing everything in my power to track down the criminal who committed this cold-blooded crime," the chief said.

Keller, a member of one of the oldest and most prominent families here, was unmarried and lived in a large house at 418 North Loudin street, surrounded by several acres of ground, with two sisters, Miss Minnie F. Keller, and Mrs. Bessie Jones, and his nephew, Joseph. He is also survived by a brother, George W. Keller, jr. The estate, which aggregates about $50,000, was left by George W. Keller, sr. It has never been divided among the four beneficiaries.

Funeral services will be held from the Keller home at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon followed by interment in Mount Hebron Cemetery.

Josephus Daniels Makes Progress After Crash

Atlanta, Jan. 17 (A.P.).—Josephus Daniels, publisher of the Raleigh, N. C., News and Observer, was making "satisfactory progress" today in his recovery from injuries suffered in an automobile accident here last Wednesday.

His physician said he believed Mr. Daniels could be moved to Raleigh "the latter part of the week." The former Secretary of the Navy suffered a fractured wrist and cuts and bruises.

CHINESE AND SOVIET RAIL TREATY FAILS

Representative of Nanking Quits Moscow After Months of Futile Work.

Moscow, Jan. 17 (U.P.).—Mo Teh-Hue, the Chinese chairman of the Chinese Eastern Railroad and head of the Chinese delegation which came to Moscow to negotiate a settlement of the controversy over the road, departed today for Manchuria after 20 months of fruitless endeavor.

The negotiations arose out of the Chinese-Soviet conflict several years ago over the railroad, which runs through Manchuria and which is under joint control of the Soviet and China. The Chinese ousted all Russian officials of the road on the charge that they were spreading Communist propaganda and military conflict was threatened until they were reinstated pending a final settlement.

The uncertainty of the Chinese internal situation, which clouded the scope of Mo Teh-Hue's authority, hindered the negotiations. Since the Japanese occupation of Manchuria, the negotiations have been formally broken off, although they had been abandoned since last October.

Political circle attached great importance to the Russian proposal for a nonaggression treaty with Japan, despite press reports from Tokyo indicating that the proposal was considered unnecessary by Japan. The government was eagerly awaiting the formal Japanese reply, indicating a belief that the pact would checkmate efforts alleged to have been made to embroil Russia and Japan in a conflict which neither desires. Soviet authorities were understood to believe that Japan would eventually accept the proposal.

Churchill Slated To Lecture Here

British Orator Will Appear at Constitution Hall on February 12.

The Right Hon. Winston Spencer Churchill, brilliant British statesman and orator, will be presented in a lecture on "The Destiny of the English Speaking Peoples" at Constitution Hall, Friday evening, February 12, under the auspices of the Community Institute of Washington.

Churchill has had a picturesque and varied career. He is the grandson of a Duke of Marlborough, and the son of the talented Jennie Jerome, an American. A soldier, traveler and writer, he turned to politics and while yet a mere stripling he entered Parliament where he has been active for a quarter of a century.

The Community Institute offers Winston Churchill as an extra attraction of its 1932 course of events, and subscribers holding the special coupon for the Damrosch concert may exchange it for the lecture by the distinguished Englishman on February 12.

Arts Club Gives Prize for Poster

Charles Dunn Gets $100 for Bal Boheme Contest Idea.

Charles Dunn, of 912 Nineteenth street northwest, was announced, yesterday, as the winner of the $100 prize offered by the Washington Arts Club, for the best poster in its poster contest for the Bal Boheme of February 8, by Louise Rochon Hoover, chairman of the selection committee.

The committee, in addition to Mrs. Hoover, were: Miss Elizabeth Langenbeck, Miss Frances B. Johnston, Miss Jessie Baker, Parke Custis, Eugene Weiss and Garnet Jex, and they gave honorable mention to Jean Calerdine, 1436 N street, and David M. Flax, 523 Buchanan street, awarding each two tickets for the ball.

All the posters submitted will be on exhibition at the Arts Club, 2017 I street, on Tuesday for a brief period, before placement throughout the city. The public is invited to view them.

mittee will resume hearings on measures to authorize 4 per cent beer.

The nominations of Judge James H. Wilkerson, of Chicago, and Kenneth Mackintosh, of Washington, to be members of the Circuit Court of Appeals, will be taken up today by the Senate judiciary committee. Contests impend against each.

The Democratic tariff revision bill passed by the House is destined to rest a while longer in the Republican-controlled Senate finance committee.

This will provide the setting for one of several political interludes ahead.

JAPAN IS ORGANIZING STATE IN MANCHURIA

Completion of Plan Expected Shortly; Chinese Forces Routed in Fight.

Mukden, Manchuria, Jan. 17 (A.P.). Formation of a new Manchurian State under the protection of the Japanese army was in its final stages today.

It was expected to unite in a loose federation the provinces of Fengtien, Kirin and Heilungkiang, with probably also a portion of Inner Mongolia.

Although secrecy surrounded the negotiations aimed to that end, the consensus of well-informed quarters was that completion of the movement would be announced within a few weeks. The dates most often mentioned range from February 5, the Chinese new year, to February 11, the Japanese national holiday on which the empire celebrates its supposed foundation in 660 B. C. The latter date is the choice of Japanese military circles.

Status Is Knotty Problem.

Whether the new Manchuria would aspire to the status of an independent nation — independent, that is, of China—or merely proclaim its automony was understood to be one of the knotty problems troubling the makers.

Japanese troops "almost entirely annihilated" 500 Chinese irregulars near Yental, 25 miles south of Mukden, today, a Japanese official communique said.

There were no Japanese casualties.

A spokesman at Japanese army headquarters said the exact number of Chinese dead was unknown and some of the irregulars may have escaped, but at least a majority were killed.

London, Jan. 17 (A.P.).—An Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Harbin today said Japanese forces were bombing Yushu, near Kirin, Manchuria.

Six thousand Kirin (Manchurian) troops would advance on Harbin unless the local government surrendered, the dispatch added.

Reds Attack Province Capital.

Nanking, Jan. 17 (A.P.).—Communists laid siege to Nanchang, capital of Kiangsi Province of China, today, said reports received here.

Communists, who overrun the province, the reports said, had advanced to the gates of Nanchang and threatened to capture the city. Troops on guard there fought off the besieging forces yesterday, but the latter still surrounded the provincial capital.

Kiangsi Province was reported to be one of the principal Communist strongholds in all China and the Communists were considered separate from the Chinese irregulars, against whom the Japanese are campaigning in Manchuria.

trial did not warrant conviction and referred to his imprisonment as "the final chapter in my martyrdom."

Langley was widely known throughout the Kentucky mountains and had a devoted following. This group came to his aid when he sought reelection while awaiting action on his appeal. Later, in 1927, when his wife ran for the same office, he called upon the people of the hills to rally to her support. He refused to accept the prison sentence as a blot on his career. Once he said:

"I desire my friends to know that, notwithstanding my age and physical weakness, I am holding my head unflinchingly and facing this injustice, cruel as it is, like a true Kentucky mountaineer should do."

He served nineteen years in Congress and his political strength in the mountains was conceded by all who knew him.

Langley once said he felt a literary urge while in prison, and while there he edited Good Words, prison publication.

After his release and pardon he wrote a book titled "They Tried to Crucify Me, or the Smoke Screen of the Cumberlands," in which the condemned those he thought responsible for his imprisonment.

ARMS PARLEY VIGIL PLANNED BY WOMEN

Committee That Represents 23,000,000 Will Tell of Geneva Actions.

The women of the country were called upon yesterday to scrutinize closely the activities of the impending international conference on disarmament at Geneva.

Representing combined constituencies of 23,000,000 American women, a committee composed of the international relations chairmen of organizations forming the National Council of Women of the United States met yesterday and passed a resolution pledging their organizations to give the fullest publicity to the sessions of the disarmament conference.

The meeting was summoned preliminary to the conference on the Cause and Cure of War, which begins here today, by Mrs. Percy V. Pennybacker, of Austin, Tex., former president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs. She is now chairman of the international relations committee of the National Council of Women.

Publicity Called Remedy.

Commenting on yesterday's action, in which ten of the leading women's organizations of the country concurred, Mrs. Pennybacker said:

"We know that peace, like every form of world progress, flourishes under the white light of publicity. We also know that war, and every other form of darkness, thrives only in secrecy and shadow.

"Modern facilities for swift and detailed press dispatches, and the marvel of the motion picture, have opened the processes of diplomacy to the eyes of the world. Women intend to have peace. They intend to judge statesmen at home and abroad by the contributions of leadership to the cause dearest to every woman's heart, that the children of this and succeeding generations shall not be offered on the black altar of war.

Conference Participants.

"We hope to see that every woman's club in America receives a digest of the discussions and actions of the disarmament conference at Geneva. Women, by the million, in other lands have joined with us in this effort, and the mass power of women's opinion and determination will continue to be martialed, with intelligent understanding, until the world battle for peace is won."

Participating in yesterday's conference were:

Mrs. Pennybacker, chairman; Emily C. Bulch, Women's International League for Peace and Freedom; Cora W. Baker, Baltimore, National Service Star Legion; Mrs. Ben Hooper, Oshkosh, Wis., General Federation of Women's Clubs; Mrs. Oscar S. Marx, Mount Carmel, Ill., National Council of Jewish Women; Esther C. Brunauer, American Association of University Women; Louise Taylor Jones, Washington, Medical Women's National Association; Laura S. Hoge, Hamilton, Va., Women's Christian Temperance Union; Mrs. Mary J. M. Crorey, Charlotte, N. C., National Council of Colored Women; Josephine Schain, New York City, Federated Business and Professional Women's Club.

CHARLES FRANCIS ADAMS.

CHARLES FRANCIS ADAMS is a real, salty Secretary of the Navy. No man in the Navy loves the sea more than he. We have had Navy Department heads who, when vacation time arrived, went to the golf course or the mountains. Secretary Adams hastens to Newport and to his yacht.

This little man with the weather-beaten, aristocratic features has a family tree that took root over here before the Republic was born, a tree whose every branch has contributed wisdom, genius and service to the country.

Secretary Adams' great-great-grandfather was John Adams, second President of the United States, and his son, John Quincy Adams, was the sixth President of the United States. The latter's son, the first Charles Francis Adams, was American Minister to Great Britain in the Civil War. So much for the Navy Department chief's heritage.

Mr. Adams, whose home is in Boston, went to Harvard like his ancestors and is a lawyer by profession. However, he also has engaged in business and banking, and has acquired a fortune sufficient to allow him to indulge in yacht racing. As an amateur skipper, his fame is world wide. It was he who, in 1920, piloted the Resolute when that craft defeated the late Sir Thomas Lipton's Shamrock.

Such were Mr. Adams' qualifications for the office of Secretary of the Navy that President Hoover chose him even though his home State, Massachusetts, voted for Al Smith in 1928.

Uncle Sam Not So Willing To Forget European Debts

By JOHN J. DALY

EUROPE is looking for a new way to pay old debts—by cancellation, if possible.

In the search for a way out—the back way or the side door—some of the financial experts in the old countries have hit upon a happy idea. They hope to confuse war debts with reparations. Thus, if Germany fails to pay reparations, the allies ignore their notes.

It is clever, but some of the Yankee traders are on to the trick. David Harum still lives. After all, as Uncle Sam points out, reparations are only reparations, but a debt is an obligation.

There is a difference: Reparations are indemnities. Debts are difficult to collect.

If a neighbor breaks down a fence and lets his dogs loose to trample the flower garden, the outcome of that is reparation—the repairing of the fence and the leashing of the dogs.

If some of the adjoining neighbors, wounded in fighting off the dogs, borrow money to buy bandages, that transaction is a debt.

* * * *

GERMANY overran Belgium. The neighboring nations, trying to get the dogs of war off Flanders fields, called for help and then borrowed money from the rescue party.

After the scurry, old Uncle Sam, not even a neighbor, pitched in and helped rebuild the fences. Now, the idea is to make him forget—or baffle him.

The old man, however, has a long memory. Even if he had a short memory, his nieces and nephews would jack him up, for he borrowed the money from them to pass on to the others.

While the European cousins are trying to give Uncle Sam the so-called run-around, the old gentleman can not do the same with his boys and girls.

So, Uncle Sam serves notice. He tells the financial geniuses of the Old World, trying to confuse reparations with debts, that the game is up. Reparaations or no reparations, the debts must be paid.

It is, naturally, a pretty how-dy-do.

* * * *

"You can't do that," the head men of Europe say, pleading with Uncle Sam to go easy.

"Why not?" he asks.

"Because," they tell him, "you are a regular guy, as the Americans say, and believe in letting bygones be bygones."

"How come?"

"Let the debt past bury its debts," they tell him.

Bills are now being made out—the Liberty bills.

2,000 ARE TRAPPED BY FLOOD IN DELTA

Motorboats Will Aid Today; Rain Sends Waters Into Six Counties.

Glendora, Miss., Jan. 17 (A.P.).—Evacuation of inhabitants of Tippo Basin, which went forward on a large scale in the past 36 hours, tonight had virtually ceased except in haphazard manner by means of boats. Five fissures in all, which are steadily widening, have appeared in the basin levees.

Boats today penetrated parts of the Upper Tippo Basin and brought a few refugees into Charleston. The main point of exit, the Yazoo and Mississippi Valley Railroad, is now cut off.

Motorboats to Be Sent.

Although there is no tendency to minimize dangers to those who are cut off from the outside world, Red Cross forces said late today they believe the marooned could successfully battle atgainst rising waters until fleets of motorboats reach that territory tomorrow.

Mississippi's greatest inland flood tonight extended its hungry waters along a 200-mile area in six counties.

Rain fell in north Mississippi today.

The flood washed the south half of Panola County, eastern half of Quitman, all of Tallahatchie, greatest part of Leflore, one-half of Humphreys, and lowlands of Yazoo. Grenada County's northern area, menaced for days by backwater, is beating back from the grasp of the flood.

Humphreys County Periled.

Humphreys County, which only recently went into the flood area, is as hard pressed as any of its neighboring counties. Belzoni, county seat of 7,500 population, struggled today against waters of the Yazoo River, bursting through its protecting dykes, and also faced backwater overflows. Residential streets and part of the business area are covered.

The west side of the Tallahatchie River was cheered tonight by a perceptible drop in the water.

On the east side of the river water is 20 feet deep in places, according to conservative estimates. No loss of life has been reported.

Decision Due Soon On Egyptian Claim

Group to Settle Manassas Man's Action Arrives in America.

New York, Jan. 17 (A.P.).—American members of the United States-Egypt Arbitration Commission which has reviewed claims of George T. Salem, of Manassas, Va., against the Egyptian government, arrived today on the President Harding.

Bert L. Hunt, legal adviser of the State Department in Washington and the United States agent who presented Salem's claims for $1,000,000, said a decision was expected by the end of February. Hearings began in Vienna November 20 and continued until December 22.

Salem, who owned property in Egypt and spent much of his time there, claims to have suffered damages through false charges having been brought against him in that country. Three-fourths of his claims represent alleged property loss and the remainder personal damages. Members of the United States delegation said Salem sought redress from the Egyptian government before appealing to his own government to take up the case as an international matter.

Kentucky Miners Cancel Big Protest

Sheriff Says That "Red Revolt in Harlan" Is Now Crushed.

Harlan, Ky., Jan. 17 (A.P.).—The long-heralded demonstration by the National Miners Union at Harlan today, failed to materialize. Forewarned by "the law" that any attempt to hold a mass meeting here would be broken up, the leaders of the union apparently decided against the demonstration and Sheriff John H. Blair said "the red revolt in Harlan County has been crushed."

The National Miners Union, as recently as yesterday, announced the meeting would be held and no representative could be found here today to explain the cancellation.

All day today Sheriff Blair's armed forces guarded and patrolled highways west of Harlan and near the Bell County line. The union maintains headquarters at Pineville. Motorists were stopped by the officers and in Pineville several complaints were made against this procedure.

Bankhead Sees Victory In Heflin Vote Contest

Birmingham, Ala., Jan. 17 (A.P.).—Senator John H. Bankhead departed for Washington today, leaving to his counsel the task of completing rebuttal testimony tomorrow at the final hearing in connection with former Senator J. Thomas Heflin's contest of his election in 1930.

Before leaving, Senator Bankhead, who has attended the sessions which have been in progress two weeks, issued a statement saying he was "highly pleased" with the results of the hearings thus far. "I never saw a more complete breakdown in any legal proceeding," he said. "The expenditure of more public money in taking further testimony seems to me to be absolutely inexcusable."

DIED

VAN NESS—On Saturday, January 16, 1932, at the Mendota Apartments, CAROLINE MERRITT, widow of Lieut. Col. William P. Van Ness, U. S. Army, in the eighty-fourth year of her age.

ZIRKLE—On Friday, January 15, 1932, DOROTHY DOUGLAS, beloved wife of Joseph C. Zirkle, and mother of Joseph C., jr., and Alvira Zirkle.

Each House Member to Get Copy of Chaplain's Prayers

Representative Michener, of Michigan, Amends Bill to Insure Certain Number of Volumes, Instead of "First Come, First Served" Idea.

(Associated Press.)

The prayers of Dr. James Shera Montgomery, House chaplain, have proved so popular in the past that Representative Michener (Republican), Michigan, has guaranteed his supply for the future.

Every four years the chaplain's prayers are printed.

Dr. Montgomery has the volume for the Seventieth and Seventy-first Congresses all in order, about 165 pages with four or five short prayers to a page.

When Chairman Stevenson, of the House printing committee, presented to the House the resolution for publishing them, Michener asked how they were to be distributed.

Stevenson replied the prayers would be sent out through the document room as usual.

"And the first man there can get them all," complained Michener. "Does not the gentleman think they should be distributed through the folding room?"

So the resolution was amended to insure prayer book distribution through the folding room, where each member is allotted a certain number of volumes, instead of the document room, where all who ask receive—so long as the supply lasts.

Every day, on the stroke of noon, Dr. Montgomery, a dignified, benign, gray-haired man, opens the House session with prayer. Last session he was not absent once.

In eleven years he has not made a duplicate prayer.

He memorizes each one to insure the best delivery of its simple, yet eloquent sentences.

"The country clergy like to have those prayers—they write me many letters asking for them," said Dr. Montgomery. "I think I may take some justifiable pride in that fact, for I do take care in their preparation. Many members tell me they keep the volume on their breakfast table, and read them for their morning devotions."

On Sundays, Dr. Montgomery presides in the pulpit of the Metropolitan Methodist Episcopal Church, with Vice President Curtis regularly in his congregation, occupying President McKinley's one-time pew.

Captain Sticks to Job At Sea as Home Burns

Norfolk, Va., Jan. 17 (U.P.).—A story of how a Coast Guard captain stuck to his work of trying to salvage a sinking vessel while his home burned to the ground within plain sight was related here today. George R. Freeman, representative of the underwriters who carried insurance on the lost trawler St. Rita told the story.

The St. Rita, he said, bound from the Carolina coast to Hampton with 175 barrels of fish, went aground Saturday on a quicksand near the Paul Gamiel Coast Guard Station on the North Carolina coast.

Coast Guard Capt. G. G. Snow and his crew rescued Capt. Frank Favolora and crew, and were rushing salvaging operations when Capt. Snow saw his home afire 200 yards distant on the shore. He decided it was useless to try to save it and continued with his work. His house was destroyed.

The St. Rieta, too, was a total loss.

TERROR PLOT LAID TO 16 IN BALKANS

Roumanians Arrest Russians; $30,000 Gold and U. S. Money Found.

Bucharest, Roumania, Jan. 17 (A.P.).—Sixteen alleged Soviet secret agents—one of them described as a beautiful woman—have been arrested at Constanza.

Roumanian authorities said they believed the prisoners to have been commissioned to organize a terrorism campaign against prominent persons in what police called the biggest Soviet espionage plot in years. They were seized as they disembarked from the Greek ship Philomena, which arrived from Odessa with false papers.

The Russians, who carried more than $30,000 in gold and United States currency and a number of documents in secret code, were alleged to have connections with an espionage organization in Paris.

Their presence aboard the Philomena was tipped off by a secret agent in the Belgian Legation at Istanbul, the Roumanian authorities said. The arrest aroused intense interest here, in view of negotiations now pending for a nonaggression pact between Soviet Russia and Roumania.

Hart's Fingerprints Awaited in Nevada

To Be Checked With Those of Prisoner, Believed to Be Baltimore Fugitive.

Ely, Nev., Jan. 17 (A.P.).—Sheriff H. V. Nicholson, of White Pine County, today awaited arrival of photographs and fingerprints of Jack Hart, forwarded here by Baltimore, Md., police, to check with those of a man giving the name of C. E. Mitchell, believed by the sheriff to be Hart, an escaped Maryland convict.

Sheriff's officers tonight said they did not expect the Baltimore information to reach Ely until tomorrow night or sometime Tuesday. Mitchell was arrested Friday and lodged in jail as a vagrant. Noting his resemblance to photographs of Hart on a police circular, Sheriff Nicholson wired Baltimore authorities for fingerprints to make a definite check of the man's identity.

Officers tonight said Mitchell continued to act peculiarly, and denied he was the man wanted in Maryland. He had been in Ely previous to his arrest.

Two Naval Men Hurt In Norfolk Air Crash

Norfolk, Va., Jan. 17 (A.P.).—Faltering at an altitude of 2,000 feet, a biplane crashed to earth today, seriously injuring Guy C. Edwards, 31, of Portsmouth, and Conley Guy Shreves, 24, attached to the U. S. S. Kewayden.

J. L. Ames, of New York, a Randolph-Macon College student, who saw the plane go into a tailspin and crash near a clump of trees, hurried the men to a hospital. Edwards was severely lacerated about the head and abdomen. Shreve's left foot, which was entangled in the fuselage, may have to be amputated, hospital attendants said.

GERMANY'S "DECAY" PICTURED BY HITLER

Nazi Chieftain Pleads for Action Against Jews and Internationalism.

Berlin, Jan. 17 (A.P.).—Adolf Hitler, National Socialist leader, told a meeting of Berlin students tonight that unless the nation's "dissident elements" became united and put an end to "Jewish bolshevism and internationalism," Germany within the next 40 years would become a "nation of language teachers and museum guides."

The leader of the Fascist Nazis urged the students to take an active part in the Nazi movement. He told them they could all become leaders if they saw the future, not in terms of "pallid knowledge, but in action."

The address, which was Hitler's first in the capital since thirteen months ago, was delivered in a West End tennis hall which was crowded to the doors by an audience estimated at 5,000 persons.

Declaring a decisive moment in Germany's history had come and blaming "Marxism" for Germany's "decay," Hitler said that "if the present process continues, Germany within 30 years will no longer be a decisive factor in the world's affairs."

"We today are facing gigantic problems," he said, "and no matter whose government it is—(Chancellor) Bruening's or any one else's—unless the proletarian and the middle classes again become a united people in thought Germany is doomed.

"The most destructive theory to the nation is that the masses are decisive. What we need are leaders who know and understand the people. The most devastating indictment of the present regime and system is that the 15,000,000 (prospective Nazi voters) do not understand their business leaders nor their political and scientific leaders."

The Nazis, Hitler said, were taking over the task of creating leaders who would come in touch again with the masses.

Nation Held Periled By Lack of Education

(Associated Press.)

Representative Carroll Beedy, of Maine, sees an approaching breakdown of America's national life, unless the welfare of society at large is safeguarded through education. Beedy spoke yesterday in a radio program broadcast from the National Education Association.

Deploring the increasing tendency of the home to allow the schools to fight their own battles, the Maine Republican declared it would be difficult to estimate how far such an indifference has contributed toward "the present chaos in which we find our public thinking of today."

Trunk Slayer's Lawyers Planning Insanity Plea

Phoenix, Ariz., Jan. 17 (A.P.).—Attorneys for Ruth Winnie Judd conferred today behind closed doors, mapping the plea of insanity which they plan to take into the superior court Tuesday in an effort to save her from the gallows for the "trunk slayings" of Hedvig Samuelson and Agnes Anne Lerol.

The attorneys, Herman Lewkowitz, of Phoenix, and Paul Schenck, of Los Angeles, said there would be other pleas in the defense structure, including one of self-defense. Efforts, however, will be centered mostly on proving insanity.

Garrett Back in Italy; Baptized Baby at Sea

Naples, Italy, Jan. 17 (A.P.).—American Ambassador John W. Garrett and Mrs. Garrett came back on the liner Conte Grande today from a brief visit to the United States, after giving a baptismal party for a baby born at sea.

Mrs. Luigi Ventresca, a third-class passenger, became the mother of a daughter two days after the ship left New York. While Mrs. Ventresca was born in New York, the master pronounced the baby to be an Italian subject because her father is an Italian and she was born on an Italian ship.

36,000 Are Vaccinated As Smallpox Threatens

Fitchburg, Mass., Jan. 17 (A.P.).—Fitchburg's staff of physicians toiled for nine hours at six public clinics today in performing vaccinations, ordered for the entire populace of the city, as a precaution against a threatened smallpox epidemic.

By 7 o'clock tonight 4,500 persons had been vaccinated, bringing to 36,000 the number vaccinated since the first smallpox cases were reported a week ago. No new cases have been reported since Friday, when the sixteenth came to official attention.

Lloyd George Celebrates Birthday.

Churt, Surrey, England, Jan. 17 (A.P.).—David Lloyd George quietly celebrated his sixty-ninth birthday today at home with his family to the accompaniment of good wishes from political friends and enemies alike. The former premier and Liberal leader was playing the role of an enthusiastic family head, rejoicing in his returned health and postponing the consideration of political matters until tomorrow.

German Plight Laid to High Interest.

New York, Jan. 17 (A.P.).—High rate of interest on new capital is given as the chief reason for Germany's present financial position, in a report published today by the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace. The report was requested by the endowment from a distinguished German economist. Interest on call money, the report states, jumped from less than 5 per cent in 1913 to an average of 7 per cent since 1925.

Mrs. Boole Warns of Fight on Wets.

Charlotte, N. C., Jan. 17 (A.P.).—Mrs. Ella A. Boole, president of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, today asserted 600,000 militantly dry women of the country would stand firm against the election of any President or Vice President who would favor repeal of the prohibition amendment. Mrs. Boole addressed a mass meeting here.

Soviet Rail Crash Killed 68, Hurt 128

11 Employes Facing Trial Today; Man's Suicide Effort Blamed.

Moscow, Jan. 17 (A.P.).—Moscow newspapers published for the first time today a list of 68 dead and 128 injured in the disastrous railroad wreck two weeks ago near Moscow, with the announcement that 11 employes charged with responsibility for the accident would be brought to trial tomorrow.

It was the first definite report of the number killed and hurt. The official account also revealed that a "drunken peasant," who threw himself under a speeding passenger train to end his life, caused the catastrophe.

The train was stopped to extricate his body, but the crew failed to set the proper signals, the report said, and a second passenger train running in the same direction crashed into the rear of the first. Several cars of both trains, which were filled to capacity, were crushed. A few minutes later an extra locomotive, running on a parallel track, piled onto the heap of wrecked cars, inflicting many additional casualties.

Paul Guenther, Retired Hosiery Man, Is Dead

Dover, N. J., Jan. 17 (A.P.).—Paul Guenther, 72, retired hosiery manufacturer and philanthropist, died at Marguerite Villa, his home on Rockaway Road, early today.

He retired from active business in 1927 when he sold his knitting interests to the Gotham Hosiery Company at a price reported at $8,000,000. He previously had been recognized as the largest independent manufacturer of hosiery in the country.

Leader of Fascist Heimaehr Threatens March Unless His Plan Wins.

Vienna, Jan. 17 (A.P.).—The newspaper Arbeiter Zeitung said today that Prince Star Emberg, leader of the Fascist Heimaehr, threatened to organize a countrywide march on Vienna unless the government adopted a program of his for economic reconstruction.

The program proposed chiefly cancellation of all existing trade treaties and the conclusion of new agreements for the exchange of equal contingents of goods, institution of compulsory labor on the part of the unemployed in return for board and lodging, unemployment insurance instead of doles, and safeguarding of the schilling by reorganization of the Creditanstalt Bank.

Woman's Suicide Effort Foiled by Long Distance

At 4:15 police headquarters received a call that "my sister, Elsie Cook, 326 West Forty-seventh street, is in trouble." A patrolman went at once to the address and gained entrance by breaking glass in the door. Through gas fumes he made his way to the kitchen, where he found Elsie Cook, 26, a nurse, unconscious on the floor. She was revived after half an hour's work. Police said she probably had notified relatives in Buffalo of her intention to die.

W. K. COOPER DEAD; FORMER Y.M.C.A. AID

Prominent Church Worker Was Born in 1867 in Philadelphia.

William Knowles Cooper, former general secretary of the Y. M. C. A., and prominent church and civic worker, died yesterday in his home at 3207 Highland place northwest, following a protracted illness. He was 64 years old.

Mr. Cooper was born November 1, 1867, in Philadelphia, Pa., the son of James B. and Anna M. Cooper. He was educated in the Philadelphia public schools and came to Washington in 1908.

Entering the service of the Y. M. C. A., in 1890, Mr. Cooper served as general secretary in Norristown, Pa., Springfield, Mass., and Brooklyn, N. Y., before coming here. During the World War he acted as district general secretary in charge of the Y. M. C. A. war work. He retired in October, 1930.

On Y School Board.

Mr. Cooper was a member of the Board of Governors of the United Y. M. C. A. schools and the national secretarial cabinet, Eastern regional cabinet and the judiciary board of the national council.

He devoted a great share of his time to church work, serving with various religious organizations, including the executive committee of the Washington Federation of Churches, Washington committee of the Federated Council of Churches, the commission on missions of the Congregational Church and the commission on interchurch relations. He was a member of the Cleveland Park Congregational Church.

Director of Bank.

Mr. Cooper was a director of the Federal American National Bank and a trustee of American University. He was a member of the Board of Trade and a past president of the Rotary Club.

He also held memberships in the American Institute of Banking, the Cosmos Club, the Torch Club, Columbia Historical Society, Federated Schoolmen's Club, English Speaking Union, National Press Club, National Arts Club, Colorado Mountain Club and Lafayette Lodge, No. 19, Anacostia Chapter of the Royal Arch Masons.

Surviving Mr. Cooper are his wife, Mrs. Jesse M. Shaver Cooper, and two children, William Knowles, jr., and Miss Martha Cooper. The family had planned to leave today for an extended vacation in Florida.

Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

"Y" LEADER DIES

MRS. T. C. POLLOCK, TEACHER, SUCCUMBS

Lifelong Capital Resident Dies After Illness of Several Weeks.

Mrs. Theresa Carroll Pollock, of 1316 Delafield place, lifelong resident of Washington and for many years a teacher here, died yesterday after an illness of several weeks at Garfield Hospital.

For the last year Mrs. Pollock had been a teacher at the West School, and for several years previously had taught at the Park View School. She was a participant in all activities at both schools and the principal and supervisors used her class as a model for the school.

For twenty years Mrs. Pollock had been an ardent worker in the church school of St. Stephen's Protestant Episcopal Church, working with Mr. Pollock as superintendent of the primary department. She was known for the modern methods of instruction she employed.

She was the daughter of the late Daniel J. Carroll, former chief clerk of the Weather Bureau. Her mother, Mrs. Rose S. Carroll, of 1316 Delafield place; her husband, Ross E. Pollock, and two sons, Ross, jr., and Daniel Carroll Pollock, survive.

The funeral will be held at 11:30 a. m. tomorrow. The Rev. George Fisk Dudley, of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church, will officiate. Interment will be in the Glenwood Cemetery.

MRS. J. M. BACHSCHMID DIES

Native of Alexandria Will Be Buried Tomorrow.

Mrs. Johanna M. Bachschmid, a resident of Washington since childhood, died yesterday in her home at 1806 Kilbourne place northwest, following a lengthy illness. She was 68 years old.

Mrs. Bachschmid was a native of Alexandria, Va., and moved to Washington with her family at an early age. She is survived by her husband, Paul O. Bachschmid, and seven children, Ernst, William, Emil, Kuno, Carl, Edward and Freda Bachschmid, all of this city, and a sister, Mrs. Frederick Xander.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow at the residence. Interment will be in Prospect Hill Cemetery.

RICH FINDS MADE IN MEXICAN TOMB

perts further to investigate and evaluate them.

The Monte Alban ruins are situated on the top of a mountain ridge 6,000 feet above sea level and lie directly above the City of Oaxaca and only 5 miles from a railroad. The government has known for a long time of their existence, but made no considerable excavations until recently.

The work was made possible by private contributions, among which were funds donated by the late Dwight Morrow, who visited the ruins while he was Ambassador to Mexico in 1928.

The cemetery was located some weeks ago, but the first tombs opened revealed only musty bonds and minor relics of pottery. Senor Caso's expedition continued its work, however, and was rewarded with the tomb of the warriors.

Origin of the Mixtecán Indian tribe, like that of other Mexican tribes, is lost in antiquity. The Mixtecans are believed to have come from the north before the Aztecs and settled in northern Oaxaca, with Tilantongo as their capital.

They were a powerful, warlike race and their continuous war with the Aztecs and the Zapotecs is legendary. Their dispute was not clearly understood, for the Zapotecs apparently were of the same origin. Some historians suggest all these tribes, as well as the Eskimos, may have crossed from Asia and followed down the West Coast to Mexico.

The Zapotecs control the southern part of Oaxaca and, curiously enough, the Monte Alban civilization is Zapotecan. The only explanation thus far advanced is that the Mixtecan warriors had defeated the Zapotecs and driven them temporarily from Monte Alban, and that the warriors were buried in the Zapotecan fortress during a temporary occupancy. Evidence of haste in the burial was indicated.

Both the Zapotecan and Mixtecan tribes were hostile to the Aztecs and were separate from the Aztec Empire. Both tribes survived the conquest and the population of the State of Oaxaca today is largely Zapotecan or Mixtecan. Benito Juarez, patriot, who drove out the French invaders, was a pure Zapotec. Languages and customs of the tribes have survived.

Rev. D. J. Connors' Mother Succumbs

Special to The Washington Post.

Manchester, N. H., Jan. 17.—Word was received here this morning of the death of Mrs. Ellen Connors at Lawrence, Mass. Mrs. Connors was the mother of the Rev. Daniel J. Connors, of the Oblate Fathers College, Washington, D. C.

The report here said that Mrs. Connors died at the Lawrence General Hospital as the result of an accident some weeks ago. Mrs. Connors was scalded at her home, 94 Andover street, Lawrence, while carrying a kettle of hot water. She slipped and fell and the boiling water covered her body. She was taken to the hospital and for a while it was thought she might recover but complications set in, finally resulting in her death yesterday.

She leaves three other sons. Mrs. Connors had lived in Lawrence a number of years.

SHERMAN T. REDMAN DIES.

Alexandrian Succumbs at Home After Long Illness.

Sherman T. Redman, 48, died yesterday at his home, 28 Linden avenue, Alexandria, after a long illness. Besides his wife, Mrs. Louise Dove Redman, he is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Redman, of Washington; four sisters, Mrs. Eva C. Desmand, Mrs. Ethel Logan and Mrs. Elizabeth R. Hodgkin, of Washington, and Mrs. Clara Schweinhaut, of Silver Spring, Md., and two brothers, Harry G. Redman, of Barcroft, Va., and James W. Redman jr., of Washington.

Mr. Redman was a member of Ashburn Lodge No. 288, Masons, of Ashburn, Va.; Baraca Chapter No. 12, Order Eastern Star, and Alexandria Lodge No. 758, B. P. O. Elks.

The funeral will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon from Wheatley's funeral home, 809 King street, Alexandria, conducted by the Rev. Percy Foster Hall, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church. Burial will be at Middleburg, Va.

MRS. ENOCH A. NORRIS DIES

Extended Illness Proves Fatal; Funeral Will Be Held Tomorrow.

Mrs. Mary J. Norris, 82 years old, died yesterday at her home, 1241 E street northeast, following an illness of several years.

Mrs. Norris was born near Hanover, Pa., and had been a resident of Washington for twelve years. She is survived by her husband, Enoch A. Norris.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock. Following requiem mass at Holy Comforter Church at 9:30 o'clock, interment will be in Mount Olivet Cemetery.

Prof. Dewey Warns State Capitalism Perils

(Associated Press.)

Professor John Dewey, president of the People's Lobby, declared in a statement yesterday that America is being plunged overnight into State capitalism.

He warned that unless the members of both branches of Congress now start an effective blockade of all the administration's legislation "we shall have a full-fledged fascism in America within six months after the next President is inaugurated."

Conservative British Legislator Dies.

London, Jan. 17 (A.P.).—Capt. R. R. Henderson, Conservative member of Parliament for Henly Division of Oxfordshire, died today. He was 56 years old.

2 ON G. U. STAFF DIE WITHIN FEW HOURS

Brother Vergil Golden and Rev. G. L. Coyle to Be Buried Tomorrow.

Brother Vergil Golden, S. J., a member of the Georgetown University staff for the last 38 years, died yesterday afternoon at Georgetown Hospital. He had been in ill health for some time and last Friday was operated on for appendicitis.

The Rev. George L. Coyle, S. J., head of the chemistry department at Georgetown, died Saturday in New York. A double funeral will be held from Dahlgren Chapel, in the college quadrangle, at 8 o'clock tomorrow morning. Dr. W. Coleman Nevils, S. J., president, will officiate at the final rites, and both Jesuits will be buried in the college cemetery.

Brother Golden had been head carpenter and supervisor of construction work at Georgetown for many years. He supervised construction of the Georgetown Preparatory School Building at Garrett Park, Md., when the school's staff moved from the Hilltop. Later he built the north wing to the building.

One of Brother Golden's last duties was to remodel the old museum in the Healy Building into President Nevils' executive offices. A few months ago he presented President Nevils with a beautifuly carved walnut desk as a token of esteem. He had built it himself, from the wood of a large tree cut down on the Medical School grounds.

Brother Golden, 73 years old, was a native of Hanover, Pa. On September 29, 1928, the golden jubilee of his admission to the Jesuit order was observed at Georgetown. Before coming here, he served four years at St. Peter's College in Jersey City.

A nephew, Ernest Golden, resides in Lyon Park, Va.

The body of Father Coyle was brought here yesterday afternoon. Students and faculty members will attend the services for both Father Coyle and Brother Golden tomorrow. Members of Father Coyle's family in Philadelphia and Atlantic City will come here for the funeral.

BULLYING CONGRESS CHARGED TO LEGION

Author Holds It Fosters War Spirit; Fish Says It Combats Reds.

New York, Jan. 17 (A.P.).—The American Legion was assailed as an organization that "bullies Congress," and defended as a guardian against tyranny and oppression, anarchy and revolution, in a radio debate today.

Marcus Duffield, author of "King Legion," said the legion was a tool in the hands of a militaristic clique, "a bloc of 1,000,000 voters that has frightened Congress," and as a group that "knows its power and boasts about it."

Representative Hamilton Fish, jr., himself a member, asserted the legion was a "bulwark for law and order" that will aggressively combat "the spread of Communism and all revolutionary doctrines." Both spoke from Station WOR.

Duffield declared the legion, under pressure of "a few energetic generals and ambitious admirals, is not only causing Congress to waste the taxpayers' money by millions, but is actually fostering the war spirit in this country" by its campaigning for a bigger Army and Navy.

"That," said Duffield, "is the menace of the legion."

"What the legion thinks today," replied Representative Fish, "should be welcomed and followed by the American people, as the legion represents a cross-section of our country, all of its members having served in the armed forces of the United States during the World War. If a nation is to be worth dying for in time of war it must be worth living for in time of peace."

Estelle Taylor's Neck In Cast; Visitors Barred

Hollywood, Calif., Jan. 17 (A.P.).—Visitors were denied entry to the hospital room today where Estelle Taylor, motion picture star, is suffering from a fractured cervical vertebrae received in an automobile accident several weeks ago.

Her neck has been placed in a plaster cast. Dr. Maurice Kahn, her physician, said her condition is not considered serious, but that entire quiet will be necessary for at least two weeks.

'ALFALFA BILL' RAPS ALL BUT HIMSELF AS NOMINEE

And Newton D. Baker?

"He is a baby on foreign policy," said the pioneer alfalfa grower from Oklahoma.

He was asked about Gov. Albert C. Ritchie, of Maryland, and Speaker John N. Garner, of Texas, but by this time he was getting irritable and declined to discuss candidates further.

Questioned about his own candidacy, he declined to talk. When pressed, he bit into his black, unlighted cigar, and said:

"A newspaperman ought to be a gentleman, and when a man doesn't want to talk about anything, he should cease to ask questions."

That Murray is a candidate, however, goes without saying. "Murray for President" headquarters have been opened up in a number of States, and it was reported the other day that the governor's brother was in North Dakota making arrangements to enter his name in the presidential primary, which takes place there March 15.

Murray, who was elected Governor of Oklahoma by a record-breaking majority in a race against eight candidates, said in yesterday's interview that the Democrats should not make prohibition an issue in 1932, and he added that they would do well to ignore the League of Nations.

Makes Two Addresses.

Gov. Murray expounded some of the philosophy that has made him famous in two talks yesterday, in the afternoon at the Women's National Democratic Club and last night, at Ingram Memorial Congregational Church.

He carefully gauged both talks to fit in with his different environments and audiences. In the afternoon, reference to the Democratic party was as frequent as his epigrams, while in the evening address, he sedulously avoided any allusion to politics, outside of stressing the point that "the Government needs reforming."

For that matter, Gov. Murray believes a number of things need reforming. He told the congregation which packed the Ingram Church, that education and the Nation's morals require a house-cleaning. He scored the tendency of education to place the number of ball games won in a season above the caliber of the graduates produced.

Attacks Universities.

Speaking on "Who Made the Mind?" Gov. Murray declared that the universities have destroyed more minds than they have benefited. The mind, he observed, is a mystery, having no fixed law or connection with the physical world and entirely separated from wisdom which, he asserted, never comes to man until he grows older, if at all.

The trend toward standardization was excoriated by the Oklahoma chief executive. The press is as much to blame for this as education, he said. The country is duplicating the customs of the old Roman Empire in more ways than one, he averred, adding that this is a dangerous sign.

"If we had followed the conception of the strong helping the weak, instead of putting the dollar above everything else, we wouldn't have the trouble that beset the country today," he asserted. "What we need is the development of a greater conception of thought, and a greater respect for humanity."

Cites Middle Class.

At the Woman's National Democratic Club, Gov. Murray pictured the great middle class of the country on the brink of being destroyed. The Democratic party, he added, can avert this. "If the Democratic party does its duty, it can hold the reins of this country for the next quarter of a century," he declared. The Democratic party, he said, should combine just the right amount of progressiveness, fundamentalism and radicalism to be successful.

He adjured the women to vote, pointing out that through control of the primaries, the people of the country can control the national elections. "Your right to vote," he told the women, "is not like a dress that you can lay aside at your wish. If you women, and all the other women in the country, stay at home instead of going to the polls, many of you will keep your men from voting and politicians will themselves mix the medicine, with ill effects to all of us."

Tendency to destroy the family in the home was described by Gov. Murray as one of the most serious points of degeneration in America today. He advocated State and national laws which would fortify the home, rather than laws which, he averred, are militating against the home.

No Apology on Guards.

Gov. Murray declared that he has no apology to make for using the National Guard to control a bridge in his home State and to control oil well operations. "The bridge is open and its going to stay open until the Supreme Court otherwise decides," he said.

A plank for the Democratic party should include expression of faith in the courts of the United States and their enforcement, but should seek to impeach any judge who acts in defiance of the constitutional privilege of liberty and free speech, the executive said. "To have the right platform, the Democratic party must restore the Jeffersonian principles. You can't avoid reference to Jefferson in mentioning the Democratic party.

"The great middle class, now threatened with being destroyed by capital and corrupt wealth, must be saved by the Democratic party," Gov. Murray continued. "Otherwise the Government will become a despotism under the control of a man like Mussolini or Lenin. The country would become an economic slave, driven by government. But as long as we adhere to the Constitution, this despotism can never arise. And the man who believes in our Constitution can never become a Communist.

Stock Exchange Hit.

Gov. Murray revealed that the Stock Exchange is another of his pet aversions. He likened it to a gigantic poker game, and averred that those who control it should be sent to the penitentiary, just as an individual poker gambler can be sent to jail.

Gov. Murray devoted a portion of his talk to extolling his home State. He described Oklahoma as a State without an idea, but made out of the original raw material "We have an abundance of everything, except too many Republicans, but they are good Republicans," he said. "But there are many persons in the Democratic party who should not be in it, and many Republicans who should be in the Democratic party."

This morning, Gov. Murray will appear before the House ways and means committee and testify on bank taxes. Tonight, in the Mayflower Hotel, he will be the star orator at a banquet of the Antisaloon League, which is holding its biennial convention here.

Wonders of Modern Machines

By H. G. WELLS

In the eighteenth century the art of working in metals was in a very primitive state. The cylinders of some of the early engines were of wooden staves, held together with iron bands, like a barrel. Before Watt entered into partnership with Boulton, he complained bitterly of the lack of skill displayed by mechanics. Some of his cylinders differed from circular section by a quarter of an inch! The machines used for boring them were that much clumsy and inaccurate.

Maudslay, toward the end of the eighteenth century, improved the lathe. But the most important step toward precision was taken by Whitworth. He introduced standard screw threads and made a machine that would measure to a millionth of an inch. The test piece could not be touched with the finger if an accurate measurement was required. The warmth of the hand caused it to expand by an amount which was measurable by the machine. Sellers rendered similar service by standardizing screw threads in America.

* * * *

The next stage toward accuracy was the introduction of gauges. Rule and calipers were not sufficiently delicate, so the work was tested by standard rings, plugs or notched pieces of metal. Then limit gauges came into use. It is easier to machine a piece of metal between two dimensions than to an exact dimension. So gauges were made in pairs, and the work was made larger than one and smaller than the other. Work is now accurate to within a thousandth or a two-thousandth of an inch.

* * * *

Parts of machines made in this way were interchangeable. It was no longer necessary to make a single machine. Parts could be made in dozens, hundreds or thousands, and stored. Any set of parts, selected at random, could then be assembled, and they would fit as perfectly as if they had been made individually for the purpose. Mass production became possible. Sewing machines, typewriters, cash registers, bicycles and a host of things became plentiful and, with the advent of automatic and semiautomatic machinery, relatively cheap. The process was extended upward to heavier machinery. Today a motor car and a 250-horsepower Diesel engine are assembled in the same way as a cash register.

* * * *

Before passing to the stores, the parts are inspected to insure that they are within the prescribed limits. In some cases an optical test is used. The part is projected in profile upon an enlarged drawing on a screen, and any slight departure from accuracy is revealed. The drawing is usually made with double lines representing the limits allowed, and if the image falls between these lines it satisfies the conditions. This method was introduced recently in a works where gauges had been used for years and had acquired errors. Machines failed to work properly; the cause was discovered, and the projection method convinced men who were loth to believe that the fault lay in overconfidence in a traditional practice.

* * * *

Automatic and semiautomatic machinery has been evolved by making it self-acting, first, in respect of one motion and then in respect of another. It has been built up slowly, one step at a time. For a human being to repeat these motions in exactly the same way required an almost superhuman capacity for taking pains. Few craftsmen possess the delicacy of touch, the patience and the conscientiousness to produce the parts by the methods in use 70 or 80 years ago. But with artificial aid, accuracy is largely independent of individual human qualities. The machine-makes the machine. Operation requires little effort, muscular or mental. It has become machine-minded, and women, girls and boys have largely replaced men.

* * * *

How wonderful it is to watch some of these machines at work! Some of them, fed with bar or strip steel at one end, turn out nuts, bolts, screws or washers by the thousand. A big machine is fed with little rods of wood at one end. These are next seen stuck in holes in a traveling belt which winds over pulleys. This belt moves so that the ends of the wooden rods are dipped in hot paraffin wax; then, after an interval for the wax to set, in a composition; and finally delivered as matches neatly packed in boxes. Another machine takes in tobacco and paper and delivers cigarettes, filled, rolled, wetted and sealed, almost faster than the eye can follow. The Barber knotter, used to join up a new set of warp threads to an old warp, will pick up the two threads and tie them together with astonishing accuracy and speed. If it fails once, it does not pass to another pair of threads, but makes a second attempt with the original pair, and with a second failure, a third attempt. After the fourth failure the machine stops, and the operator is called upon to adjust it.

* * * *

Or take another exhibit. The world now consumes more than six hundred million electric lamps every year. The tube from which the bulbs are blown is drawn out continuously from a furnace which operates 24 hours a day. A single works may turn out ten thousand miles of tube a year. The machines not only draw the tube but cut it into lengths. Another machine receives the tube and converts it into a bulb ready for receiving the filament.

Automatic machines are not exactly an innovation, but their use received a great impetus during the war. Before those feverish years, the employment of such machines increased only slowly. They were employed for a few articles for which there was a large demand. Men are naturally conservative, and many manufacturers would have continued to follow traditional methods if they had not been forced by military necessity to adopt new ones. One result was relative cheapness of production. Another was the creation of a productive capacity far exceeding the demands of a world at peace and financially crippled.

Radio Skits to Aid Chest Are Slated

First of New Features to Be Broadcast Over WMAL Tonight.

Two unique radio features, both prepared by J. O. Martin, of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co., for the Community Chest, will be launched this week. The first is a series of three one-act, five-minute playlets, which will be given over WMAL tonight, Thursday night and Saturday night. These playlets have been cast and will be directed by Commodore Wilbert E. Longfellow.

Commodore Longfellow will also cast and direct the second of the features, a series of five-minute sketches of dramatized questions and answers regarding the chest, which will be given every evening, starting tomorrow night, with the exception of Sunday and Monday, over WOL. This series will end next Tuesday night.

Tonight's playlet over WMAL will bring into action Mrs. Wilbert E. Longfellow, Mrs. Donald Wildman, who is well known as an amateur actress, and Commodore Longfellow. Thursday night's skit will be handled by Douglas Withers, of the Boy Scouts; Alvin Thaden and Commodore Longfellow. Saturday's playlet will be presented by Mrs. Wildman, Mrs. Longfellow and Mrs. Jane Williams.

CASSIDY ANNOUNCES SENATE CANDIDACY

(Associated Press.)

Heralding a contest at the Pennsylvania Democratic primary, Lewis C. Cassidy, Philadelphia attorney and professor of law at Georgetown Law School, announced his candidacy yesterday for the party's senatorial nomination.

Cassidy in making his decision said he would enter the race as a protest against what he termed was an "act of dictatorship" by the State Democratic committee recently in the selection of a slate of State-wide candidates. Included in the group selected was Lawrence H. Rupp, of Allentown, as the candidate for United States senator.

A statement by Cassidy called upon the Democratic voters of the State "to repudiate the arrogant usurpation of the State committee" of the State's direct primary law. It added the "boss control pretention" of the State committee "would incite the envy of a Quay and a Penrose," referring to the Republican senators by those names who controlled that party in Pennsylvania in past years.

ALL ILSLEY MURDER CLEWS PROVE FUTILE

Detectives here, in Loudoun County and other cities continued yesterday to run down fruitless leads in the search for the slayer of Mrs. Agnes Boeing Ilsley and her elderly maid in Middleburg, Va.

Several times detectives went to the Southwest section of the city on telephoned tips that George Crawford, chief suspect in the search, had been seen. All of these proved futile quests.

Boston police still maintained a watch on reputed hangouts there of Crawford, but no arrest was made there up to late last night.

Long Island Tip Fails.

Search in the vicinity of Cedarhurst, Long Island, by police there for a Negro said to answer the description of Crawford, also yielded no results. A chunky colored man had caused a general search Saturday when he was seen along the road to Cedarhurst.

Sheriff E. S. Adrian, of Loudoun County, yesterday was busy running down leads and visited a number of colored settlements in the vicinity of Middleburg seeking information as to Crawford, but turned up nothing of value.

T. McCall Frazier, director of the division of motorcycles, has forwarded to Gov. Pollard, at Richmond, a long report of the investigation ordered by the executive of charges that State Traffic Officer T. P. Stafford brutally assaulted a Washington newspaper photographer at the funeral of Mrs. Ilsley.

Officer Claims Resistance.

The report should reach Gov. Pollard by noon today and it was expected that he would immediately take it under advisement. Frazier declined to comment on the report, beyond saying that a rigid investigation had been made as ordered.

Stafford is understood to have claimed that the altercation with the cameraman, Joe Roberts, of the Washington Herald, grew out of the officer's instructions by the clergyman officiating at the funeral to prevent the taking of pictures. He is also said to contend that the photographer resisted.

Three other Washington photographers were arrested and their plates destroyed. At a magistrate's hearing shortly after all were released.

Boy Talks Way Onto Train; Father Gets Bill for Trip

The youthful urge to travel and a glib tongue won John Ankers, jr., 14 years old, of McLean, Va., a train ride to Chicago, but it cost his father $55.56 to get his son home again.

According to Fairfax County, Va., police, the youth started to school Friday morning, but he did not return home that night. His parents, believing he had gone to spend the night with a classmate, did not become alarmed until Saturday, when the boy failed to return. A search ensued, and no trace of the boy could be found. The police started to broadcast a lookout for him when they received a call from Union Station in Washington that a youth from Vienna was being held in Chicago. The description tallied with that of the missing boy.

It was discovered that the boy had gone to Union Station and attempted to board a train, telling the conductor that he had an aunt in Chicago who would meet the train and pay his fare. Believing his convincing tale, the Travelers Aid Society placed him on the Chicago-bound train.

Communicating with Washington, the boy's father was located through the Fairfax police and was told that for $55.56 his erring son would be returned safe and sound.

The Fairfax police were wondering last night what else John will receive from his father besides the train fare as a reward for his trip when he reaches the family woodshed.

can hear from my children and their friends, there is much interest in the contest in the schools of Washington."

The Post Essay Editor can indorse Mrs. Fries' remarks, especially about the interest being taken by boys and girls up to and including the age of 18 years in the public, private and parochial schools of Washington and nearby Virginia and Maryland. Each morning a fresh mountain of mail awaits her attention on her desk.

The Post Essay Editor wishes to remind the contestants that mere recital of historical facts about Washington, no matter how interesting, does not in itself make an essay, in the sense it is regarded in this contest.

Think about the facts learned about George Washington and then write it in an original way. Do not be contented with just stating what you have learned. Put something of yourself—something of your feeling for Washington and your own love of the country Washington helped to build into your essay. In this way, you will have a much better chance to win a prize.

Yesterday being Sunday not all The Post mail was available to the Essay Editor. Such as came to her hands, however, contained many applications for the Washington booklet furnished free of charge to contestants through the courtesy of the George Washington Bicentennial Commission and essays from the following: Roy Stewart, age 16, R. F. D., No. 1, Rosslyn, Va.; Susan Elizabeth King, 1139 New Hampshire avenue northwest, age 11, and Ellen Key Ransdell, age 11, R. F. D., No. 3, Gaithersburg, Md.

Among the essays received within the last three or four days was the following one which deals with a picturesque incident in the boyhood of George Washington. It is printed without the name and with the understanding that its publication in no way affects its final standing in the contest.

George Washington and The Colt.
By

"George Washington was born February 22, 1732. One of the famous episodes during his boyhood was when he tried to tame his mother's favorite colt. George was a very truthful boy. He was determined to tame his mother's spirited colt. George was very fond of riding a horse, of course.

"One morning George with some other boys started to the field to catch and tame the colt. When they reached it, George fed some apples to the colt, while the other boys slipped up to the colt and bridled him. While they held the colt George leaped upon his back. Then the boys let go, and away the colt flew with the boy on his back. Of course, the colt was frightened, surprised and mad. He did everything in his power to throw his rider. But George was determined to stick, and he did. Finally, the colt in one last endeavor to throw his rider, jumped into the air, came down stiff-legged, burst a blood vessel and died. The shock threw George to the ground, but he was not hurt. George had thought that if he had tamed the colt his mother would be very glad, but, as you see, he didn't succeed.

"Now George had no thought whatever of not telling his mother the truth so he went to her and told her everthing. Just before he came to the part where the colt was killed, his mother stopped him with the question: 'And what happened then?' George went on to tell how the colt was killed.

"When he finished his mother put her hands on his shoulders and said: 'My son, I am proud of you, because you have told me the truth. It is true that I am very sorry about the loss of my favorite colt. But what is the loss of a colt compared with a brave and truthful son?'

"This shows how truthful Washington was and how proud he made his mother of her because he was not afraid to tell the truth. You may also be sure how he rejoiced over his mother's words.

"All during his boyhood he remained as truthful as ever. Because he was so truthful was one of the reasons why he was so great a man. Two of the important reasons why he was always so truthful was because his mother helped and encouraged him and he helped himself.

"When he was a great President he said: 'Whatever I am, or hope to be, I owe to my wonderful mother.' By these words we know how he loved and respected his mother. We know also how much he owed to her. George Washington was as loving, gentle and kind as he was brave and truthful. When he died it was said he was the 'Father of His Country' and he was, 'First in war, first in peace, and first in the hearts of his countrymen.'"

Read The Washington Post daily for further news of the contest. Keep up with what is happening in the contest by this daily reading. You will find useful hints about writing your essays from time to time in The Washington Post.

First in the Hearts of His Countrymen

WASHINGTON'S natural fondness for horses and racing and sometimes cock-fighting during his life was entirely in keeping with the traditional tastes of the Virginia gentleman. He not only subscribed liberally to most of the racing purses, but ran his own horses, attending in person, and betting moderately on all the results. He was fond of riding to hounds, and when at Mount Vernon this was one of his favorite pastimes.

He loved hunting and fishing and dragging for sturgeon, too, and often went duck hunting. Although these pursuits were for the most part impossible while Washington was in office, he did occasionally manage to slip away. In 1790 a paper records: "Yesterday afternoon the President of the United States returned from Sandy Hook and the fishing banks, where he had been for the benefit of the sea air and to amuse himself in the delightful recreation of fishing. We are told he has had excellent sport, having caught a great number of black sea bass and blackfish. The weather proved remarkably fine, which altogether with the salubrity of the air and wholesome exercise, rendered this little voyage extremely agreeable, and can not fail, we hope, of being serviceable to a speedy and complete restoration of health."

Both the President and Mrs. Washington were exceedingly fond of the theater, in spite of the vigorous opposition accorded this art in every State in the Union. During his Presidency Washington used the theater for entertaining, his ledger showing purchases of tickets bought and sent to various ladies and gentlemen with the invitation to occupy a seat in his box.

They went to puppet shows, to see dancing bears and to Mrs. Bowen's wax works at No. 74 Water street, New York, and also attended the circus, where a famed equestrian of the times performed in the ring with his company of skilled riders and acrobats.

Although Washington was extremely fond of dancing, and was an accomplished dancer of the period, the consensus of opinion is that neither he nor Mrs. Washington danced while he was in office. Some historians maintain that he danced at a ball which was given in his honor soon after his first inauguration, and before Mrs. Washington had arrived from Mount Vernon. On this occasion he is said to have danced the cotillion with Mrs. Peter Livingston and Mrs. Maxwell, and to have led the minuet with Mrs. Maxwell's sister, Miss Van Zant, one of the famous beauties of New York.

On Tuesday afternoon, November 25, 1783, the people of New York City witnessed an event which to them was the occasion for great rejoicing. It was on that day that Sir Guy Carleton and the British army embarked for England to end their seven-year occupation of the American metropolis. At the head of the procession which moved into the city as the Britons left, rode Gen. George Washington, and no one in that great throng could have been happier than he. From the moment Gen. Howe seized the city in 1776 Washington had never given up hope of driving out the invaders. This plan was in his mind in the summer of 1781, and in all probability he would have attacked Clinton there had not the French fleet under De Grasse sailed for the Chesapeake, thus making it advisable to besiege Cornwallis at Yorktown instead of moving against the British commander in chief in New York.

Rancher's Son Killed by Dogs.

Santa Cruz, Calif., Jan. 17 (A.P.).—Pete Pesenti, 6-year-old son of Antone Pete Pesenti, Happy Valley rancher, was killed today by five dogs which attacked him near his home, 11 miles north of here. The dogs were said to be owned by a neighbor. An inquest will be held tomorrow.

2 Kentucky Clans Bury Feud Victims

London, Ky., Jan. 17 (A.P.).—An atmosphere of unaccustomed tension pervaded the quiet graveyard of the Baptist Church at New Salem this afternoon as the Crook and Johnson clans buried their sons, shot to death in a feud outbreak that claimed four lives yesterday.

In keeping with the mountain tradition that no reprisals be attempted until after the funerals and brief period of mourning, Homer and Forrest Crook and Henry and Earl Johnson, two pairs of brothers, were laid to rest peaceably in the churchyard in which they met death. The honor of a 17-year-old sister of the Crook brothers was the cause of the shooting.

Henry Johnson, cousin of the two slain Johnsons, lay dying today in a Londan hospital, shot through the liver, kidney and gall bladder. Hospital attendants said he might survive the night, but had practically no chance to live. Willie Johnson, whom the Crooks' accused of wronging their sister, was released after treatment for a bullet wound in the arm.

Capital Man Held In Fatal Accident

M. C. Fisher Detained in Alabama During Auto Death Probe.

Special to The Washington Post.

Montgomery, Ala., Jan. 17.—M. C. Fisher, of Washington, is being detained here under technical charges pending investigation of an accident on the Bee Line Highway 4 miles from Montgomery late last night in which an automobile driven by Mr. Fisher struck and fatally injured John Holt, colored, of route 5, Montgomery. Mr. Fisher gave his address at 736 Arlington Building, Washington.

Mr. Fisher's car struck Holt as he walked along the highway. Mr. Fisher brought the injured man to a hospital here, where he died this morning.

Chief Deputy Sheriff Sellers is investigating the accident. Fisher came to the sheriff's office and surrendered after the accident, but he was not arrested and no warrant has been issued for his arrest. He was advised to remain in Montgomery under a technical charge of suspicion pending a complete investigation of the accident.

CHAMBER IN FAIRFAX RAPS REDISTRICTING

Will Send Committee to Richmond to Protest Abolition Plan.

The Fairfax County Chamber of Commerce Saturday adopted a resolution protesting abolition of the Eighth Virginia Congressional District and indorsing a similar resolution adopted by the Fairfax County Board of Supervisors.

Legislators of northern Virginia addressing the directors included Delegate Hugh Reid, of Arlington County; State Senator John W. Rust, of Fairfax, and Delegate Edmund H. Allen, of Fairfax County. The proposed district, they declared, would be anything but compact.

Members of the board of directors of the trade body stated inasmuch as Virginia is to lose one of its congressional districts that the district last formed should be the first to be abolished. They realized that some change is necessary, but declared the Eighth District should remain intact, because of its situation in relation to Washington and the Federal Government.

Directors of the chamber voted to send a committee to Richmond to appear before the State Assembly to protest abolition of the district. President John W. Brookfield, of Springfield, appointed the following members of the committee: Commonwealth's Attorney Wilson M. Farr, County Clerk F. W. Richardson, County Treasurer F. W. Huddleson, County Commissioner of Revenue James U. Kincheloe, W. F. P. Reid, chairman of the county board of supervisors; F. Sheild McCandlish and Robert R. Buckley, of Fairfax; Capt. Thurlow White, of Baileys Cross Roads; Earl Saum, of Mount Vernon district; Herbert Williams, of Vienna; Guy N. Church, of Falls Church; Mrs. E. D. Vosbury, of Merrifield, and Mrs. Viola Money, of Colvin Run.

Delegate Allen, former president of the chamber, stated he would introduce a measure in the House of Delegates amending the Arlington County zoning act. If such amendment were passed, Allen stated, Fairfax County not only would be prepared to safeguard her future, but also would gain the right to regulate hog farms which feed garbage; public dance halls and tourists camps. Another bill to be introduced by Delegate Allen will give the Fairfax County supervisors the same power to regulate billboards that is now enjoyed by cities and Arlington County.

'Quick Divorce' Law Is Signed in Mexico

Chihuahua's New Mail Order Statute Is Expected to Take Effect Today.

Mexico City, Jan. 17 ((A.P.).—Chihuahua's so-called "mail order" divorce law has been signed by Gov. Roberto Fierro and probably will become effective tomorrow, said a dispatch today to El Universal Grafico.

The newspaper's correspondent said personal appearance would not be necessary to obtain easy and quick divorces under the law. Divorces, he said, could be granted by proxy upon written application by both parties involved. Divorces by mutual consent would be granted within one day, while contested actions would require 20 days.

Divorced men would be able to remarry immediately, but divorcees would be forbidden from marrying again within nine months.

The cost of a divorce would be 120 pesos, which at the present rate of exchange is just $50.

Women Will Urge Rights in Congress

National Party Will Seek "Sex" Amendment to Constitution.

(Associated Press.)

An amendment of the Constitution to give "equal rights" to women is to be urged before Congress by the National Council of the National Woman's Party as the only way in which the women of the United States can obtain that objective.

Instances of methods "tried and found wanting" in obtaining such equal rights were cited at a meeting yesterday of the council. These included what was described as "the Nation-wide attempts to force women out of industry during the present period of depression."

Complaining of the slowness of gains in State legislatures and that "sex discrimination can and will be written into new laws," the statement resolved for concentration upon an "equal rights" amendment in the present session of Congress.

Mostly Dry Law Cases On Fairfax Court List

The January term of the Circuit Court of Fairfax County, Va., will open this morning with Judge Walter T. McCarthy presiding. This term of court promises to have a small criminal docket with only about 30 indictments and presentments.

The major portion of the criminal cases will be for the violation of the State prohibition law, and will be submitted to the court by presentments of Commonwealth's Attorney Wilson M. Farr. A grand jury to hear the felony presentments will be summoned this morning.

Year after year the Community Chest has so conducted its affairs as to gain the increasing confidence of the public.

Outstanding business men and philanthropists have given freely of their time and services to bring the Chest to its present condition of efficiency.

In these particularly distressing times it would appear that all who can possibly afford it will give freely so that in the stupendous task of maintaining our various charitable institutions, due to the unusual exigencies on account of unemployment, the Chest may have the necessary means to carry on.

Driver Saved From Fire as Auto Crashes

An autoist pinned under his car, which overturned after he fell asleep at the wheel, was saved from the burning wreck yesterday by another motorist.

Conrad L. Spaack, 53 years old, of Cabin John, Md., an employe of a milk company, was returning to his home when, according to police, he fell asleep at the wheel while driving on Conduit road, near Glen Echo, Md.

The automobile left the road and struck several rural mail boxes. Spaack was awakened and attempted to swerve back on the road, and struck a telephone pole, overturning the automobile, which then began to burn.

Spaack was trapped under the machine. He was rescued by George Graham, of Glen Echo, Md. The fire was extinguished by the Glen Echo Fire Department. Spaack was taken to Georgetown University Hospital for treatment of head injuries and a dislocated right shoulder.

USING OFFICE TO GET VOTES IS PROHIBITED

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Arlington County employes, while assured of free voting privileges, are prohibited from using their offices to influence the votes of other employes, Roy S. Braden, county manager, declared yesterday in a statement outlining what he requires of workers.

Asserting that the county manager system is not based on political lines, Mr. Braden points out that in an effort to destroy political patronage, no person having relatives on the county pay roll will be given employment. Persons already in the county's employ, however, will not be affected by this order.

The county does not maintain a pension list, the manager adds, and will not employ persons simply because they are unable to get work elsewhere. County employes, who are not under Civil Service, he declared, will receive promotion on the basis of merit.

Department heads will be expected to take "a personal interest in those within their own departments," the statement continues. It calls on department chiefs to familiarize themselves with all conditions and associations surrounding their personnel, that they may better understand workers' problems and "in so doing be able to develop and hold within the service a higher type of satisfied employe."

Lee and Jackson Celebration Is Set

Arlington U. D. C. Plans Program; Schools Are Closed Tomorrow.

Arlington Chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, will celebrate the birthdays of Gen. Robert E. Lee and Gen. Stonewall Jackson and Commodore Matthew Fontaine Maury with appropriate exercises tomorrow evening at the home of Mrs. Eleanor Freeman Hatcher, 140 Marion avenue, at Clarendon.

Commonwealth's Attorney Lawrence W. Douglas is announced as the principal speaker.

The program will include vocal solos by Mrs. Henry L. Woodyard and recitations by Miss Claudia Sutton. Mrs. Lulu McLean Taylor will lead in the singing of old Southern songs.

Arlington County public schools will be closed tomorrow according to an announcement from the offices of County School Superintendent Fletcher Kemp.

P.-T. A. to Hear Dr. Farley.

The Parent-Teacher Association of the Cherrydale School will hold its January meeting this evening at 8 o'clock in the school auditorium.

Dr. Belmont Farley, assistant director of publications of the National Education Association, will speak on "Character Education in Public Schools."

ALEXANDRIA PARADE ROUTE TO BE FIXED

Washington Birthday Association Will Meet on Plans Tonight.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU:
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

A meeting of the George Washington Birthday Association will be held in the Chamber of Commerce rooms at 8 o'clock tonight, when many of the plans for the parade to be held February 22 will be discussed.

The hour for the parade has already been set for 2:30 p. m. Among the questions to be settled are the site for the reviewing stand and the public stands, which will be at some point on North Washington street, and the route of the parade. Owing to the width of the newly completed Mount Vernon Memorial Boulevard, which traverses Washington street, it is possible that the route will be somewhat changed from that followed in previous years.

Delegate J. Fred Birrell, who represents Alexandria in the Virginia General Assembly, has called attention to a headline which appeared in The Post of yesterday, intimating that the city council of Alexandria "Also Opposes Proposal of Delegate to Divide the Eighth District.'

The article in question had stated that the city council had gone on record as opposing a bill introduced in the Virginia House of Delegates to change the present set-up of the city council, and added that the council "also adopted a resolution opposing any plan for redistricting this State which involves the division of the present entity of the Eighth Congressional District."

The proposal to redistrict Virginia and abolish the present Eighth District, did not, of course, originate with Delegate Birrell. As a matter of fact, he stated yesterday, since the present representative from the Eighth District is from Alexandria, he feels a personal interest in opposing the redistricting plan, as well as the conviction that to abolish the Eighth District as now constituted would work to the decided disadvantage of Northern Virginia, and it is his purpose to assist in every possible way the efforts being made to keep the district intact. He regrets that his position should have been misunderstood, and assures the people of Alexandria that he will oppose any redistricting plan which involves the division or the abolishing of the Eighth Congressional District of Virginia.

James H. Bradley died on Saturday evening at his home, 2121 H street northwest, Washington, and the body was brought to the home of his mother, Mrs. Charlotte E. Bradley, 604 Cameron street, Alexandria. The funeral will be held at 9:30 o'clock tomorrow morning from St. Mary's Catholic Church, and burial in St. Mary's cemetery.

Dry Law to Stay, Brookhart States

"Great speeches on prohibition have been made in the past; from now on they will be merely funeral orations, for the eighteenth amendment has come to stay," said Senator Smith W. Brookhart at a National Antisaloon League meeting in the Washington Lee High School at Ballston, Va., yesterday.

"Moreover, the prohibition law can be enforced. I know that it can be enforced for I was a prosecuting attorney in Washington County, Iowa, and enforced it. In my first appearance in Congress in Washington I saw in the same year more drunken members of Congress than I have seen in the years under prohibition. Don't be afraid of the outcome of prohibition. We are going to have some votes in Congress, but while we have had a few losses in the House by redistricting especially we still have a large majority in that body and substantially a two-thirds majority in the Senate."

There were also brief addresses by Superintendent Edward J. Richardson, of the Virginia Antisaloon League and Dr. McCary, of the National League. The meeting was presided over by former State Senator Frank Ball, of Clarendon.

Royal Speech to Open Parliament.

Belgrade, Jugoslavia Jan. 17 (A.P.). King Alexander for the first time in the history of Jugoslavia will open Parliament with a speech from the throne in a joint session of both houses tomorrow.

How to Reduce Colds and Their Costs This Winter

One of Family's Biggest Problems Met With Vick "Control-of-Colds" Plan

To most families this winter, the high costs of colds are an extra burden. Loss of time, health and money are involved. To reduce the drain of this burdensome family "Colds-Tax" is the purpose of the Vick Plan for better "Control-of-Colds"—to lessen their number, severity and duration.

Plan Follows New Discovery.

The Vick Plan is made possible with Vicks Nose & Throat Drops. Based on a new idea for "preventing" colds, this new Vick discovery is companion to Vicks VapoRub, the modern way of "treating" colds. Each aids and supplements the other for better "Control-of-Colds."

Here, briefly, is the Vick Plan:

1.—Before a Cold Starts

Watch yourself whenever you have been exposed to anything that you know is apt to give you a cold, such as—

Contact with others having fresh colds—crowds, stuffy ill-ventilated rooms, public places—a night on a Pullman or a dusty automobile ride—sudden changes in temperature—inhaling smoke, dust, gases—excesses in living, such as over-eating, smoking or drinking, which reduce body resistance—after a hard day when you are over tired.

Then—if you feel that stuffy, sneezy irritation of the nasal passages, Nature's usual signal that a cold is coming on—use Vicks Nose Drops at once—just a few drops up each nostril. Repeat every hour or so if needed. This will prevent many colds by stopping them before they get beyond the nose and throat—where most colds start.

2.—After a Cold Starts

At night, massage the throat and chest well with Vicks VapoRub (now available in white "stainless" form, if you prefer). Spread on thick and cover with warm flannel. Leave the bed-clothing loose around the neck so that the medicated vapors arising can be inhaled all night long.

If the air-passages are badly clogged with mucus, melt some VapoRub in a bowl of hot water and inhale the steaming vapors for several minutes. (If there is a cough, you will like the new Vick Cough Drop—actually medicated with ingredients of Vicks VapoRub.)

During the day—any time, any place—use Vicks Nose Drops every few hours as needed. This gives you full 24-hour treatment and without the risks of too much internal "dosing," which so often upsets digestion—especially of children.

Offer By Local Druggists

Your druggist is offering Vicks Nose Drops and Vicks VapoRub on the following trial guarantee: Use these preparations together as directed in the Vick Plan for better "Control-of-Colds." Unless you are delighted with results, your money will be refunded.

END THE UNCERTAINTIES.

It is reassuring that both Congress and the administration apparently appreciate the necessity of definite action with regard to all phases of Federal finance. Nothing is so unsettling to business as uncertainty. The demand today is that legislative action and Government policy be determined and made known regarding taxation, bonds and short term issues, administrative economies and relief measures. Financial, industrial and commercial activity await settlement of these questions.

Congress appears to be in the mood to reduce still further the budget estimates with a view to balancing the Government income next year if possible. The administration will doubtless go along with Congress in this direction, and likewise will conform to any reasonable increases in taxation. Both legislative branches seem disposed to put through the various credit relief measures comprised in the President's program. There remains the question of how the deficit will be financed during the current year.

Financial centers today fortunately are in a position to adjust themselves to almost any plans that are decided upon in connection with Government financing. All they ask is that these plans be formulated as promptly as possible. It seems to be generally conceded that conditions at present favor short-time issues to meet Treasury needs rather than further bond offerings. Until it is known in financial centers how much and what form Government issues will take it is difficult to figure on credits that can be released for private needs. The Treasury can not complete its plans until taxes are settled.

The sooner the national budget can be balanced and the market relieved of any demand for Federal financing the better it will be for business. The very prospects of credit assistance from the various agencies proposed by the measures now before Congress has already heartened the commercial world and the more promptly their activities are inaugurated the sooner business will be stimulated and put on the road to normal activity.

BAKER ELIMINATED.

Newton D. Baker, Secretary of War in President Wilson's Cabinet, has been considered in many quarters the most formidable "dark horse" in the 1932 race for the Democratic presidential nomination. Ever since the war Mr. Baker has been a potential candidate. There have been strong indications on several occasions that he would step out into the open and make an active fight. But Mr. Baker has been hesitant. In spite of his excellent showing in a number of straw votes this year he has refused to allow his name to be used in any organized movement. There is little possibility that he will change his mind.

Apparently Mr. Baker has been waiting all these years for a swing back toward the League of Nations. He is the most distinguished advocate of the league in the United States. The ardor with which he supported President Wilson's dream of world unity has never died down. It is rumored that he made a covenant with himself never to speak in public without saying a good word for the league. Whether or not that is true, Mr. Baker seems to have carried out the motive behind the rumor with remarkable assiduity.

The opportunity for which he seems to have waited has not come. Sentiment in favor of the United States becoming a member of the league is weaker than it has ever been. The American people are firmly convinced that they could gain nothing and might lose much through membership of this Government in the league. They are outraged by the attitude of Europe toward payment of the so-called war debt installments. A campaign favoring entrance into the League of Nations at this time would give assurance of overwhelming defeat from the beginning.

The attitude of the public has not dissuaded Mr. Baker from his own views with regard to the league. In a letter read before the League of Nations Association in Philadelphia he declared himself "impressed with the idea that we ought more and more to argue a sympathetic attitude toward the league purely as a means of protecting American interests." He regards isolation of the United States as unsafe, and urges by implication that this country join the league at once. Linked closely with this plea was the demand of other internationalists for "readjustment" of the intergovernmental debts.

Mr. Baker is too shrewd a politician to allow his name to be brought forward while sentiment against any further European concessions is running high. He knows very well that the Democratic party would not dare to nominate a candidate who favors the League of Nations and cancellation of the war debts. For this reason it may be assumed that Mr. Baker will keep out of the race entirely. His devotion to the League of Nations and his willingness to entangle the United States in European politics automatically eliminates him from consideration.

THE NEED OF UNITY.

In an address before the Young Republicans of New Jersey, on Saturday, Secretary Wilbur contrasted the confidence and cooperation with which the American people met the problems of war with the suspicion and disunion which they now manifest in the midst of an economic crisis. "During the great war," he said, "our people, regardless of party, prejudice and selfishness, united in carrying forward the most extensive programs of a financial, economic, military and social character." Now "Washington has become the wailing wall of a whole Nation." Instead of "courage and resource and united action," the present emergency is characterized by "fear, suspicion, back-biting and selfishness, so that the Congress and the administration, instead of having help have had all the Nation's problems greatly complicated."

Economic convulsions are always more difficult to fathom than wars, and in some cases their effects are more devastating. Why have not the people realized the serious import of the depression and given their wholehearted support to its solution? The element of cohesion is lacking. Every one realizes that the United States is fundamentally sound, and only a few "gloom garnerers" believe that hard times have come to stay. Yet fear grips nearly every home. Every one hesitates to take a step forward because he distrusts the future. The general effect is cumulative pessimism which has no foundation in fact or actuality.

It is true that serious maladjustments have developed. But they are of a type that should lend encouragement for the future progress of humanity. In the words of Secretary Wilbur, "we are suffering from too much—too much wealth, too much power, too much opportunity coming to us too fast for us to distribute wisely and for the greatest benefit of the largest number." He thinks America is "attempting to operate the greatest economic and social mechanism in the history of man with machinery devised largely for an agricultural civilization where, regardless of legislation, most of our citizens were assured of shelter and food."

These are problems that demand cooperation, sincere understanding and not factionalism. Panaceas will not suffice. Legislation will not change the economic fundamentals that are out of adjustment. But a disposition on the part of the people to pull together toward a more stable economic structure would doubtless rout the depression within a month. Selfishness is unquestionably the greatest impediment to a rapid recovery. Unity of purpose has disappeared from the national psychology, which a few years ago sent the whole Nation hustling to accomplish a gigantic undertaking. Instead of support, there has been complaint. The necessity for changing this outlook must be obvious to every American. It is time for the people themselves to halt their disorderly retreat, reestablish a firm footing, and then begin the forward march once more.

FOREIGN LABOR COSTS.

Striking differences between the cost of living in America and Europe are revealed by the survey of the international labor office. It is well known that American workmen occupy a more favorable position than those of any other nation, but the contrast has never before been so graphically illustrated.

European employers would not allow the international labor organization to compare wages in America with those of Europe, because of the feeling of unrest which such a comparison might arouse. But the Institute of Scientific Management made an investigation of its own into the wages actually paid in European cities. The surveys on both wages and the cost of living emphasize the superior position of the American workingman.

The cost of maintaining a worker's family consisting of a wife and two children in Detroit is represented by 100. In Stockholm the same standard could be maintained for 99 to 104; Frankfort, 85-93; Copenhagen, 83-91; Berlin, 83-90; Cork, 85; Helsingfors, 83; Paris, 80-87; Marseilles, 75-81; Manchester, 70-74; Warsaw, 67; Rotterdam, 65-68; Istanbul, 65; Antwerp, 61.65; Barcelona, 58. This means that manufacturers could pay the equivalent of American wages in Europe and still manufacture at a much lower cost for labor, provided the same efficiency were obtained.

But European manufacturers do not pay wages that make it possible for their employes to live according to American standards. The average Detroit mechanic lives in a detached house occupied exclusively by his family and equipped with electricity, gas, central heating and a bathroom. These conveniences in Europe are almost unknown to workers' families. In Detroit 47 per cent of the families studied have automobiles, 36 per cent radios, 80 per cent sewing machines, 21 per cent vacuum cleaners, 45 per cent phonographs, 49 per cent electric washing machines and 98 per cent electric irons. "None of these items," says the report, "has a place in the calculation of budgets for the European cities."

A Finn in Helsingfors could live at the standard of a Detroit workman receiving $1,550 per year if he were paid only $1,274. But in reality he receives $481. In Barcelona the wage of a mechanic is not much more than one-third of what it would be if the Detroit standard were in vogue. Even in Paris and Berlin wages would have to be increased by about 50 per cent to bring living standards up to the American level.

Europe is still practicing the exploitation of its labor with a view of selling large quantities of its products abroad, instead of building up its home markets by raising the standards of living. One factor—the greater efficiency of American labor—does not enter into these comparisons, but it can not be assumed that American workingmen will continue indefinitely to produce more per man than do Europeans. Modern methods, machinery, American capital and management are being applied to industry in Europe. Efficiency is rapidly increasing, but wages lag behind.

It is obvious that industries in the United States can not compete with those in Europe which are using this cheap labor unless they are given protection by means of the tariff. Any move to deprive American industries of the preference they are allowed in the home market is essentially a step toward reducing American workingmen to the European level.

CARING FOR THE NEEDY.

Wherever reliable figures are available they show that the generosity of the American people is everywhere rising this year to meet increasing demands for assistance to those affected by unemployment. Statistics from the Department of Labor for the first nine months of 1931, just issued, indicate that 127 per cent more money was given in direct family relief in 56 large cities of the United States than during the same period the year before. In comparison with 1929 the increase was 348 per cent. The amount expended in these cities exceeded $30,000,000. Reports covering the important work of missions, shelters, municipal lodging houses and such agencies show an even greater expansion.

The question as to whether Federal aid will be required in connection with local and State relief organizations is being quite thoroughly aired before congressional investigations. While representatives of several organizations and communities have expressed belief in the necessity of a Federal appropriation, certainly no one is in as favorable a position to view the entire field of relief activity as well as Walter S. Gifford, director of the President's organization on unemployment relief.

In Mr. Gifford's opinion the net result of Federal aid might well be that it would leave the unemployed who are in need worse instead of better off. Hundreds of thousands of earnest workers are now engaged in the collection and distribution of relief funds provided by communities, counties and States. Should the sense of responsibility for this work be lessened, as it would inevitably be by Federal aid, it is doubtful whether any governmental effort could begin to take its place. Popular funds would dwindle, business organizations would shuffle their relief work upon Uncle Sam, and local appropriations of all kinds would be less. There is no influence so deadening to private initiative as the excuse of letting the Government do it.

In all official tabulations giving the total of appropriations and collected funds there is never included one element of relief effort that is probably most important of all, and which cares for more unemployed than any other. This is the "invisible" relief. Mr. Gifford explains it as the cash aid and the board and lodging extended to relatives, friends and neighbors, the aid given by religious, fraternal, labor and other organizations; the voluntary and involuntary remission of debts by merchants and landlords; and the aid, quite real in this depression, extended by business concerns to former employes. Official statistics of necessity show public appropriations as exceeding private charity, but if all the items of invisible relief could be marshaled as completely as those of public funds they would vastly exceed all other sources of help extended to the needy and unemployed.

Come on, help make the Community Chest a hope chest for Washington's needy!

M. Laval would postpone the reparation conference in order to learn the American attitude on intergovernmental debts in case the German moratorium is extended. The premier must be rather hard of hearing.

Statements came from both sides on prohibition's twelfth birthday, drys claiming that 65 per cent less liquor is consumed, the wets asserting that there are three speakeasies for every former saloon, and that the annual drink bill has increased a billion dollars. You Can't Shelter the Homeless If You Tear Down the House to Get Fuel

By ROBERT QUILLEN

DURING the influenza epidemic that multiplied the horrors of the great war, there were many homes in which every member of the family was down. Friends and relatives were busy ministering to the afflicted in their own households, or were kept away by fear, and no one appeared to give a helping hand except the overburdened physician.

In one such home there were four victims of the disease—a young man who had won some renown as an amateur athlete, his wife, and two infant daughters. All were sick abed, but required no more than the exercise of reasonable discretion to be assured of recovery.

The athlete, however, was too big of heart and too confident of his strength to coddle himself while those he loved needed his care and service.

He got out of bed to play a man's part, and the motives that prompted him were noble. But the services he rendered, though gratefully received, were not required to save his loved ones from death, and their cost far exceeded their value. He developed pneumonia and died.

Did he serve his family well or ill?

He left a widow and two small daughters to fend for themselves—without money or guidance or protection.

If his love had been wiser, and his pride of strength less, would he not have known that his first duty was to save himself for further and greater services?

Consider America's duty to the world.

If it is true that America's good fortune obligates her people to support and succor the poor and the weak in other lands, or if "enlightened self-interest" requires this Nation to assist others in their hour of need in order to prevent an economic collapse that would endanger American loans and markets, is it reasonable or right or wise to serve the weak by sacrificing the Nation on whose strength they depend for salvation?

If America should or can save the world, she can do it only by preserving her own strength.

Save America first and the salvation of the world will follow in due season.

There is no service or good that America can do in her present plight that would not be done more efficiently and effectively if she first placed her own house in order.

Kansas City Times.

Arkansas has sometimes heard gentle reproach for its alleged lack of those qualities which some other States have chosen to call "progressive," though their interpretation of that word has not always been accepted everywhere.

Arkansas may now indulge a gentle rejoinder if it chooses. It is the first State in the Union to elect a woman to the United States Senate. Let the "progressive" States mark that. Mrs. Caraway is not the first woman to sit in the Senate, but she is the first to be elected to it. At the beginning of the present session of Congress she sat there by the appointment of the governor of Arkansas, but the voters of the State now have given her more solid credentials and she becomes by their suffrages the first full-fledged woman senator.

At least Arkansas is progressive in the sense of not being bound by tradition.

Senator Shipstead proposes a short cut to prosperity. He would have the Government printing presses start turning out greenbacks, which would make money cheaper and thereby advance prices. There is no doubt it would accomplish both of those objects. With the world still remembering what happened to Germany right after the war, when Germany tried the same short cut, it is not likely that more than one vote will be cast for our senior senator's proposal. Germany's attempt at inflation resulted in the mark being so lowered in value that it ceased to have any value. Having the same thing happen to our dollar would hardly be in the public interest.

It's No Place for the United States.

Detroit Free Press.

The decision of the administration in Washington to abstain from all participation in the reparations conference shortly to take place in Europe is consistent with the contentions and attitude of Washington from the beginning. The United States always has held that reparations is strictly a European matter, in which this country is not concerned, and official recognition of the conference, even to the extent of sending an observer, would be an opening wedge to consequent recognition of the legitimacy of the French contention that payment of the war debts to this country depends upon payment of German reparations to those that owe us. There is neither reason nor logic to bolster such a contention, nothing but assumption by a nation that wants to dodge its honest obligations.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Al Smith Would Poll More Votes Than Last Time, Says Protestant Democrat.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I should appreciate a little space in your paper by way of replying to Mr. A. M. Gibson, in his letter to the Editor.

Apropos of his remarks relative to the prospects of Alfred E. Smith becoming the nominee of the Democratic party this year, I desire to inform him, believing him to be a Hoover Democrat, that the real Democrats of the country are believers in fair play, and should Al Smith decide to enter the contest he would poll more votes this time than he did in the last election.

Now that the country has been through the worst administration in the history of the country at the hands of the Republicans, together with the fact the people of the country (bigots and ignoramuses excepted) have had time for mature thought as to the real cause of Mr. Smith's defeat, together with the despicable methods employed by the bigots and Republicans alike in the contest, right thinking people, Catholic and Protestant alike (I am Protestant) resent such vilification and unfair treatment accorded to Mr. Smith in the last election, and this time would not hesitate to register an emphatic protest by way of indorsing and voting for him should he again become the party's candidate for President.

Moreover, the Hoover Democrats had better remember that the Northern Democrats, particularly those of Mr. Smith's faith, have not forgotten the real issues of the campaign, together with the underhanded methods employed in bringing about his defeat solely because of his religious belief. They stand ready and willing to bolt the party and vote for Hoover, as bad as he is, rather than for a candidate acceptable to the Southern Democracy merely because he happens to be a Protestant, hence desirable to them for that reason alone.

Remember the Southern Democracy is hooey without the Northern Donkey. 100 PER CENT DEMOCRAT.

Faulty Prescriptions Put Up by Drugstore "Boys;" Flagrant Violation of Law.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Am writing regarding the investigation by the Department of Agriculture regarding the compounding of prescriptions in drug stores, wherein 67 out of 100 were found to be incorrect and 35 so flagrant as to warrant prosecution by the courts. How is it that such things happen? Why do you not hear any more about it?

The law states that prescriptions can only be filled by a registered pharmacist or by a junior clerk when the registered man is present with him. Is this law being carried out?

The trouble with the pharmacies of today is that they do not care to have the expense of a registered man all the time, and they take the liberty of leaving their stores to attend affairs on the outside, leaving the running of the store to the "boys." Or possibly they are not interested in prescriptions, but want to sell more sideline merchandise. If so, why not take the sign of drug store down? Where is the drug store of years gone by? It appears to be a lunch room now.

The public should insist upon having the services of a registered pharmacist. Make him show his certificate, which the law requires shall be hung conspicuously while on duty.

Vice President and Mr. and Mrs. Gann Will Be Guests at Dinner Saturday of Commandant and Mrs. Fuller

THE VICE PRESIDENT, MR. Charles Curtis, and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Everett Gann, will be the guests at dinner Saturday evening of the Commandant of the Marine Corps and Mrs. Ben H. Fuller.

Mrs. Fuller will receive this afternoon and the remaining Mondays in January and February.

The Italian Ambassador and Donna Antonietta de Martino will entertain informally at luncheon today in the embassy.

The Japanese Ambassador, Mr. Katsuji Debuchi, and Mme. Depuchi, will be the guests of honor on Wednesday evening, February 3, at the dinner to be given at the Waldorf Astoria in New York, by the Japan Society.

Mr. Henry W. Taft is chairman of the dinner committee, and the other members are Messrs. Jerome D. Greene, Jerome J. Hanauer, R. Ishida, T. Kazama, S. Sonoda and Burnett Walker.

Mr. George W. Wickersham, the new president of the Japan Society, will preside. Miss Toshiko Sekiya, Japanese soprano, will sing.

The Ambassador of Great Britain and Lady Lindsay entertained at luncheon yesterday, when their guests were Representative Ruth Baker Pratt, Representative and Mrs. Robert Low Bacon, Representative and Mrs. Richard Aldrich, Mrs. Nicholas Longwoth, the Marchese and Marchesa Origo, Mrs. Eliot Cross, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Higgins, Mr. Julian Mason, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Blair, Mr. Jack Speiden, Mr. Coleman Jennings and the minister-counselor of the embassy, Mr. F. G. D. Osborne.

Lady Lindsay will leave later in the week for Boca Grande, Fla., where she will spend several weeks.

Mr. Herridge Entertains Mr. and Mrs. Phillips.

The Canadian Minister, Mr. William D. Herridge, entertained at luncheon Saturday for the former United States Minister to Canada and Mrs. William Phillips, who have been visiting at the legation.

The ranking guests were the Belgian Ambassador and Mme. May, and the other guests included the Counselor of the Legation and Mrs. Hume Wrong, the Marchese and Marchesa Origo, Mrs. Adolph Miller, Mrs. Walter Bruce Howe, Mrs. Tracy Dows, Mr. J. Pierrepont Moffatt and Mr. Thomas Stone, Second Secretary of the Legation.

Mr. Herridge will be the guest of honor at the banquet which the American Patent Lawyers Association will give on February 16, at the Mayflower.

Mrs. William N. Doak will be "at home" at the Willard from 4 to 6 on Wednesday. Mrs. Doak will receive in the presidential suite.

Assisting Mrs. Drake were Mrs. Thomas F. Walsh, Mrs. Peyton Gordon, Mrs. Robert V. Fleming and Mrs. John Allen Dougherty.

Mrs. Peyton Gordon will not receive this afternoon, but will be at home on next Monday.

Mrs. Russell Bennett will entertain at a small tea this afternoon in her home on Massachusetts avenue for Gen. and Mrs. Goodlow Edgar, of Detroit, who are visiting in Washington.

Mr. and Mrs. David E. Finley entertained at luncheon yesterday.

William McK. Laughlin Will Wed Miss Pratt.

Of interest to Washington is the engagement of Miss Cynthia Pratt, to Mr. William McKennon Laughlin, which has been announced by Miss Pratt's mother, Mrs. Charles Aubrey Cartwright, in London.

The father of the bride-to-be is Mr. Alexander Dallas Bache Pratt, of New York, and she is a granddaughter of Mrs. Dallas Bache Pratt. Her maternal grandfather is Mr. William Evarts Benjamin and she is the great-granddaughter of the late Henry Huddleston Rogers.

Miss Pratt was graduated from Foxcroft School and also attended Mlle. Ozanne's School in Paris. She has also passed much time abroad with her mother, in London, where she made her debut and was presented at the Court of St. James by Mrs. Cartwright.

Mr. Laughlin is the son of Mrs. Henry F. Lippitt, of Providence, and of the late Thomas Laughlin, of Pittsburgh. He is the nephew of Mr. Irwin B. Laughlin, American Ambassador to Spain, and of the late President William Howard Taft.

Mr. Laughlin attended St. Paul's School and was graduated from Yale in 1926, where he was a member of Scroll and Key. He also attended the Harvard Law School and studied another year at Cambridge. He is now associated with the law firm of Curtis, Mallett-Prevost, Colt & Mosle.

The wedding probably will take place next month.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Reed have as their guest at the Mayflower Miss Elizabeth Bruce, of Louisville, Ky.

Mr. Ernest Swift, manager of the Eastern Area of the American Red Cross, has been appointed secretary general of the League of Red Cross Societies in Paris. With Mrs. Swift he will leave Washington early next month for Europe, where they will make their home in the French Capital.

Miss Grace Wells, of New York City, is the guest of her uncle and aunt, Brig. Gen. and Mrs. Nathaniel B. McClure, in their apartment at Wardman Park Hotel for two or three days. She came to Washington from her home the latter part of last week, stopping over on her way to Florida, where she will spend several months.

Noted Women Fliers Invited to Club Ball.

Many distinguished women who have played prominent parts in the history of aviation in this country have been invited to attend the ball which will be given by the Aero Club of Washington. Among those invited are Miss Amelia Earhart, Miss Edna Rudolph, Miss Edna May Cooper, Miss Ruth Nichols and Miss May Haizlip. This ball is to be held at the Willard on January 30. Senator Hiram Bingham, president of the National Aeronautical Association, will present medals to American fliers who have set records during the year.

To avoid conflicting with the date of the senatorial reception to be given by President Hoover the Illinois State Society will hold its reception at the Willard Friday. Senator and Mrs. James Hamilton Lewis are to be the guests of honor of the society and the change of date was made to enable them to attend both functions.

Miss Anne Louise Butler has leased an apartment at Wardman Park Hotel, where she will make her home in future. She came here from New York City, where until recently she has been in residence.

Maj. and Mrs. John Potts entertained at the dinner dance at the Shoreham Saturday night in honor of Capt. and Mrs. William S. McClintic, who have just returned from China, and Miss Constance Morley, their house guest. Their other guests were Commander and Mrs. Philip G. Lauman, Maj. and Mrs. David L. S. Brewster, Capt. and Mrs. Charles T. Brooks and Col. John C. Beaumont.

Mrs. Tracy Dows to Have Mr. Zimbalist as Guest.

Mrs. Tracy Dows will have as her house guest this week, Mr. Efrem Zimbalist, the distinguished violinist, who will be soloist with the National Symphony of Washington on Thursday afternoon in Constitution Hall. This is the fifth concert in the "Symphony Series" of the National Symphony, with Mr. Hans Kindler conducting.

Mr. Zimbalist has not been heard in Washington for several years. His superb art has brought him world-wide fame and the fact that he is giving, here, the premiere of the beautiful Glazounow concerto for violin, adds a double interest to his appearance with the orchestra. It will be remembered that Mrs. Dows was also hostess to Miss Lucrezia Bori when that charming artist sang to a capacity house with "Our Orchestra."

This afternoon Mrs. Dows, who is a member of the executive committee for the National Symphony of Washington, is meeting with her newly-formed Women's Committee of Twenty at Orchestra headquarters, in the office of Mr. Walter Bruce Howe, chairman for the executive committee. The purpose of this women's committee is the furtherance of definite plans that are under way for the future of the orchestra.

The "Committee of Twenty," running a little over its quota, is composed of Mrs. Dean G. Acheson, Miss Mary B. Adams, Mrs. Eugene Byrnes, Mrs. John L. Cable, Mrs. W. L. Douglas, Mrs. Tracy Dows, Mrs. Carl A. Droop, Mrs. C. C. Glover, jr., Miss Grace Dunham Guest, Mrs. Leland Harrison, Mrs. Miriam B. Hilton, Mrs. Beale R. Howard, Mrs. Walter Bruce Howe, Mrs. Michael H. Huxley, Mrs. Raymond E. Lee, Mrs. Reeve Lewis, Mrs. Leander McCormick-Goodhart, Mrs. Royal T. McKenna, Mrs. Edwin B. Parker, Mrs. Armistead Peter, jr., Miss Anita Phipps, Mrs. Charles Mason Remey, Mrs. H. L. Rust, jr., Mrs. Henry Alvah Strong and Mrs. Myron Whitney.

The horseshoe of boxes, for the National Symphony mid-week concerts, is almost completely subscribed for, and this Thursday concert with Zimbalist as soloist promises to be another red-letter day for Kindler and his orchestra.

The Georgia State Society will hold its first dance of the year Friday evening from 9 until 12:30 at the Meridian Mansions, 2400 Sixteenth street. At this time the campaign for members being successfully conducted under the leadership of Representative Robert Ramspeck will close and it is expected that many Georgians will become members on or before that date.

Mrs. Emily Newell Blair, of Joplin, Mo., former vice chairman of the Democratic national committee, will be the honor guest at the weekly tea which the Woman's National Democratic Club will give next Saturday. Mrs. Blair is spending a month in Washington, staying at the clubhouse.

Maj. Gen. and Mrs. George E. Leach will be the guests of honor at a reception to be given by the Minnesota State Society on Saturday evening, January 30, at the Washington Club. The reception will be followed by dancing.

Gen. Leach, who was recently appointed chief of the United States Militia Bureau, served with the 151st Field Artillery, Rainbow Division, in France and later as Mayor of Minneapolis.

It is expected that all official residents of Minnesota in Washington, including Army and Navy officers stationed here, will attend this meeting.

The active officers of the society are Mrs. W. H. Hunter, recording secretary, and assistant secretaries, Miss Klara Kammerud, Mrs. Robert H. Merriam, Miss Esther Erickson and Miss Elan Anderson; Mr. A. F. White, financial secretary; Mr. Oswin W. Menk, treasurer, and Miss Bede Johnson, president.

Price, Mrs. F. Stovall Roberts, Mrs. James G. Field, Mrs. F. H. Kennedy, Mrs. Joseph E. Davies and Mrs. W. J. McGee.

Dr. Jan Skalicky, Counselor of the Czechoslovak Legation, and Mme. Skalicky were honor guests at the January meeting of the Faculty Women of the George Washington University Friday evening, presided over by Mrs. John Donaldson, chairman. Mme. Skalicky, widely known singer, presented a varied program of music, including an aria from "The Bartered Bride," Dvorak selections and Czechoslovak folk songs. She was accompanied by Mrs. Ellen Neilson Barnes.

A series of Czechoslovak films, loaned by the legation, were shown by Mr. Leo Schaben.

Following the program, Mrs. Donaldson presented the members and their husbands of the George Washington University faculty to Dr. and Mme. Skalicky. Mrs. Elmer Louis Kayser, chairman of the entertainment committee for the January meeting, was in charge of refreshments. The hostesses of the evening were: The officers of the group, Mrs. John Donaldson, chairman; Mrs. W. Hayes Yeager, vice chairman; Mrs. Charles S. Smith, secretary-treasurer; the hospitality committee, Mrs. DeWitt C. Croissant, chairman; Mrs. Howard L. Hodgkins, Mrs. Oscar B. Hunter, Mrs. John R. Lapham, Mrs. Walter Clephane, Mrs. Cline N. Chipman, Mrs. Gilbert Hall, Mrs. William CabeH Van Vleck, Mrs. Edward H. Sehrt, Mrs. Arthur Johnson, Mrs. Harold G. Sutton, Mrs. W. Hayes Yeager, Mrs. Earl W. Barnhart and Mrs. William C. By ROBERT D. HEINL

AUBREY E. TAYLOR, managing editor of The Washington Post, will be heard in "Press Personalities" over Station WJSV at 5:30 o'clock this afternoon. Mr. Taylor is a veteran in newspaper work and will take his listeners behind the scenes at The Post.

Looking fit as a fiddle despite his responsibilities in connection with the Rockefeller $250,000,000 Radio City in New York Roxy came to Washington for the Alfalfa dinner. Just how he manages to do all these things and keep calm and not bothered is apparently his own secret.

Roxy expects to have a magnificent orchestra in his new music hall that "the whole Nation will dance to." He will shortly resume his personal broadcasts.

HARVEY S. FIRESTONE, Jr. proving himself a good picker will offer, in the absence of Lawrence Tibbett on the Firestone program tonight, no less a celebrity than the great Lily Pons. A conversation with young Firestone, who was at the Alfalfa Club dinner, the guest of Everett Sanders, revealed that he keeps in the closest personal touch with his radio programs.

"Tibbett is singing at the Metropolitan in 'Peter Ibbetson' Monday night and therefore can not broadcast," Mr. Firestone explained. "I am most anxious to keep the program up to its high standard and feel fortunate to be able to offer so outstanding an artist as Lily Pons."

Mr. Firestone, jr., carries his famous name as lightly as could be imagined. About the same height as Senator Bob La Follette, but slighter in build, Firestone is but 33 years old, seems to take the prize for personal modesty and the ability to make himself agreeable. Whether it is radio, or what not, those who are introduced to him want to discuss, he always appears to be open to all comers.

"I have your letter tendering your resignation as a member of the Federal Radio Commission. I must, of course, accept your wish in the matter. You have performed a real public service and I wish to express my personal appreciation, to which I know I may add the appreciation of many thousands of your friends and countrymen."

A testimonial dinner was given for Judge Robinson at the Shoreham Hotel last Friday night. More than 100 of the judge's friends and well-wishers attended. Chairman Charles McK. Saltzman lauded his services as commissioner. The three other members of the commission spoke briefly. Thomas P. Littlepage was the toastmaster.

The Salzedo Harp Ensemble will be heard in the following program from the Library of Congress (WMAL, 2 o'clock) this afternoon:

A LETTER written in Braille—with the Braille alphabet set forth across the top for use in decoding—was received the other day by Arthur Godfrey, of WRC. It read:

"No doubt you will be surprised to receive a letter written in revised Braille print. I am a blind patient at Endowood, Towson, Md. We patients always enjoy the Marine Band 'Shut-In' concerts very much. Will you please have 'The Rosary' played as a trombone solo. We would highly appreciate it. Wishing you and all the members of the band good luck. —Howard White."

Mr. Godfrey returned to his work on the "Shut-In Hour" a week or two ago. Another Marine Band "Shut-In" concert may be heard this afternoon (WRC, 3 p. m.).

TRIBUTES to Robert E. Lee will be paid in broadcasts by both networks on the 126th anniversary of his birth tomorrow * * * Guy Lombardo will celebrate the completion of his second year on the air tonight over WMAL * * * Alex Gray, barytone, will introduce "I'll Miss You in the Evening," a new Irving Berlin waltz, tomorrow night * * * James L. Wright, of the Buffalo Evening News, will be the first guest speaker on "Back of the News in Washington" tomorrow night (WRC, at 7:45). Hr. Hard has gone to Europe for the World Disarmament Conference * * * The Bicentennial celebration of George Washington's birthday, with programs in which President Hoover, Secretary of State Stimson, Dr. Walter Damrosch and a chorus of 12,000 will participate, will be broadcast by both networks * * * "Does science have reason to believe there are people on Mars?" Dr. Harlow Shapley, of Harvard Observatory, will attempt to answer that question Wednesday night (WRC, at 10). * * * "With Canada's Mounted" will re-enace the pursuit of the young Indian, Almighty Voice over the WJZ network at 10 o'clock tonight.

ADDRESSES by Secretary of War Patrick Hurley, and others, and messages from President Hoover and Vice President Curtis and Speaker Garner will be featured in the first program of the National Radio Forum, in its new 50-station NBC network (WRC, at 10) tonight.

William (Alfalfa Bill) Murray, Governor of Oklahoma, will speak on "Banking Systems and Credit" over a National Broadcasting Co. network this afternoon, from 3 to 3:15 o'clock.

Ludington Line Starts Low Fare to New York

Aided by one of the most inviting flying days that an airline could wish for, the inauguration of new low fares between Washington and New York yesterday resulted in capacity business for the Ludington Line, which carried approximately 200 persons between the two terminals and Philadelphia.

New fares went into effect Saturday, which average 24½ per cent below former rates, and Gene Vidal, executive vice president of the line, stated that in his opinion it will soon be practical to sell air transportation at not more than railroad day coach rates.

Jane Interprets the Mode

New York, Jan. 17.

GOLD is a gay touch for trimming, isn't it? And have you noticed much of it this winter, on everything? 'Member I told you of this, too, last fall!

But I have to warn you that gold for trimming has its drawbacks, too—like white, it is youthifying and flattering, but like white, it must be impeccable. And, white can be washed, but gold can't. Some golds can't even be cleaned or untarnished. And a lovely lady can never, never wear gold that is even the least bit tarnished or dull, you know.

Best then take our gold touches in metal—buttons, buckles. Or there are some very expensive and stiff lames, (lahmays) which do not tarnish at all and some other supple ones which do not tarnish very easily. But one must search for these, and be ruthless about discarding them when they are gone.

A reader wrote and asked me what could be done with such a set; and I had to answer truthfully, nothing. Lemon juice and bread crumbs will take a little of the dirt from golden braids and fabrics, but unfortunately what we are trying to clean off is usually not dirt, but tarnish. Nor have I ever dyed or had dyed, lame or braid and had it come out anything but what it was in the first place—tarnished.

So buy your gold touches as a luxury, my darlings, and discard them as a liability when they are finished!

Not so felt hats! There is nothing luxurious about a felt hat that cost seven fifty three years ago and has been worn to death unless it is the feeling one has when it has been converted into something new and up to date and chic and wearable by ones own Clever Fingers! That is luxurious, that feeling! Especially when all it cost one to find out how to do this is a stamped, self-addressed envelope sent to the Dare Department of The Washington Post and a little practice. So how about sending for this new leaflet that tells you how to model your old felt hats into something chic and new? I promise you that you can, from the directions!

Lace Lore.

A lace called Venetian guipure is very much used for blouses, boleros, collars and cuffs, and its pinkish and ochre tints are lovely over black and brown velvet. This lace, which comes from Italy or Belgium, is made of linen thread with arabesque designs of flowers and foliage in high relief. It is sometimes called also "Point d'Ivoire." Venetian guipure is the type of lace that was used for the magnificent costumes worn by the lords and ladies at the court of Louis XIV.

In case you want to see a simply delightful tailleur, look at the one I sketched for you today from Bernard et. Cie. all done in black wool and galyac. The blouse, which I didn't sketch, is in green—I sketched instead a darling frock from the same Maison du Couturier, in green wool lace.

DRY AIR, ENEMY OF HOUSE PLANTS.

WE all know, if we have given the matter any thought, that the air in a modern house that is heated by hot air or gas, is never well suited to the growing of plants, and yet we must not permit this fact to interfere or discourage us from having plants.

If we are sensible we choose plants which will stand conditions as they are or we will try to improve conditions so that they will more nearly meet the requirements of the individual plants we happen to admire.

Greenhouses are heated by steam or hot water. When we enter them we usually think, because the air is so very humid, that they are hotter than they really are. The temperatures in the rooms of our homes are usually a degree or two higher than those of the greenhouses, but while the rooms are equally warm the air is rarely humid. This is one of the three reasons why our plants are so different from those of the florists. The other two factors in the growing of healthy plants is the amount of sunshine and the regular care that is given them in the greenhouses.

Wherever we find healthy plants in a dwelling we usually find more than two or three. The reason for failure with one plant and success with eight or ten is that, where there are many plants growing in one place, the air about them, due to the evaporating moisture, is sure to be humid. Except in the case of cacti or succulents, plants demand humidity, just as much as they demand sunshine or water.

Increasing the moisture in the air is not impossible; in fact, it is quite easy. All that is necessary is to place your plants on a galvanized iron tray, which has been previously filled with pebbles and sand. The pebbles and sand collect and hold the water, which runs through the pots. This evaporating water will supply the necessary moisture to the air. Because of the dust and dry air which are sure to be present we should make it a rule to wash the foliage of all broad-leaved plants once each week and spray the foliage of all small-leaved varieties once in ten days. All plants, with vigorous constitutions, given such care, should be more healthy in May than they were in October when they first came indoors.

All readers' questions on growing and care of indoor and outdoor flowers and floral decorations for social functions will be answered by Miss Kift, directly in this column if addressed in care of The Washington Post, or directly to readers if a self-addressed stamped envelope is supplied.

CULBERTSON ON CONTRACT

By ELY CULBERTSON,
World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

DUPLICATION OF VALUES.

A CONSTANT bugbear to Contract Bridge players is the ever-present fear of a duplication of values—that is, one hand holds high cards of a suit and Responding Hand raises with adequate trump support and a void of the plain suit in which the partner holds the tops. Obviously, in such cases there is a duplication of values, which may result in disastrous overbidding when the partners forget that Slams should only be attempted when the partners are certain they will not lose enough tricks to missing Aces to defeat the contract.

There was a hand played recently at the Cavendish Club, New York, a center of well-played Contract, in which some players reached an unmakable Grand Slam through a succession of errors, one of them being failure to take account of the duplication of values.

In discussing this hand I give the bidding as it occurred, and, in order to concentrate the reader's attention on the bidding problem, I will not publish the East and West hands. The hand was played at Duplicate.

North-South vulnerable.
South—Dealer.

The Bidding.

South	North
3NT(2)	4♡(3)
4NT(4)	6♣(5)
7♣(6)	Pass

1—The first mistake. The minimum requirement for a Forcing Takeout is 3 honor-tricks, unless the hand contains a solid trump suit or freak distribution. The spade Takeout is based on shaded top strength. The correct bid would have been one spade.

2—South's hand contains ½ honor-trick above the requirement for his opening club bid, vulnerable. Misled by his partner's Forcing Takeout, South now overbids his hand. His correct response would be two no-trump.

3—The four heart bid, of course, necessarily follows in the wake of the previous strong bidding.

5—North's bid for Slam would be correct if his Forcing Takeout had been sound.

6—South reasons that North must hold the Ace of spades, as well as the Ace and King of hearts. He also believes that partner either holds the King of diamonds or a void in that suit, the latter being the most probable, as his showing of two suits and jump in clubs probably indicates a 5-4-4 distribution. The extremely strong bidding causes South to overestimate his hand. It is, of course, apparent that North and South must lose a trick to the Ace of spades, regardless of whether or not a favorable distribution is found in the club suit.

More correct bidding of this hand would have been:

1♣	1♠
1NT	3♡(1)
6♣(2)	Pass

1—Despite partner's declaration that his hand is a minimum, North feels certain that there is game in the hand. The Forcing Takeout is now quite in order.

2—South, who has denied the possession of additional strength, in view of his partner's bids and his own control of the first lead of diamonds, would be justified in bidding for a Small Slam, which can, of course, be made if a favorable distribution is found in the trump suit.

TODAY'S POINTER.

Question—What is the chief characteristic of distributional or length values?

Answer—The remainder of cards in one hand, after the other hands have been exhausted of cards of this suit are trick-taking cards.

Example: A K Q 3 2
J 10 9

After the A K Q have been played, the 3 and 2 will take a trick each.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

ARMY OFFICERS AND LONGEVITY.

ARMY officers live longer than other people and that is not because they stay so far behind the line in battles, as the jokesmiths try to make us believe. The reason is that they live more sensibly than you and I do.

To begin with, they pass a very severe entrance examination. This throws out the culls and passes in only sound specimens. It is true that some culls have lived to a ripe old age, but according to the law of averages that is not to be expected, and when it does happen the fact becomes a news story. It is the unexpected that makes a story into news. But the effects of careful selection do not influence statistics for more than five years, as a rule, and an influence extending ten years is not expected.

Officers enter the Army soon after age 21, and by age 30 the influence of the selective entrance examination has been lost. Since age 20 to 30 is a very healthy period for men nothing can make a very great improvement.

Drs. L. J. Reed and A. G. Love find that Army officers have better health, have lower death rates, live longer, and retain their efficiency for a longer time than civilians. These are the conclusions of a study of Army statistics running over a great many years. Some part of the superiority is the result of the carefully conducted entrance examinations, as has been stated. Much of it is an indirect result of periodic physical examinations.

Officers know they are expected to be fit, and if they are not, they are likely to be retired on part pay. They know, furthermore, that they are to be examined periodically and important shortcomings will cause a board to be convened. Therefore, they are more careful about eating and they obey the prohibition law, at least they obey better than the general run of people.

They take more exercise and look more to the condition of their muscles and joints. It is safe to say they creak less than the average man or woman of the same age.

Drs. Reed and Love were able to form an opinion of the effects of major athletics in early life upon health and organic soundness in the years of maturity. They did not find proof that major athletics caused permanent harm. It was their opinion that, on the average, becoming clinically tubercular or developing organic heart, kidney and blood vessel diseases reduced by one-half the expectation of life. On the contrary, they tell the readers of the Military Surgeon that nervous and mental diseases and disorders do not reduce this expectation.

WATERMELON.

B. C. F. writes:

1. Is watermelon fattening?
2. What is the caloric value of a half pound of watermelon meat?

REPLY.

1. No.
2. A person with good digestion should be able to get about 135 calories from a pound. Watermelon is principally composed of water. The few calories available come from the sugar. We eat fruits for minerals and vitamins and not for calories.

DANGER IN LATER LIFE.

L. McD. writes: Is there any danger of a child, whose mother was syphilitic, to inherit the disease in later years, after the blood of the child always showed negative since birth?

REPLY.

There is. Inherited syphilis has a marked tendency toward latent development. It often remains latent throughout infancy, childhood and adolescence.

What Today Means to You

"CAPRICORN."

IF January 18th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9:10 a. m. to 10:30 a. m., from 2:30 p. m. to 4 p. m. and from 10 p. m. to 11:50 p. m. The danger periods are from 11 a. m to 12:30 p. m. and from 6:30 p. m to 8 p. m.

Astrologically, January 18th is shown to be the forerunner of great changes which will be of ultimate good to you. Energy and enterprise are the two keys to success on this date, as unusual opportunities will be offered to the young and active-minded.

The child born on this January 18th will be far-sighted, determined and well balanced, and accepted by all who know it at its true worth. It will be loyal to its home ties, very affectionate, and genuinely friendly. It will take to responsibilities, and will like to be leader.

Born January 18th, you are a born hustler, a worker and not a drone. An active and a busy life is essential to the happiness of one of your temperament. You are not avaricious for possessions or power, and may interest yourself in things which bring poor material returns and an investigating mind, and are bound to have many hobbies or interests.

You are blunt, plainspoken, essentially honest and high principled. You do not know the use of guile, subtlety or artifice. You are not a voluble talker, but you are an intelligent listener. When you do talk you speak with purpose, and your words plainly reveal your thoughts. You are a good judge and a good analyzer of character, and can "see through" a person very quickly. If you have any enemies, they are probably those who would like to fool you, but can not. Dishonorable, insincere, hypocritical and affected people feel uncomfortable under the searching rays of your observant eyes.

You are also very intuitive and psychic, and you often wish you did not sense things so quickly and were not so sensitive to "atmospheres."

Health hints for those born January 18th: Be careful of your diet; you are subject to ailments of the alimentary canal.

Successful People Born January 18:

1. Daniel Webster, statesman.
2. Charles P. McIlvaine, P. E. Bishop of Ohio.
3. Richard Yates, the war Governor of Illinois.
4. Walter Satterlee, artist.
5. Seth Low, former president of Columbia University.
6. Olga Nethersole, English actress.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

ELMER TWITCHELL ON THE TAX OUTLOOK.

DEAR EDITOR:

I have been reading all those plans of the Government and States for boosting taxes and I have decided that I am not going to go through all the bother of making out an income tax return this year. I am just going to send in a check for all I have left out of my 1931 income and ask the tax collectors to return what they don't want.

That's the easiest way out of it.

I have always hated to see the time of year roll around when we had to figure out the income tax, anyhow. It was a pretty tough job going over the books and figuring what you could lie about without being caught. It took a long time and wore a fellow to a frazzle. It is perfectly clear to me that this year and for several years to come nothing you and I can do will prevent the tax departments from getting it all. The simplest way is to tell them to come in and help themselves, and as a matter of fact, by the way things are going, I expect that it is only a matter of time when the Government and States will take their taxes that way anyhow.

• • • •

The next few years are going to be just the same as in war time except that sauer kraut won't be called Liberty Cabbage and a man can put two lumps of sugar in his coffee without being told that he is slowing up a big drive against the Hindenburg line.

As long as we are going to be taxed as if we were at war I don't see why we can't have a war just for the spectacle. There are any number of wars that we could get into for the asking. In fact, I can't recall a time when more wars were being run wide open.

I suppose this tax business all comes under the head of progress. When this country wasn't very successful taxes were fairly reasonable. A man could afford to have an income and a home. He could even afford to operate a business at profit. Now that the country's grown and become a big success, we've outgrown the days of small taxes and have got to take them as befits the greatest country on earth, as the saying goes.

• • • •

Still, I do not want to be a squawker. The country is in a hole and we have got to help it out. As I said before, I am going to save time and worry by giving what I have to the State and Washington Government and letting them return what they figure they are not entitled to. It will save a lot of trouble and work out the same way.

Yours philosophically,

STRUBE'S NEW SUITE IS ACCLAIMED HERE

Baltimore Composer Given Ovation Conducting National Orchestra.

Gustave Strube, Baltimore composer and conductor, was the outstanding feature of yesterday's Sunday concert by the National Symphony Orchestra in Constitution Hall when he conducted his new suite in its first performance anywhere before an appreciative audience which included many Baltimoreans who had come to Washington for the presentation.

Mr. Strube, whose musicianly qualities are well-known in Washington, was quite touched by the ovation which followed the playing of the concluding movement of the suite. He was obliged to appear again and again to bow his thanks.

The new suite should prove popular with orchestras. Built on sound musical principles it is original and has a number of phrases which linger in the memory. The lovely Adagio Fantasy and the finale with its dainty waltz movement and well built up climax elicited the most applause.

The audience was much interested also in the playing of a Washington girl pianist, Miss Elizabeth Winston, whose work at times, however, was overshadowed by the orchestral accompaniment which now and then quite drowned out the piano tones. Her composition was Tschaikowski's "Concerto for Piano, B-Flat Minor" and she played with skill and vivid interpretation. For some reason, the soloist played with her back to the conductor, the guest conductor of part of the program, Kurt Hetzel, so that must have been a feat in itself to keep aware of the conductor's signs to the orchestra.

Mr. Hetzel, who is guest conductor during Hans Kindler's absence from the orchestra for a brief holiday, has an assured mnner in leading, is rather theatric in his movements while conducting and gave a reading of the several numbers which displayed a grasp of the musical values and the ideals of the composers.

The program was concluded with Wagner's Overture to "Die Meistersinger" and began with a scholarly presentation of Brahms' "Academic Festival Overture."

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

WASHINGTON will be one of three cities that will see Lenore Ulric in her current Broadway success, "The Social Register," this season. The other two are Philadelphia and Boston. The local booking is at the National Theater the week beginning Monday, February 22, Washington's birthday.

"The Social Register" is by John Emerson and Anita Loos and the cast of 35 seen in the star's support includes Sidney Blackmer, Betty Garde, Teresa Maxwell-Conover, Oswald Yorke, Hans Hansen, Wilfred Clarke, George Henry Trader, Helen Tucker, Marcel Journet, jr., Hilda Haywood Howe, Andree Villars and Jane Farrell.

The play is in five scenes with three elaborate and spectacular stage settings, and represents the most massive production Miss Ulric ever has transported on tour.

According to advance information received from the management of "The Social Register," a popular scale of prices will prevail for the Washington engagement, concerning which it is promised complete details will be made public through the press at least three weeks before the play's scheduled opening.

Washingtonians not averse to a bit of a trek to find it, will at least be afforded an opportunity to see a play which they have been eagerly awaiting for two years. Beginning tonight, the "Lysistrata" of Aristophanes, as translated and adapted to the needs of the modern theater by Gilbert Seldes, will make its first appearance south of Philadelphia at the Maryland Theater in Baltimore as a production of the University Repertory Theater, under the direction of Mr. Windust of the University players. The play will be enacted from the original script, unaltered and unabridged.

It is of interest to the Capital that Miss Marian Chace, codirector with Lester Shafer, of the Washington Denishawn School of Dancing, has been accorded the distinction of directing the Bacchanalian Ballet for "Lysistrata." The Bacchanal in this drama is an unusually interesting feature of the production. In her presentation of the ballet Miss Chace is using her own choreography, which she has built along modernistic lines, rather than the accepted forms of the Bacchanal, to fit the Stravinsky music which is being used. The dancers have been chosen from the Denishawn School here, and include Amalie Preische, Anna Moore Converse, Betty Eifelt, Fred Nagel, Don Boggs, Dennis Nagel and Sterling Stamford.

The most attractive feature of the presentation of "Lysistrata" in our neighbor city is to be found in the fact that for evening performances prices range from 50 cents to $1, while for Wednesday and Saturday matinees all seats are 50 cents.

Katharine Cornell definitely announced last week that she will end her New York engagement in Rudolf Besier's "The Barretts of Wimpole Street," in the Empire Theater, on Saturday night, February 13. Since she is still attracting crowded houses to this play, the announcement comes as somewhat of a surprise to the "show wise," but Miss Cornell stated that as she wishes to act "The Barretts" on tour this season and does not wish to continue in the role indefinitely, she decided to close her metropolitan season next month so that Chicago, Boston, Philadelphia and perhaps a few other cities may be visited this spring.

There have been standees at six out of each week's eight performances at the Empire. By arrangement with Gilbert Miller, manager of the Empire, Miss Cornell leaves the theater at a time when her weekly gross receipts are more than $4,000 above the contract clause which provides for the closing of the play.

Through a typographical error, resulting in the deletion of an "r," the program paragraph descriptive of Marian Marsh's appearance in "Under Eighteen," at Warner Brothers' Ambassador Theater the first three days of this week, is made to read:

If it's only the close-ups you are talking about, that's not so far wrong!

Speaking of "Five Star Final" reminds me that one of the most popular of the late David Belasco's feminine stars is receiving scant notice at the hands of the Hollywood publicists, although her screen performances, insofar as I personally have been able to judge, have been conscientious, capable and appealing.

I mean Frances Starr, remembered for "The Rose of the Rancho," in which she made her stellar debut under the Belasco banner; in Eugene Walter's "The Easiest Way," with Joseph Kilgour; in "Marie Odile," Edward Knoblock's finely sensitive drama, and scores of other sterling achievements.

Miss Starr is cast as the mother in "This Reckless Age," in which Charles "Buddy" Rogers, Peggy Shannon, Richard Bennett and numerous others of note will be seen on the Palace screen next week, but her name is not mentioned among the principals on the screen trailer now being shown nor is she otherwise identified in the scenes in which she appears in that trailer.

Is this to be attributed to politics, stupidity or did I look away at just the wrong moment?

This is to be another week of special performances in the so-called picture houses.

Wednesday morning, Koran, the mystic, headlining the vaudeville portion of the program at RKO-Keith's, will give a special performance for women only. Thursday midnight he will stage his famous "Spook Party" for the general public. Tickets, or so I am told, are selling rapidly for both events at the special box-office in the lobby of the theater.

On Wednesday and Friday nights, extra midnight performances will be offered at the Earle Theater, where Duke Ellington and his band occupy the headline position on the stage bill.

It is noteworthy that all of these special shows are occasioned by star vaudeville acts and not by screen features, although the two in combination certainly can not be laughed off as entertainment duds.

The presence of Koran in the city, by the way, has served to place a feather in the cap of Manager Hardie Meakin of RKO-Keith's.

To the best of this column's knowledge and belief, President Hoover has posed for his picture with only three stage personalities since his incumbency of the White House. The first was George M. Cohan, when he presented the President with a manuscript copy of his song dedicated to the Washington Bicentennial; the second, Mary Pickford, in the matter of the unemployment relief benefits held in picture theaters throuhout the Nation, and the third, Koran, who has predicted President Hoover's reelection in 1932.

The White House call to discuss this interesting forecast on the part of a clairvoyant who has seldom been wrong was arranged, as I understand it, by Mr. Meakin.

Jack Connolly, formerly Will H Hays' representative in the Capital, later Euopean representative of Fox Movietone News, and now general manager of the RKO-Pathe News, was a brief visitor to his old haunts on Saturday, en route to the West Coast. Jack always seems to grab himself a job with an unlimited mileage attachment!

Well, I'll be seeing you down at Hains Point!

Representatives of fifteen foreign nations were present yesterday afternoon at the Young Women's Christian Association, when the annual meeting of the Foreign Division of the National Y. W. C. A. board was held in Barker Hall, with Mrs. John H. Finley, of New York, chairman of the Foreign Division, presiding.

Not less than 200 delegates from countries beyond the seas, from all the States, and from national and local headquarters, attended the meeting, which was the important public session of the annual conference. Following the opening service of worship conducted by the Rev. Anson Stokes, canon of Washington Cathedral, fraternal representatives were introduced in the persons of Miss Ruth Morgan, representing the committee on the cause and cure of war; Mrs. Helen Howell Moorhead, of the Foreign Policy Association; Mrs. Howard Wayne Smith, of the Federation of Waman's Boards of Foreign Missions; Frank V. Slack, of the international committee of the Young Men's Christian Association, and Mrs. Frederick Edey, of the Girl Scouts.

Each representative gave greetings from her own association, and the response was made by Mrs. James S. Cushman, of New York City, who is vice president of the World's Y. W. C. A. for the Americas. Miss Margaret Wilson, national general secretary of the Y. W. C. A. of India, Burma and Ceylon, and Miss Anne Guthrie, continental secretary of the Y. W. C. A. of South America, also spoke; Miss Wilson on "The Women of India Awake," and Miss Guthrie on "Neighbors or Strangers?"

Among those present representing the nations of the world were the Minister of Albania, the Ministser of Haiti, the Charge d'Affaires of China, Frau Lohmann, wife of the Secretary of the German Embassy, and representatives from Hungary, Lithunia, Czechoslovakia, Norway, Bulgaria, the Netherlands, Persia, Brazil, Mexico, Greece, Italy, and others.

This morning a meeting will be held in Barker Hall, closing at noon, in order that the delegates may be free to attend the opening session of the conference on the cause and cure of war.

FAMOUS SEER
THE MAN WHO KNOWS

This strange man sees the way and tells it all. Just what your life has been, just what it will be. Tells you when and whom you will marry; whether husband, wife or sweetheart is true or false. Tells as to changes, travels, lost or absent friends, divorce, wills, deeds; whether it is best to buy or sell. He tells the good and the bad. A visit will convince you of his wonderful power. Something tells you this is the man. You feel the impulse to call. Do not delay

MORRISON FINISHES WITH 73 TO TAKE $15,000 OPEN

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

ART SHIRES, who is worth a couple of exclamation points whenever he speaks up, has just performed another extraordinary feat. Shires, in a dispatch from Dallas said he had signed a contract with the Braves for $11,000, which was very gratifying inasmuch as it was $3,000 more than he had received from Milwaukee.

This column would be more inclined to believe Shires if it were not for the fact that Judge Fuchs, owner of the Braves, upon reading Shires' declaration, expressed great surprise inasmuch as none of the team's contracts has yet been sent out. In signing a contract before he received one, Shires must have performed a miracle. Perhaps he's psychic. Figuratively, he stole first base.

The great moment will arrive in the National League next season when Dizzy Dean, the Cardinals' bellowing pitcher, faces Shires at the plate. The draft should be terrific. Dizzy has already anticipated the meeting by pointing out that Shires could bat only .190 against his kid brother, Paul Dean, who was in the American Association last year.

Les Mallon, rookie second baseman of the Phillies, peddles milk at his Dallas home in the offseason by way of keeping in condition. Of course he can blame it on the soured milk of human kindness when he boots a grounder in the infield next season.

Bob Groom, whose exploits on the pitching mound are well remembered by Washington fans, is now the prosperous operator of a coal mine in Belleville, Ill. Groom shared the pitching burden with Walter Johnson when the Washington club compiled seventeen straight victories in 1912. Among the records Grooms left behind him was one of 29 defeats in a single season, which has since been tied, but not bettered, or perhaps I should say worsted.

The holdout list this season doesn't include Grove Cleveland Alexander, who has just signed a contract with the House of David team. None of the team took a cut—haircut.

Pepper Martin was recognized as the most underpaid player in the league last season, when he drew only a meager $4,500 contract, but Ty Cobb was paid the same figure in 1908 and 1909, when the Georgia peach was baseball's greatest star. And Tris Speaker was hired for $50 a month when he broke into the big leagues. And Babe Ruth must worry along on $70,000 next season, Col. Ruppert says.

The Phillies have offered a contract to Gene McEver, Tennessee's All-American back, who is an infielder. And Brooklyn may sign Bruce Caldwell, former Yale star, who failed to make the grade as a first baseman with Cleveland.

Cleveland fans can point with pride to the slugging of Earl Averill, who hit 36 runs last year. While Babe Ruth, the king of swat, weighs 225 pounds, and Lou Gehrig, the crown prince, scales over 200, Averill is a mere strippling of 158 pounds. He's built like old Bob Fitzsimmons across the shoulders, however, which accounts for the prodigious power in his wallops.

Brooklyn may be playing a hunch in offering Dazzy Vance a reduced contract this year. Vance, drawing $22,500 in 1931, had a poor season. Brooklyn magnates remember that Vance pitched his greatest ball in 1924, when he operated under a $7,500 contract.

Old Nap Rucker, who was the mainstay of the Brooklyn pitching staff 20-odd years ago, says that if Vance is paid the $25,000 he demands he will be within $5,000 of the sum that was required to pay the salary of the entire Brooklyn Club when Rucker was in his heyday. Rucker worked for $3,500 and was the highest paid performer on the club.

Washington will be the only stand-pat club in the majors as a result of taking only one rookie, other than a few young pitchers South. Ralph Boyle, former Oriole outfielder, will be the only player on the squad who has not seen previous service with the Nats. Johnny Gill came from Baltimore along with Boyle in the deal for Baxter Jordan, Harry Rice and Red Hargrave. Gill outhit Boyle by 30 points in the International League, yet the Nats saw fit to retain Boyle and sent Gill to Chattanooga. Figures must be lying again.

K. OF C. BEATS SAINTS.

Gubisch, Bucca and Anderson led the winning attack, while Nolan played a good defensive game. Bud Quigley was best for the losers. In a preliminary game the K. of C. 85-pound team defeated the St. Martin's 85-pounders, 28-13.

Ruth Did It; So Why Not Wilson?

Last Laugh Will Be His If He Follows Ruth's Example.

By EDWARD J. NEIL.

NEW YORK, Jan. 17 (A.P.).—Speaking of comebacks, there is a splendid omen for Lewis Robert (Hackenschmidt) Wilson, former home run king, former fence thumper, former prize National League world series goat, in his age—32 years—as he hits the trail of the long way back.

As he sits in the parlor at Martinsburg, W. Va., wondering whether he is a St. Louis Cardinal or a Brooklyn Dodger, pondering the sad state of affairs that brought about his release from Chicago and a stunning offer of a $25,000 reduction in salary, his eyes can light at the thought of the greatest revival in baseball history, by George Herman Ruth.

They wrote the Babe's obituary in 1925, when the greatest of all the clouters was exactly 32 years old and suffering from a variety of overindulgences, including a mammoth case of indigestion.

The Babe had hit just .290, his all-time low as a major leaguer, and he had taken part in only 98 games. He faced the age of 33 and oblivion as a ball player.

"It's a shame," they said. "He was a great guy, but he's through."

All the Babe did in rebuttal was to take a fresh hold on himself, train seriously for the first time in his life, hit .372 in 1926 and .456 in 1927, when he lifted the home run record to an even 60. He was second to Al Simmons last season and the experts still are blushing at the memory of their predictions in 1925.

Wilson is in exactly the same spot, at the same age, although his case is not nearly so serious as was the Babe's, neither are the heights to which he may be expected to rise again.

Hack Batted But .260 Last Year.

Hack hit for only .260 last year and he was constantly at odds with the Chicago management over the matter of keeping in condition. Behind him was a clouting record that justified his $33,000 a year salary, second only in size to that of his manager, Rogers Hornsby.

After the New York Giants let him slip away in 1925 and the Cubs picked him up in the draft from Toledo, Hack developed into the greatest distance clouter the National League had produced in a decade, the first possible counter-attraction to the American League's Babe Ruth.

He hit .321, .318, .313, .345 and .356 up through 1930, and he capped his rise by hitting 56 home runs in 1930 to distance even Ruth and redeem himself for the horrible fielding failures that cost the Cubs all chance of victory in the 1929 world series with the Athletics.

But just as in the case of the Babe, prosperity was too much for him. Last year he failed to hit and started to worry. He was rarely in condition. His clashes with the Cub management became more frequent and bitter. Half way through the season, it was certain his days with the Cubs were numbered.

The crowning blow came in Branch Rickey's offer to him of $7,500 for next season's work with the Cardinals, who obtained him from Chicago, along with Bud Teachout, in a trade for Burleigh Grimes. It was the concrete evidence of the depths to which the mighty had fallen, a reduction of $25,000 from his Chicago salary.

But Hack has the last laugh in his system if he wants to get it out. He is only 32. Just look at the Babe.

Earnshaw Reaches Spa For Baseball Training

His team mate, Al Simmons, will arrive February 10. They will not report to the spring training camp at Fort Myers, Fla., but will train in March with Milwaukee of the American Association and Montreal of the International League.

NORTHERN PREPS BUSY.

The Northern Preps unlimited quintet will meet the Takoma Business Men's team tonight at 8 o'clock, in the Takoma-Silver Spring High School gym. The Preps 145-pound team will take the Takoma Fire Department aggregation in a preliminary game at 7 p. m.

Hamas-Sharkey Bout For American Crown Believed in Making

NEW YORK, Jan. 17 (U.P.).—Steve Hamas, former Penn State football star, and Jack Sharkey, of Boston, probably will be matched this week for a ten-round American heavyweight championship battle at Madison Square Garden in February, Hamas' manager, Charley Harvey, announced tonight.

After conferring with Jimmy Johnston, manager of boxing at the Garden, Harvey tonight issued a challenge, on behalf of Hamas, for Sharkey's American title. The challenge was in the form of an open statement to the press.

In his statement, Harvey pointed out that Hamas had defeated Loughran by a quick knockout at the Garden Friday night. He said Sharkey, some time ago, had likewise knocked out Loughran, but that Sharkey had been afraid to grant Loughran a return match, although Loughran repeatedly had requested it.

Harvey declared he would not match Steve with any other opponent until Sharkey had accepted or rejected definitely tonight's challenge.

12 CUE STARS IN TITLE PLAY

Three-Cushion Tourney Opens Tonight in Chicago.

CHICAGO, Jan. 17 (A.P.).—The country's top twelve cue and ivory artists tomorrow will open their quest for the world three-cushion billiard championship and shares of $25,000 in gold and prizes. The initial match will bring together Arthur Thurnblad, of Chicago, the champion, and Bud Westhus, of St. Louis, Southern sectional title holder.

In the other match on tomorrow night's card, Johnny Layton, of Sedalia, Mo., a ten-time holder of the title, meets Len Kenney, of Chicago, Northern sectional champion. Play will continue until Saturday.

In addition to the championship, the winner will take away $7,500 in cash, a $1,000 title trophy and 16 per cent of the net receipts, while the runner-up will receive $4,000 in cash and 15 per cent of the net receipts.

Great Field in Running For Title.

Thurnblad, whose rise to the title last year was as unexpected as it was sensational, will have to beat back the challenges of the pick of the country's shotmakers. Young Jake Schaefer, of San Francisco, son of the old wizard and holder of the 18.2 balkline title, will make his first big try for the championship and is regarded as a hot contender.

Matches will be at 50 points each, and 66 matches will be played during the tournament.

Maryland Shifts Style for Navy Five

Will Use Five-Man Defense Against Middies in Thursday Game.

For the first time in several years, Maryland University's Basket Ball Team has abandoned, temporarily at least, the zone style of defensive play, which has been one of its chief characteristics, it was revealed last night by Coach Burton Shipley.

Shipley stated that he had decided at the opening of the season to abandon the zone defense because the man-for-man system is most efficacious in combatting the Meanwell style of attack used by a majority of Maryland's early season opponents.

Maryland therefore will present a change to its adherents when it dedicates its new Ritchie Coliseum Thursday night in a game with the Naval Academy. Shipley believes that his players have become well acquainted with the five-man defense through experiments made in four games to date.

The Maryland mentor has yet to name a permanent line-up from his capable squad. Three sophomores, Vincent, Buscher and Chase, are keenly contesting the rights of veterans from last year's Southern Conference championship team to regular assignments. It is likely, however, that Shipley will reach a conclusion in the matter after this week's games in which the Old Liners play Virginia and Johns Hopkins in addition to Navy.

U. S. Olympic Skaters Are Selected

4 Veterans of 1928 Games Named; All Are Prominent.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 17 (A.P.).—The American Olmpic speed skating team was picked here today without trials because of the lack of ice throughout the State. The Olympic skating committee named thirteen skaters.

The skaters now are in training at Speculator, but will be taken to Lake Placid by their coach, William M. Taylor, before the end of next week.

The United States was privileged to enter sixteen men, although only thirteen were named. The original Olympics squad consisted of nineteen men.

There will be 500-meter, 1,500, 5,000 or 10,000-meter races. Four American skaters will be named for each event, the selections to be made by Coach Taylor.

Four Veterans of 1928 Olympics.

Jaffee, Bialis, Murphy and Farrell competed in the 1928 winter Olympics at St. Moritz, Switzerland. Bialis also skated in the 1924 Olympic competition.

The committee said the women's team would be named after the women's national championships at Lake Oconomowac, Wis., next week.

Shea, North American speed skating champion two years ago, was named as a possible competitor in all except the 10,000 meter race. The other tentative assignments:

Potts, 500 and 1,500; Guenther, 500 and 1,500; Farrell, 500; Murray, 500 and 10,000; Dietz, 500 and 10,000; Schroeder, 5,000 and 10,000; Taylor, all four events; Wedge, 500, 5,000 and 10,000; Murphy, 1,500 and 5,000 Bialis, 1,500, 5,000 and 10,000; Jaffee, 1,500, 5,000 and 10,000 and Springer, 5,000 and 10,000.

Coach Taylor, who was present during the committee meeting, said the team was awaiting funds at Speculator and would move to Lake Placid as soon as they were supplied.

In announcing that the tryouts, twice postponed because of warm weather, would not take place at all, the committee declined an invitation of Mayor John Boyd Thacher 2d, of Albany, to conduct them in this city. The invitation, extended through Frederick Futterer, was declined primarily because the American team had to be named by January 21. Albany proposed to have the trials a part of its postponed winter sports program, as originally planned.

The names of all members of the team have been linked many times with skating awards, nearly all having won numerous honors in local, State or national competition. Jaffee was leading in the 10,000 meters race during the 1928 Olympics and an apparent certain winner when the race was called off on account of soft ice.

Springer, Schroeder and Murray have won the "Silver Skates" title at Newburgh on different occasions. Potts was formerly national amateur indoor champion.

The Olympics committee that made the selections is headed by Joseph K. Savage, of New York, as chairman. The other members are Charles H. Goldsmith, of Saranac Lake, secretary; William Carroll Hill, Boston; William J. O'Hare, of Lake Placid, and Frank M. Kalteux, of Chicago.

Lake Placid, N. Y., Jan. 17 (A.P.). The American Olympic bobsled teams will be selected tomorrow at a meeting of the Olympic bobsled committee in New York City. The entries must be filed by January 21 and it will be impossible to hold elimination trials because of the absence of snow here.

Agua Caliente Closing Rumor Branded Foolish

Agua Caliente, Mexico, Jan. 17 (A.P.).—The Agua Caliente Jockey Club will not again close even temporarily, Wirt G. Bowman and James N. Crofton, owners, said today.

The largest crowd that has attended the races since the last Agua Caliente Handicap was run packed the stands today, Bowman said.

"Reports that we are going to close the meeting or reorganize the management of the Jockey Club are so unfounded that they are foolish," Crofton added.

Eight Holdouts in New York Area and More Expected

NEW YORK, Jan. 17 (U.P.).—With eight holdouts already listed among players of the three major league baseball clubs in the New York area, more are expected in the next few days as players in distant parts of the country have time to mull over salary slashes.

Latest acquisitions to the holdout squad were Arthur (Dazzy) Vance, speedball pitcher, who announced he would return his 1932 contract unsigned to the Brooklyn Robins, and Lyn Lary, Yankee shortstop, who sent his contract back unsigned.

Frank Hogan, the colossus of Somerville, Mass., is a semiholdout, or "negotiator," as they are termed this season. Frank announced he will bring his contract to the Giants' offices early this week to argue about it.

Vance told the United Press at Homosassa, Fla., that there would "have to be some dickering about terms before I sign." He declined to reveal the salary given him, but the cut was understood to be about 40 per cent. Last year his salary was $22,500, the highest received by a National League pitcher.

Lary, who has been in New York all winter, explained he had driven in 107 runs last season and had a pretty good year. Consequently, he felt he did not deserve the cut the Yankees were asking him to take.

Other members of the holdout squad are: Bill Terry, Fred Fitzsimmons and Fred Leach, of the Giants; Babe Ruth, of the Yankees, and Babe Herman, of the Robins. Babe Herman, it is recalled, announced he was a holdout before he received his contract.

More members of the Robins are expected to become holdouts within the next week. The contracts were mailed out Thursday, and many players have not received them yet.

D. C. Netmen Lose In Baltimore, 7-2

Hold Indoor League Lead, However, Despite Loss to Mt. Washington.

Baltimore, Md., Jan. 17.—Although the Washington net squad was defeated, 7 matches to 2, by Mount Washington in the Winter Indoor Tennis League today, the two matches taken by the visitors enabled the D. C. team to hold the league lead at the end of the third round.

SINGLES.

Frank Shore, Washington, defeated Page Anderson, 7—5, 1—6, 6—2; William Buchanan, Washington, defeated Frank Roberts, 3—6, 6—4, 7—5; Edward Griepenkerl, Mount Washington, defeated Richard Stevens, 6—3, 6—4; Donald Grove, Mount Washington, defeated Burton Decker, 7—5, 6—2; Dr. Harry Wilson, Mount Washington, defeated Addison Grant, 6—3, 6—4; Joseph Schreiber, Mount Washington, defeated Henry Buchanan, 6—3, 6—2.

DOUBLES.

Page Andrews and Frank Roberts, Mount Washington, defeated William Buchanan and Frank Shore, 4—6, 6—3, 11—9; Edward Griepenkerl and Donald Grove, Mount Washington, defeated Burton Decker and Richard Stevens, 6—3 6—0; Dr. Harry Wilson and Joseph Schreiber, Mount Washington, defeated Henry Buchanan and Addison Grant, 10—8, 6—3.

RAN TACKLES PETROLLE FRIDAY

NEW YORK, Jan. 17 (A.P.).—Two of the hardest punchers among the welterweights, Billy Petrolle, of Fargo, N. Dak., and Eddie Ran, of Poland, collide in the feature match of this week's national fistic card. They will fight ten rounds or less in Madison Square Garden Friday night, with Petrolle the heavy favorite, chiefly on the score of his long experience.

But experience failed to save Tommy Loughran against Steve Hamas last week and Petrolle will have to watch out for the dynamite in the young Pole's fists. Ran, in his last two starts, gave Franta Nekolny a terrific trouncing and knocked out Jimmy McNamara. Petrolle, who seems to improve with age, knocked out Billy Townsend in his last Garden appearance.

Canzoneri Defends Title Tonight.

At Philadelphia tomorrow night, Tony Canzoneri, double title holder, will defend the lesser of his two crowns, the junior welterweight championship, against Johnny Jadick, of Philadelphia. The bout is at ten rounds and Canzoneri's lightweight championship will not be at stake.

Coral Gables Golf Title Won by Goodwin

Coral Gables, Fla., Jan. 17 (A.P.).—An exhibition of sterling golf today won for youthful Tommy Goodwin, of Monroe, N. Y., and Palm Beach, the championship of the annual Miami Biltmore invitation amateur tournament, when he defeated Howard Tryon, Elmira, N. Y., 7 and 6.

Six Indoor Meets Scheduled by G.U.

Millrose Games February 6 Mark Debut; Squad of 20 Drilling.

Six indoor meets have been scheduled for the track team of Georgetown University, which will make its bow in competition on February 6 in the Millrose games in New York. Coach Jimmy Mulligan, former Georgetown track star, who has succeeded John D. O'Reilly at the helm, is drilling a squad of twenty men daily on the outdoor board track.

Following the Milrose meet, Georgetown will send representatives to the West Virginia games, Morgantown, W. Va., February 13; Meadowbrook games, February 20; A. A. U. championships, New York, February 22; Knights of Columbus games, New York, February 27, and I. C. 4-A championships, New York, March 5.

Mulligan hopes to produce a fast mile relay team from Burke, Briggs, Carlin, Bradley, St. Lawrence and Fitzpatrick, and is working with Capt. Jim Kelly, Burke, Downing and Mara to form a 2-mile team.

Al Kelly, indoor 70-yard sprint champion, will participate in the important dashes on the several meet programs.

Casey Declines to Act On Mass. Ring Body

Boston, Jan. 17 (A.P.).—Edward L. Casey, Harvard football coach, has declined his appointment as a member of the Massachusetts Boxing Commission. In announcing Casey's decision last night, Gov. Joseph R. Ely said he did not know which he would name to fill the vacancy left by the retirement of Eugene Buckley.

Buckley had been the object of much criticism a few years ago, when an epidemic of fouls hit the boxing game.

Although Harvard officials said they had no objection to Casey's being a member of the commission, the Crimson, Harvard student daily, printed an editorial in which it demurred at the appointment and termed boxing a "racket."

CUBS WILL PLAY.

The Fort Myer Cubs will meet the First Brethren Church tossers tomorrow night at 8 o'clock in the Eastern High School gym. For games with the Cubs call West 0396 after 6 p. m.

C. U. IS HOST TO LOYOLA TONIGHT

Parrack Gains Lead Over D. C. College Court Scorers.

CATHOLIC UNIVERSITY'S rejuvenated basket ball team returns to action tonight at Brookland in a game with the powerful Loyola College five from Baltimore, starting at 8:30 o'clock. This contest, which opens a busy week for Capital collegians, is expected to prove whether or not Catholic's three victories of last week constituted a flash in the pan.

Loyola surprised Maryland University's Southern Conference champions last Monday by winning, 28 to 27, so tonight's game also offers a basis for comparison of Catholic and Maryland. On the visiting squad are several outstanding performers, most notable of whom is Ken Curtis, a husky center who ranks with the best tap-off player in the South Atlantic region. Vince Carlin, forward, and "Chief" Bender, guard, are others of the Greyhounds who will bear watching.

The presence of Curtis will place the Cardinals at a disadvantage, for there is no center man on Coach Cotton's squad who is tall enough to offer the Loyola star much competition.

Duquesne University's quintet arrives in town from Pittsburgh tomorrow to inaugurate a three-day stand. The Dukes will oppose Georgetown tomorrow night at Tech High. They have shot forward rapidly in the Eastern collelate race this season, and count among their victims Pittsburgh University.

Catholic Entertains Duke.

Catholic will entertain the Dukes Wednesday night at Brookland, and George Washington will face them Tuesday night in the H street gym.

The week's outstanding feature is the Maryland-Navy game scheduled Wednesday night at College Park. The Middie courtmen come to the Capital area for the first time in his-

ROCKVILLE put up a stubborn battle against Concord yesterday to hold the Germans to a 3-to-1 score, but was unable to stop the league leaders in the feature Capital City Soccer League match. Fort Myer also fought valiantly but vainly against Columbia Heights, to lose by the same score. Marlboro nosed out Gaithersburg by the exact count, while British United whitewashed Brandywine, 9 to 0.

Despite the fact that Rockville gave Concord a real contest, a review of the four games played shows that Gaithersburg gave the fans the greatest thrill of the day. The strong Marlboro Club was fortunate to win after 90 minutes of stubborn attacking.

Winners Lead, 1 to 0, At Half.

The winners had a scant 1-to-0 lead at half time, due principally to the sensational goal-keeping of M Griffith, of Gaithersburg.

Few soccer followers expected Fort Myer to hold Columbia Heights to a 3-to-1 score, but the soldiers displayed the best brand of the kicking game of the year for the Virginia post. British United had a field day at the expense of Brandy-

Wins in First Big Money Tourney

By WILLIAM WARNE.

AGUA CALIENTE, Mexico, Jan. 17 (A.P.).—Fred Morrison, a big, strong fellow from Culver City, Calif., won the world's richest golfing stake today, the $15,000 Agua Caliente open, by playing the final 18 holes in 73, one over par, for a 72-hole grand total of 284.

The good-natured professional won the $5,000 first prize in his initial appearance in big money tournament play.

Rain or shine, Morrison, who is 31 years old, was on top of his game during the four days' plays. He shot a 69 in the rain and mud on Wednesday to lead the field by one stroke, took a 74 the next day for a fourth-place tie, and after rain forced a one-day lay-off, came back yesterday with a 68, to take the lead again.

Two strokes behind Morrison came Gene Sarazen, of New York, who won the first Agua Caliente open in 1918, then worth $25,000. Sarazen took second money of $2,500. His final round was played in 72, even par, which, with his previous cards of 70—72—72, gave him 286 strokes.

Dutra Gains Third Money.

Olin Dutra, of Santa Monica, a descendant of the California dons, finished with a par-breaking 71 for the final round to take third place in the tournament and $1,500 of the prize money. He had 73—73—70 on the previous rounds, for a total of 287. He thus celebrated his thirty-first birthday.

Lighthorse Harry Cooper, of Chicago, after being in second place at the end of the third round, faltered on the final nine to take a 76 today. This, added to his previous cards of 72—71—70, gave him a total of 289 and set him down in fourth place, with $900.

Morrison and Sarazen explained the surprisingly better scores made this year. They said the fact that the rules permitted them to improve their lies for the second shot on long holes and the great improvement of the greens accounted for the difference.

Tied for fifth place with totals of 290 were Charley Guest, the Deal, N. J., Beau Brummel, and Willie Goggin, of San Francisco. They won $700 each.

Diegel Finishes Seventh.

Leo Diegel, the home pro who burned up the course on the first two rounds and blew up badly yesterday, finished today with a 76 for a total of 292 and seventh place. His earlier cards were 70—68—78, and his money, $500.

To Fay Coleman, of Culver City, Calif., went the honor of leading the amateurs in the tournament. He finished with a 73, which added to his previous cards of 75—76—72, gave him a total 296.

Morrison displayed a startling game in marching steadily to victory under good and bad conditions. Always able to get length with his driver, big Fred showed a marvelous short game and excellent putting.

Just how steady a game he can play, was demonstrated by the fact that he rounded the first nine today stroke for stroke with par—never over and never under. On the in nine, Morrison went one over par on the first hole, but tightened up and made a birdie 2 on the eleventh.

Morrison's card today:

Par out.....	5	4	4	5—36

GALLAGHER HAS AN ADDED INCENTIVE IN WEINER CONTEST

Marty in Line For Bout in New York

Marini - Stoll Added to Good Card Listed Tomorrow.

IN his ten-round clash with Herman Weiner tomorrow night in Portner's Arena, Marty Gallagher, Washington's leading heavyweight, will have one eye on his foe and the other on a shot at Salvatore Ruggirello. Salvatore is the Italian sensation who crashed into the pugilistic limelight recently on the strength of knockout victories over Walter Cobb and Stanley Poreda.

Gallagher must defeat Weiner to reinforce his efforts to land a match with Ruggirello, whom he knocked out a year and a half ago when Salvatore was just getting a start in the game. Negotiations are now under way with a view to bringing Marty and Salvatore together in a New York ring, but it is almost essential to Marty's success in the negotiations to clear the Weiner obstacle first.

Baltimorean Out to Avenge Two Knockouts.

Weiner never has had any love for Gallagher since that night in 1928, when the Washington Irishman flattened him in the ninth round. This feeling grew more intense after a second defeat of the same nature. And now, realizing what a third victory means to Marty, the Baltimore heavyweight is more than anxious to throw cold water on Gallagher's hopes.

All of which indicates that the Alexandria house of swat will resound with punches tomorrow night. Weiner, vastly improved as a fighter since their last meeting, is confident of stretching Marty out. The Baltimorean in the interim has developed a murderous left hook with which he registered kayo triumphs last summer at the expense of Paul Berlenbach and Mike Sullivan at Mid City arena. This same blow felled Reds Barry three weeks ago for a nine count, the first time the Southeast Redhead ever had been near to a knockout.

The semifinal of eight rounds will introduce Eric Lawson, Newport News light heavyweight, to a local audience for the first time. Lawson, whose rival is Billy Schwartz, hometown pride, is rated one of the most promising boxers in the country in his division. He boasts a long string of victims, including Barry, Jack Denning, Rattle Kitchline and Joe Knight, who shortly will fight Bob Godwin for the Southern 175-pound championship.

Marini and Stoll Matched For 4 Rounds.

The management yesterday matched Marino Marini, slugging southpaw lightweight of this city, and Ray Stoll, a Baltimore boy also of portside persuasion, for a bout of four rounds, which, with another four and a six-rounder will comprise the preliminary card.

Heine Miller, competent local referee, will officiate in place of Charlie Short, who is in the South fulfilling engagements at intercollegiate matches.

PARRACK LEADING COLLEGE SCORERS

The undefeated American University five has but one engagement for the week, being scheduled to play Navy at Annapolis on Saturday.

Wick Parrack, forward of George Washington's unbeaten array, leads all Capital college scorers with a total of 66 points for five games. Forrest Burgess, his teammate "up front," trails him by one point. Wilbur Jensen, Gallaudette forward, holds third place with 61 points, while one point behind is Edgar White, Catholic guard. George Brown, Gallaudet forward and captain, occupies fifth place with a total of 53.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

E. G. (IKE) NORWOOD was raised on a farm 8 miles from Chapel Hill, N. C. (seat of the University of North Carolina). Entering N. C., Norwood won the position of right tackle on the varsity in 1908, although he had never witnessed a game from the sidelines. He played throughout the four quarters of every game on his team's schedule except when the "Tarheels" tackled the University of South Carolina "Gamecocks." In this game he was substituted after North Carolina ran up a score of 22 to 0.

Boots and Saddle's

(Reg. U. S. Patent Office)

—Hialeah Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS

HIALEAH PARK, Miami, Fla., Jan. 17.—THE HEATHEN, a selling plater which became a stake horse and has won many races in Maryland and New York, will make his appearance at Hialeah Park tomorrow in the featured Tallahassee Claiming Handicap at 6 furlongs, with the light impost of 114 pounds, and it appears he has been well placed. THE HEATHEN, which formerly belonged to Harvey Pierce, was an easy winner of several races in Maryland last fall. The chief contender will be PENNATE, from the C. V. Whitney stable, which finished second to Avalon in his last start. PETO, which had early speed against Judge Schilling last week, will be in the money.

FIRST RACE—RABBLE, which was second to Song Hit last out, looks best. SPAN FAIR is consistent, has been in the money several times in good fields, and is the dangerous rival. FAIR BILLLOWS beat SPAN FAIR last time they met, and will give a battle for the purse.

SECOND RACE—On public form, LUCILLE K., easy winner at Tropical Park, figures to win. DARK LOVE, a Kilmer filly, has worked fast. BILLIE'S ORPHAN, a recent winner, should figure in the dash of two furlongs. There may be some exceptionally good ones among those which have never started.

THIRD RACE—ELIZABETH FOX on her last race, in which she was second to Bokie B, is selected. Her last race was in 1:13 and she was beaten by a neck. WESTY'S ROSE, which raced well in the East, seems next best. DELUDE, on her last effort, should hold the others safe.

FOURTH RACE—FRENCH LASS should repeat in the fourth, at a mile. She won Friday last in 1:11 3-5, beating ROYAL RUFFIN, which again will meet the filly, and the finish should be the same. The longer route may favor the Lowenstein horse, but the filly can also go that far. RACCOON is likely to turn in a good race anytime, and he could make it dangerous in best form.

SIXTH RACE—JAZ AGE, which set a record at Tropical Park, is believed best. This will be a harder race. TARNISH has a chance and is rated second, with DEDICATE not to be overlooked for some part of the purse. JAZ AGE ran this distance in 1:12 3-5 at Tropical Park.

SEVENTH RACE — OUTBURST should repeat. She came from behind to beat Vacation a length last week. TOP HATTIE showed recently she was in best form by winning at Tropical Park, and is rated the contender in this. STAR LASSIE may need a race, but her last effort at Bowie was a good one.

GOLDBLATT'S FREE TOSS DECISIVE

Gives Vics 35-34 Win Over Buckeye Malt Five Near End.

JAKE GOLDBLATT'S successful foul toss in the waning moments of play enabled the Vic's Sport Shop quintet to score a 35-to-34 victory over the Buckeye Malt tossers, of New York, in a rough and tumble game played in the Silver Spring Armory yesterday. The game was loosely contested and uninteresting in the first half, with the locals assuming a 21-to-11 lead, but the momentum of the battle increased in the final half and was whirling along at a giddy pace when "Bottle" Cox tooted his tin whistle, signifying the expiration of time.

Goldblatt, who first broke into public print by tossing field goals with one hand from the foul line for a champion Tech High School team a few years ago, was a nemesis to the visitors. He stopped Joe Stefano, a highly touted forward, with a single field goal, and managed to help the winning cause along with 5 points. But to General Joe Sweeney and Dick Streeks go the major portion of the honors for the victory.

The general was the instigator of a passing attack in the second quarter that fairly stood the Malt crew on its head and enabled Vic's to draw out in front. In addition to his smooth floor work, Joe led the team in scoring, tallying 8 points. Streeks took up the burden when Sweeney retired from the fray in the third quarter. Dick thrilled the gathering with a trio of seemingly impossible shots from difficult angles.

Both clubs fought tooth and nail, throwing caution to the wind, in the ebbing moments of the tilt, and it was during one of the frequent scrambles for the ball that Goldblatt was fouled and given his chance to break up the game.

In a preliminary game Fort Myer defeated the Army War College by a 45-to-21 score.

Delaware-Hudson Five Downs Saks

Clothiers Bow, 38-35, in Extra Period; Beall's Foul Knots Count.

A foul shot by Ed Beall, made with his team a point behind and the regulation time up, enabled the Delaware & Hudson quint to tie the Saks Clothiers in the regulation time and then to win out in an extra five-minute period of play, in a District Amateur League game played at the Boys Club yesterday. The final score was 38-35.

Saks led at the termination of the first half by a score of 19-12 and seemed well on its way to its second triumph over the Coalmen this season. The sharpshooting of Jimmy Ryan, who scored 17 points, and Beach, who tallied 10, enabled the eventual winners to approach within striking distance of their opponents.

With only a few minutes of play remaining Cappelli and Colley, D. & H. mainstays, were evicted from the fray via the personal foul route. Beall, the only substitute available, entered the game and the team continued with only four men. Beall was dribbling in to the basket when fouled by Fisher just as the final whistle blew. Ryan and Beach outscored the Clothiers in the extra period to cop the verdict.

BOND MARKET GIVES UP PORTION OF GAINS

New York, Jan. 17 (A.P.).—After a week of steadily rising prices in corporate securities, with the rails leading the forward movement, the bond market took a breathing spell at the week-end and gave up a small portion of its previous gains.

The slackening on Friday and Saturday, however, was accompanied by the withdrawal of offerings with the result that trading became extremely dull and price changes were of such minor character that little headway was made in either direction.

United States Government obligations, which had been falling precipitately in the face of buoyancy in other sections of the list, eventually performed a turn-about-face, and led the list upward until the latter part of the week when they again lost their vigor and declined.

The strength in railway liens was attributed to the general relief among those close to transportation officials that a peaceable settlement would be reached at the wage reduction conference in Chicago between executives and union leaders. Some of the lower-priced mortgages were up more than 25 points above their December lows and when the market eased they gave up but a small part of their advances.

The industrials and utilities followed the rails in the upward movement but in a more orderly manner. Communication issues, together with those of oil and gas and electric corporations, gained moderately.

Much interest was shown in the foreign list, heaviest trading taking place in the German Government 7s and 5½s. Buying of these loans was reported in some quarters to have come principally from Berlin, although American traders are known to have participated to a certain extent. Argentine bonds led the South Americans in recoveries and Japanese obligations advanced substantially.

New bond flotations during the week amounted to $13,340,000 against $2,672,000 the previous week. Last week a year ago there was $282,000,000 of all classes of financing.

Furniture Industry To SpeedUpOutput

Orders From Thousands of Retailers Will Start Factory Revivals.

Chicago, Jan. 17 (A.P.).—The furniture industry will begin to step up production this week to fill orders from thousands of retailers whose stocks are the lowest in 20 years.

This increased output will be the response to sales negotiated by 700 manufacturers whose exhibits at the national furniture show, which ended yesterday at the American Furniture Mart here, drew more than 4,700 buyers from 45 States and Canada.

It will be the first time in several months that the furniture industry has felt the welcome knock of an appreciable volume of new business at its door.

"Indications are that thousands of men employed in the construction of furniture will be recalled to work by factories as a result of sales at the show," V. L. Alward, president of the Mart, said today.

Wall Street Briefs

New York, Jan. 17 (A.P.).—New State and municipal financing scheduled for this week by 33 States and municipalities totals $6,743,777, according to the Bond Buyer. This is the smallest weekly total recorded in recent years, and almost one-half is accounted for by California's offering of veterans' welfare bonds.

The General Public Service Co. announces an offer to purchase $200,000 of its own debentures at 67 for the 5 per cent series and at 75 for the 5½ per cent series. The offer expires January 22.

The committee formed for the reorganization of the Antilla Sugar Co., announced today that substantially all of the property has been acquired by Antilla Sugar Estates, the new company formed under the reorganization plan.

The Detroit Edison Co. reports for 1931 net income of $11,652,915 against $11,486,817 in 1930. Gross earnings were $49,232,501 against $53,706,926 the year before, most of this decline resulting from drop in business of its electricity divisions. The company's surplus at the end of the year stood at $19,607,555.

Plan for Redistricting Stirs Fauquier Citizens

Special to The Washington Post.

Warrenton, Va., Jan. 17.—Fauquier citizens are much exercised about the redistricting plan of the State, giving to Virginia only nine Congressional Districts and nine members in Congress, whereas, heretofore, there have been ten.

Plans for redistricting so far suggested involve the Eighth Congressional, of which Fauquier County is part. The people of Fauquier do not wish to lose their identity nor do they want to lose their representative, Judge Howard W. Smith, now serving his first term.

Luray, Va., Bank Reports Record Business in 1931

Special to The Washington Post.

The directors report that the past year's business has been the best in 40 years. A recent examination disclosed the fact that the bank's securities were "as admirably selected as any similar institution in Virginia." Resources of the bank total more than a million dollars.

Increase in Steel Orders Reported

Cleveland, Ohio, Jan. 17 (A.P.).—More bright spots in the steel industry are reported by the magazine Steel.

"Steel demand is more definitely on the upgrade, stimulated moderately by reviving confidence and the closer approach of seasonal influence," the magazine says in its weekly review. "None of the major consuming groups exhibits a marked tendency toward improvement, but practically all are contributing in larger measure to the rising volume of steel orders."

Steel works operations again made a conservative increase, the rate advancing 1 point to 26 per cent in the past week, the magazine reports. Another slight gain is in prospect this week.

When Washington Was Younger—No. 167

When the British burned the Capitol down in 1814 there was a strong movement to have the seat of Government removed to another city. To keep it here, citizens of the city organized a committee, and funds were appropriated and the above building was erected and called the "Brick Capitol." It was occupied by Congress from 1815 to 1819, when the new Capitol was finished, and during this period President Monroe was inaugurated there.

From 1819 to 1861 the old building was used as a hotel and boarding house, and in '61 it was converted into a Federal prison for confinement of prisoners of war. During this period several executions were held there, the most famous of all being the execution of Capt. Henry Wirz on November 10, 1865. Records at the War Department show that about 14,208 prisoners were confined there. Nineteen days after the execution of Capt. Wirz it was ordered discontinued as a prison by the Secretary of War.

After the close of the Civil War it was divided into three separate dwellings. Chief Justice Fields, of the Supreme Court, occupied one; Mrs. Condit-Smith another, and Gen. Dunn occupied the third. Finally, in 1921, it was bought by Mrs. Oliver H. P. Belmont and presented to the National Woman's Party and became their headquarters.

Many other historical facts are connected with the old dwelling. John C. Calhoun died there in 1850, Anne Royal, of Virginia, edited and printed her weekly—Paul Pry—there, and Gen. Leonard Wood married Miss Louise Condit-Smith there. The old building has now been torn down to make room for the new Supreme Court Building.

HIS ARREST FOLLOWS COMPLAINT BY WOMAN

Suspicious of Actions, She Gives Tip Which Leads to Capture.

George Emmett Hicks, 36-year-old ace "jimmy" thief, who has proved a veritable eel to police, was captured in an apartment house at 2310 Ashmead place northwest yesterday afternoon by a tenant suspicious of his actions, and held until police arrived.

Miss Ann Robinson, occupant of a third floor apartment at the Ashmead place address, heard someone tinkering with the latch on the door to her suite. She investigated and saw a man, believed to be Hicks, disappearing down the hallway. Miss Robinson notified Mrs. R. E. Wilcox, resident manager, and her husband, R. E. Wilcox, investigated.

Held For Police.

Wilcox came upon the intruder on the fire exit stairway of the apartment building. He asked him his business and received the reply he was looking for a friend's apartment. Wilcox told him that he would have to postpone his search until police arrived. Hicks, Wilcox said, at first began to bluster, but after several tenants appeared, began to plead for his release. Third Precinct police hurried to the scene and arrested the man.

Escaped From Hospital.

Early last week Hicks, held under police guard at Gallinger Hospital, escaped in a stolen overcoat and a pair of pajamas when his guard relaxed vigilance for a moment. He was being treated at the municipal hospital for severe injuries received when, several months ago, he leaped from a second floor window at the Twelfth Precinct Station where he was being held in connection with a number of "jimmy" robberies. About a month later he was arrested in a rooming house when neighbors became suspicious hearing his groans.

A number of months ago Hicks was arrested on complaint of a young woman that he was annoying her. This time he obtained his freedom by pleading insanity and was sent to St. Elizabeths Hospital. Later he was released and the charges against him nolle prossed.

Dentists Will Hold Large Clinic Here

Four-State Post-Graduate Event Will Start March 29.

Another bicentennial convention for Washington has been announced by Dr. Arthur D. Weakley, chairman of the clinic committee of the District of Columbia Dental Society, which will hold its "Four-State Post-Graduate Clinic" at the Mayflower Hotel, March 29, 30 and 31. This will bring together several hundred dentists from Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia and the District of Columbia.

The presidents of the three State societies have accepted the invitation of the District of Columbia Dental Society, Dr. Weakley said.

Dr. Martin Dewey, president of the American Dental Society, will attend the large banquet which will be the chief entertainment feature of the clinic, in the ballroom of the Mayflower, March 30. In addition there will be present Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, Secretary of the Interior, the three surgeons general heading the War, Navy and Public Health Services, and other distinguished guests.

Dr. Weakley has divided the clinic committee into nine subcommittees, with over 70 members, to prepare the program. The clinic will be conducted by nationally known dentists.

Man's Eye Injured In Course of Fight

Two Companions Arrested on Charge of Mayhem After Dispute.

As a result of an altercation early yesterday, Henry Cheri, 27 years old, of 7101 Georgia avenue northwest, may lose the sight of one of his eyes.

Cheri was found by his brother, Vincent, in an apartment at 814 M street northwest. He was taken to the Episcopal Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat Hospital for injuries to the eyes.

Police arrested William J. Early, 26 years old, of Norfolk, Va., and Malcolm S. McGee, 22 years old, of 1307 Twelfth street northwest, who were charged with mayhem. The dispute was caused over the disappearance of Early's automobile, police said.

Hit-and-Run Accident Injures Woman, 64

A hit-and-run accident yesterday caused injuries to Mrs. Mary B. Taft, 64 years old, of 1204 Franklin street northeast, who was riding in an automobile driven by Mrs. Lillian Nichols, 44 years old, same address.

The accident occurred at Fourth and L streets northeast, when Mrs. Nichols' automobile was struck by a car driven by a colored man, who failed to stop after the collision. Mrs. Taft is in an undetermined condition in Sibley Hospital under treatment for possible internal injuries.

Tall Cedars Considering Comedy.

A local engagement of "The Medicine Man," a new two-act musical comedy, written and composed by Archy C. New, of Baltimore, and which will be shown in Baltimore on February 3 and 4, is being considered for local presentation by Capitol Forest, No. 104, Tall Cedars of Lebanon. The author of the play formerly was national head of the order.

3 HELD IN REPORTED OIL STATION HOLDUP

Two colored men last night robbed the Independent Oil Co. service station at 820 Michigan avenue northeast of $200, according to a report made to police.

The men appeared at a side door of the station and knocked. Carroll Brothers, 22, of Berwyn, Md., an assistant at the station, opened the door and two colored men walked in, one holding a gun.

They forced Brothers into a corner and compelled Thomas Van Pelt, 22, of 14 East Capitol street, the manager, to open the safe and give them its contents. They also rifled the cash register.

The men, both of whom were about 5 feet 10 inches and were slenderly built, ran from the place and disappeared in a black touring car.

Brothers was later arrested with his brother, Robert O. Brothers, 21 years old, and Thomas J. Van Pelt, manager of the station, and booked at police headquarters for investigation. They were arrested after three different versions of the alleged holdup had been told.

Operator of Sign Shop Ends His Life With Gas

G. Sidney Thompson, 32, of 3522 Quesada street northwest, was found unconscious in a gas-filled room over a sign shop he operated at 1015 New York avenue northwest. He was pronounced dead by an Emergency Hospital interne, who responded with police when neighbors became alarmed at the smell of gas coming from the room.

It was learned by police that Thompson had been worried over financial troubles. Corner J. D. Rogers issued a certificate of death by suicide.

G. P. O. Apprentice Wins Essay Prize

M. A. Smith, Son of Police Officer, Second in Contest of Typothetae.

Milton Albert Smith, apprentice at the Government Printing Office and son of Lieut. M. D. Smith, of the Traffic Bureau, has been awarded second place in a national essay contest, conducted annually, by the United Typothetae of America.

The contest has as its purpose the encouragement of printers' apprentices to study the progress of the craft. The contest is open to apprentices in the printing trade schools and shops of the country. The theme this year was, "The Influence of Franklin's Career on the Printing Craft," and the first prize was awarded a student in a trade school in Los Angeles.

Smith, who lives at 820 Tuckerman street northwest, is a student at Tech High School and is well-known for a marathon bicycle race he staged around the local speedway a few years ago. Fred Hartman, director of the department of education of the United Typothetae of America, who supervised the essay contest, is a resident of Chevy Chase, Md.

Bishop Cites Moral Behind Chest Drive

Citing the Community Chest drive in Washington as an example, "social responsibility" was defined as the great need in the world at present, by the Right Rev. James E. Freeman, Bishop of Washington, in his sermon at the Bethlehem Chapel of Washington Cathedral yesterday afternoon.

"The religion that is needed today is more than a personal thing of moral responsibility and righteous living. It is a thing that transfigures life and translates itself into service and love of one's neighbor," he said.

"The Community Chest represents a very practical way of fulfilling the social responsibility without which no solution of the world's pressing problems can be reached," the Bishop added. "There is a glory in the fact that in this great venture of the Community Chest, Catholic, Hebrew, and Protestant unite in working out the principles of true religion."

Last Trolley Run Made to Alexandria

Trolley commuters to the last ditch, approximately 40 Alexandrians rode the 12:40 for the neighboring city this morning on the final trip of interurban street car service between Washington and Alexandria on the Mount Vernon, Alexandria and Washington Railway.

Numbered among the throng was J. William May, who as a lad of 17, was a passenger on the initial trip of a trolley car between Washington and Alexandria. Mr. May, now grown grey, said his grandfather took him on the first tram to make the trip, which was in 1896.

Cap pistols, cheers, firecrackers, joined in a sendoff for the electric car as Frank A. Beach, of Rosemont, motorman, released the air brakes and turned the go lever and the trolley pulled away. Beach has been a motorman on the line for 17 years.

Robert L. May, president of the railway company, was on hand to watch the departure of the last car. He said he regretted the cessation of service, but added that bus accommodations operated by him, and which will be augmented by a number of new buses, would provide ample transportation facilities. He said he expected to have 54 buses plying between here and Alexandria beginning today.

The old terminal of the trolley company at Twelfth street and Pennsylvania avenue now will be turned over to the Government. The new terminal is at 1013 D street northwest.

The railway company will maintain its line from Washinton Junction which connects with lines from Alexandria and Mount Vernon. Passengers from these lines will be transferred at Arlington Junction to shuttle buses. The shuttles will not be allowed to cross Pennsylvania avenue, however, for the present, although no change will be made in the terminal of the through bus service from Alexandria, which ends at the D street terminal.

Woman, 49, Is Injured In Downtown Accident

Mrs. Bertha Weaver, 49, of 18 Quincy street northeast, sustained a possible fractured pelvis when struck by an automobile as she ran for a street car yesterday afternoon at Fourteenth and F streets northwest.

Taken to Emergency Hospital in a taxicab, Mrs. Weaver's condition was not deemed serious, but she was admitted for treatment. The driver of the car, James Fox, 19 of 1408 Massachusetts avenue northwest, was not held.

Catholics Ask Aid For Poor by Radio

Antagonism Between Capital and Labor Is Decried by Clergyman.

An appeal for aid for the unemployed was made by the Very Rev. Ignatius Smith, O. P., in a radio address yesterday, broadcast during the Washington Catholic Radio Hour, from the Church of the Immaculate Conception over Station WOL.

"Antagonism between capital and labor is the greatest evil that can befall a nation," Father Smith said. "Society tends to disintegration as it departs from the standards of Jesus Christ * * * Social reform can not be accomplished by human law; it must be achieved with the help of the supernatural.

"Millions of the most Christlike citizens of this Nation are at the present moment hungry and in tatters. Many of them are on their knees, as was Jesus Christ, praying, 'Give us this day our daily bread,' and you of political power and financial security are deputized by God Almighty to answer that prayer. There is no time for delay.

"The unfortunate must be helped. They must be given work. They must be fed. Other problems can wait for solution. This one can not." The Rev. Francis J. Hurney, pastor of the church, presided at the services and was celebrant at benediction.

Order Plans Dance at Shoreham.

The Mount Pleasant Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, will hold its annual reception and dance Wednesday evening, January 27, at the Shoreham Hotel. Bridge will be provided for those who do not dance, with prizes for every table and a general door prize. Mrs. Clarence Kleiser is in charge of the bridge party.

CHEVY CHASE GROUP WILL PLAN IDLE AID

Citizens Meet Thursday at Presbyterian Church to Draw Up Program.

Citizens of Chevy Chase, D. C., and neighboring communities will gather Thursday night at the Chevy Chase Presbyterian Church to consider and formulate plans for immediate and practical amelioration of city-wide unemployment.

The meeting will be under the sponsorship of the Men's Bible Class of the Presbyterian Church. The plan of the class for relieving the problem will be presented to the assembled residents by Representative Clyde Kelly, of Pennsylvania, class leader.

Realizing that there are more than 20,000 home owners in the city who have needed work to be done in their houses and who can afford to have this work done now, it is proposed that each resident give this work to unemployed.

Hope For Success.

Although plans of this nature have been proposed many times, members of the class believe they can bring them to completion and greatly relieve the distress.

The plan is to work through the District unemployment relief committee which will furnish the men. As a large proportion of the men registered with the committee are building tradesmen and mechanics, the type of work they can do will be circularized so the citizens will be able to obtain skilled workers.

Has Already Helped.

The class has already helped appreciably in the cause of unemployment. Last week it began furnishing hot coffee and sandwiches to the 30 men working on the landscaping of the Lafayette School on Broad Branch road. After the first day the children of the school took over the problem of sandwiches, bringing them in their own lunch boxes for the men.

Teachers of the school have cooperated also. They prepare the coffee from the materials furnished by the Presbyterian men.

Invitations to the mass meeting Thursday have been sent through the churches of all denominations in the community.

Senate Group to Weigh District Court Choices

President Hoover's appointment of two District Supreme Court justices will be taken up tomorrow morning by Senator John J. Blaine's subcommittee of the Senate judiciary committee, which postponed hearings Friday when other committee assignments interfered.

One witness is known to have asked to speak in opposition to the appointment of F. Dickinson Letts, and a number are expected to indorse his appointment when the subcommittee meets at 10 o'clock. Appointment of Daniel W. O'Donoghue to the District Supreme Court bench will also be considered.

Hearings Planned On Theater Tickets

Hearings on his bill to abolish waiting lines in moving picture lobbies will begin at 2:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon in the Senate District committee room, Senator Robert D. Carey (Republican), Wyoming, announced yesterday.

Considerable opposition has developed among local film interests, and a number of witnesses, including Sidney B. Lust, of the Sidney Lust Theater Corporation, have asked to speak against the measure, which would make it unlawful for a theater to sell more tickets than it has seats.

Opponents will contend that in selling an admission, a theater is not necessarily selling the reght to a seat. Advocates of the bill, including some of Senator Carey's colleagues on the Hill, will charge that theatergoers frequently are misinformed on availability of seats, in making their purchases. Sitting with Senator Carey at the subcommittee hearings will be Senator Lewis (Democrat), Illinois, and Senator Austin (Republican), Vermont.

PRELIMINARY QUIZ ON WELFARE WORK STARTS TOMORROW

EXTENSIVE QUIZ MAY BE RESULT OF RILEY CASE

Palmisano Says He Seeks Testimony on Whether System Is Wrong.

Preliminary inquiry that may lead to sweeping investigation of local welfare activities will be launched at 10:30 o'clock tomorrow morning when four witnesses appear before the special congressional subcommittee looking into the Edith Riley case.

Representative Vincent L. Palmisano (Democrat), Maryland, said the investigation will be a thorough one. He will press witnesses closely to see if "there is anything wrong with the system here," he said. If he finds there is, he will ask the full House District committee to go beneath the surface of conditions, he told The Post.

Bowman Resolution Basis.

Representative Frank L. Bowman (Republican), West Virginia, whose resolution for a widespread inquiry here is before the subcommittee, will not question witnesses appearing for the Juvenile Court, the Public Welfare Board and the Woman's Bureau.

He is opposed to a preliminary investigation of any kind, but thinks the subcommittee should go immediately to the heart of the matter. Chairman Palmisano indicated he will hear any complaining witnesses Bowman may wish to call.

"No Whitewash" Promised

Witnesses already advised to appear include George S. Wilson, director of the Board of Public Welfare; Mrs. Jeanette Ezekials, of the Juvenile Court inquiry department; Mrs. Mary Bayles, chief probation officer of the Juvenile Court, and Sergt. Rhoda Milliken, of the Women's Bureau.

Judge Kathryn Sellers of the Juvenile Court, and Mrs. Mina Van Winkle, head of the Women's Bureau, who would have been called, are ill at their homes.

"There will be no whitewash of any officials," Chairman Palmisano said.

Fingerprint Clew In Bank Robbery

Police Believe Photograph Will Be Valuable if Arrests Are Made.

A photograph of a clear fingerprint from the right hand of one of the four bandits who held up the Washington Mechanics Savings Bank branch Friday afternoon is in the hands of police, it was learned last night.

The print, that of a right-hand finger, was found on the rear vision mirror of the sedan identified as having been used in the robbery. It was photographed, and although it does not compare with any Bertillon method print on file, police believe it will be valuable in identifying at least one member of the gang if arrests are made.

So far, despite general broadcasting of the descriptions of the men to many Eastern cities, no arrests have been reported.

Park Body to Hear Everglades Report

Committee to Recommend Acceptance at Session Set for Today.

Bills now in Congress relating to the extension of the national park system will be presented by Dr. Wallace W. Atwood, president of Clark University, before the trustees of the National Park Association, at their winter conference today at the Cosmos Club.

The committee on the proposed Everglades National Park, consisting of Frederick Law Olmstead and William P. Wharton, of Massachusetts, has just returned from a study of the Florida Everglades by dirigible, boat and aeroplane. These experts are recommending to the National Park Association that the general proposition of the Everglades National Park be approved.

The meeting will determine the progress of the association in relation to the Everglades National Park bill now in Congress.

Among the guests of the trustees will be Frederic A. Delano, president of the American Civic Association; Horace M. Albright, director of the National Park Service; Herbert Evison, National Conference of State Parks; Ovid Butler, American Forestry Association, and Seth Gorden, president of the American Game Association.

Still Confiscated As Flat Is Raided

Search for Housebreaker Leads to Discovery; Liquor Seized.

A search for a suspected housebreaker in a flat at 1211 Otis place northwest yesterday uncovered a 50-gallon still, 234 half-gallon jars of liquor and 1,565 gallons of peach mash.

A detail of Tenth Precinct policemen under Sergt. W. Leach went to the house, expecting to arrest the suspected housebreaker. A young woman came to the door, and when she saw the police she fled.

The woman was later taken into custody, but was released when it was learned that she had no connection with the liquor-making. The owners of the still are being sought by police.

WEATHER DEVICE AND INVENTOR

This new device developed by B. C. Kadel, chief of the instrument division of the weather division, will save meteorologists many steps and some suffering from cold. It is an electric weather vane and will enable weather observers along airways to sit inside their offices and determine the slightest changes in air currents. Mr. Kadel is shown with his new instrument.

JESUS' WORDS CITED IN AFTER-LIFE TALK

Rev. G. E. Schnabel Says Question Confronts Every Human Soul.

"'If a man die shall he live again?' is the one universal question," declared the Rev. George E. Schnabel, of the Albright Memorial Evangelical Church, preaching last night on "Is there life beyond the grave?"

"This question is not confined to race or creed. It confronts every human soul in this 'Age of Doubt;' men are asking it more than ever before. The great minds give it serious thought. The lowest savage vaguely hopes for some assurance. There is room for honest doubt here as there is concerning every great question. As long as the race continues its search for truth there is hope. Unbelief and fanatical orthodoxy alone drive men to despair and close the doors of hope," Mr. Schnabel said.

"Christianity answers the great question of life beyond the grave and brings to human hearts the only comfort that satisfies. The heart of man expresses a longing for eternal life. It is part of man's very nature. It is the enternal in nature crying out to the eternal God. The desire for immortality is God's wonderful gift to man and man will never be satisfied until the longing is fulfilled in life."

"This whole argument can be concluded in the words of Jesus, 'Except a seed fall into the ground and die.' First death and then life. First night and then day. First winter and then spring. Nature never lies," he continued.

"Where are these words comparable to the words of Jesus? Job asks the question and Jesus answers it. He begins His ministry with, 'Blessed are they that mourn for they shall be comforted.' He ends it with—'For I will send you another comforter.' His every word magnified that great truth that there was life beyond the grave. We believe it today because of the assurances that he has given to us."

Elaine Scribner Talks On 'Sunken Continent'

"There is much evidence to show that the Atlantic Ocean was once dry land connecting Europe and America," was the statement made by Elaine Scribner, Smith College graduate, in a lecture last night at the Theosophical Hall, in the Barrister building, on "The Sunken Continent of Atlantis." "According to theosophy, a race which had attained a higher order of civilization lived on this sunken land, and some of the traces of their type of architecture may be found in the gigantic ruins in Egypt, Central America and the Nagkonwat of India," the speaker said.

A map was displayed by the speaker, which, she said gave an idea of the world as it looked at the height of the Atlantean civilization.

SICK WORLD NEEDS JESUS, CLERIC SAYS

"What is the purpose of preaching?" asked the Rev. Hirl A. Kester yesterday at the Congress Street Methodist Protestant Church.

"There are many answers, but the desire of every true minister of the Gospel is to have an earnest desire to be a channel through which God can speak, and lift men and women into a new and blessed life, pictured and lived by Jesus Christ. The Bible is God's sermon to humanity.

The topic of the preacher's sermon was, "The Second Miracle in the Book of John." The text was drawn from the 50th verse of the fourth chapter, "Go thy way, thy son liveth." Dr. Kester said:

"The second miracle deals with a sick child. It is timely because the world at this time is sick and needs a physician. The world is full of quack physicians with their box of pills and a 'cure for every ill.' They stand on every street corner and in public places holding up their pills, debating which pill the patient should take. There is only one Great Physician that can cure this old world. His name is Jesus. Just as truly as he cured the nobleman's son just so he can cure a sick world.

"Many Samaritans believed because of His words. They knew nothing of His miracles. His presence alone filled them with delight. The Galilean faith was of another kind. It was a faith based on miracles—a faith that Jesus deplores. It was a selfish faith.

"Jesus was some distance from the sick boy and the only link was a father's faith and love. But what a link, just what a boy needs. Blessed is that boy that has a father full of such love and faith."

More Asked Now Of Faith, Is Claim

"Expectant Religion" Is Topic Used at Church in Mount Pleasant.

"Expectant Religion," was the subject of a sermon yesterday delivered by Rev. Russell J. Clinchy at the observance of his first anniversary as pastor of the Mount Pleasant Congregational Church.

"Never before has man asked so much of religion," Rev. Clinchy declared, "And never before has he so greatly believed that religion can answer him."

"Man must march toward the kingdom of God or toward chaos," he said. "Nothing but the horizon which encompasses humanity will save us now, and the power to lift that horizon before our eyes lies with religion."

Extra Fete Police Funds to Be Asked

Additional Protection for Bicentennial Visitors Is Being Planned.

Congress will be asked for a special appropriation to defray expense of employment of a considerable force of extra special policemen during the major events of the George Washington Bicentennial celebration this year.

A detailed program of policing the many thousands expected here during the bicentennial is in preparation by members of the George Washington Bicentennial Commission in collaboration with police department officials. Every precaution is to be taken to prevent the operations of pickpockets, confidence men, bandits and others who might pick the gala crowds as a field for their work.

It is the hope of police officials to obtain the services of policemen from other cities such as Richmond, Philadelphia and Baltimore for the bicentennial reinforcements. This plan, employed during the last presidential inaugural, eliminates the use of untrained and inexperienced men for the special police work.

Hebrew Home Elects Officers.

Elections of officers were held and reports of various committees were heard at the annual meeting of the directors of the Hebrew Home for the Aged, yesterday at the Home, 1125 Spring road northwest. The Hebrew Home is a member agency of the Community Chest.

PASTOR FORECASTS FAILURE OF POPE'S PLEA FOR COMBINE

HOLDS HIS ENCYCLICAL MAY AID CATHOLIC UNITY

Disagreement on Tenets to Block One-Church Idea, Baptists Are Told.

"The Protestants can not return to Rome because they can not walk with Rome in harmonious agreement," said the Rev. William E. La Rue, preaching yesterday at the Takoma Park Baptist Church. Dr. La Rue's sermon was on the subject of "Protestant Response to the Pope's Recent Encyclical." He drew his text from the third verse of the third chapter of Amos, "Shall two walk together, except they have agreed?"

"On Christmas Day there was issued from the Vatican a circular letter from Pope Pius XI containing three theses as follows: '1. The defense of the doctrine of the Person of Christ as defined by the Council of Chalcedon of 451 A. D. 2. An exhortation to venerate Mary as the Mother of God as an aid against immoral tendencies of the present age. 3. An invitation to the Protestant and Eastern Orthodox churches to return to the unity of the first church by the acceptance of the supremacy and infallible authority of the Bishop of Rome.'" Dr. La Rue said.

"Generally considered, the various Protestant bodies will receive this invitation with great respect and will deal with it frankly and without prejudice. However, from a theoretical point of view the Protestant churches do not agree with the Pope in his view of the church and its authority.

Self-governing Churches.

"From a historical point of view we know that churches were founded at Antioch, Alexandria, Ephesus, Rome and many other places. These churches had a mutual, helpful relationship to each other, but were self-existent and independent self-governing bodies. Their belief and conduct therefore could not be dictated except by teaching and persuasion.

"From a doctrinal point of view the churches outside the Church of Rome have been unable to agree with its teachings. Protestants generally hold the doctrines of the Christian faith to be few and simple. Love to God and man, faith in God and belief in Christ as the Son of God, repentance from sin, baptism as an act of obedience to the example and command of Christ, the Lord's Supper, as instituted and celebrated by Christ Himself; the building of congregations of believers and the building of Christian character, the sanctity of the home and obedience to civil rulers, with liberty, fraternity and equality among all men.

"The Protestant churches have continued to function successfully on the basis of such fundamental beliefs. While they have not attained organic unity they have achieved a unity of understanding and of spiritual intercouse of marked degree. At any rate it is generally believed that it is far better to have liberty of conscience with inorganic unity than coercion of conscience with organic unity.

Declination Predicted.

"Therefore it is safe to predict that there will be a general but respectful declination to the Pope's invitation. The Protestants do not agree with the Pope in regard to the standard of authority. The Roman Catholic claim the authority resides in the church. The Protestants claim that the authority for their faith and practice is contained in the Bible.

"In the matter of doctrines the Protestants find themselves in disagreement with the Roman Catholic Church. They can not assent to the Pope's claim of infallibility. Knowing that it is human to err, Protestants feel that no human being can be credited with being infallible.

"Protestants do not agree to the doctrine of the temporal power of the Pope. In the main, Protestants stand against the unity of church and state. Protestants believe that the church should be loyal and helpful to the state in every way, but that neither should use the other to further its own interests. Protestants believe that the modern concept of democracy has been achieved by the triumph of the principle of the separation of church and the state.

Disagree on Mass.

"Protestants do not agree with the Church of Rome regarding the sacrifice of the mass. They do not regard the observance of the Lord's Supper as a sacrifice. By them it is regarded as a fitting and beautiful symbolic ordinance to be reverently celebrated in remembrance of Christ's sacrifice of Himself which was made once and for all.

"Protestants can not agree with Catholics regarding the use of images. To them it seems to be clearly forbidden in Holy Scripture that images of any kind are to be used in connection with worship.

"Protestants do not believe that there is any warrant in Scripture or reason for the practice of celibacy as enforced upon the priesthood of the Roman Catholic Church.

May Aid Catholic Unity.

"In view of these fundamental disagreements it would appear that the Pope's appeal will be without effect so far as Protestants are concerned. It may have the effect of strengthening the resistance of his own flock against the forces of disintegration which are working within it. The church and state doctrine is in jeopardy these days by the recent disestablishment of the Roman Church of Spain. Italy keeps the Vatican in a perpetual state of anxiety. Mexico has decreed that there be a limitation of one priest to every fifty thousand of the people. The changes in the attitude of other countries must be such as to oppress the soul of the Pope.

"The Pope has entitled his encyclical 'Lux Veritatis,' which means 'The Light of Truth.' Protestants hold it as a God-ordanied right and privilege to walk in the light of truth as they understand it and as it is exemplified in the life of Jesus Christ," the Rev. La Rue concluded.
